BARE NEW TWIST IN MURDER

Death of Pastor and Choir Singer Due to Mistaken Identity

POLICE GRILL BOY WHO FOUND BODIES

Jealousy Over Girl Leads to Killing of Church Folk, Claim

NEW BRUNSWICK, N. J., Oct. 9.—Clifford Hayes, 19, will be charged with the murder of Rev. Edward W. Hall, millionaire pastor, and Mrs. James Mills, his choir leader, according to an official statement issued at noon today by Prosecutors Beekman and Strickler.

The statement said that Raymond Schneider, 22, will be held as a material witness and that the process against Hayes will be issued in Somerset county wherein the bodies were found, this afternoon.

Prior to the prosecutors' statement, Schneider was reported to have signed a statement charging that Hayes shot Mrs. Mills and Hall by mistake, thinking the woman was Pearl Bahmer, 15, daughter of a saloon keeper, with whom Hayes was in love.

Both Hayes and Schneider are in custody pending the formal charge against Hayes. Arrest of the chums came after an all night grilling.

Schneider and the Bahmer girl were the ones who discovered the bodies and reported their find to the police. Both had been quizzed previously to today and Schneider was understood to have maintained he had no knowledge of the crime other than that he stumbled onto the bodies, laid out side by side, with Mrs. Mills horribly mutilated.

Schneider in his new statement, according to report, declared that Hayes was jealous of Miss Bahmer and that while walking with Schneider the night of September 14—the night of the murder—he saw Pearl with a man who appeared to be intoxicated.

The two young men followed the pair and watched them disappear in the shadows under a crabapple tree on the abandoned Phillips farm.

They followed and then, according to the alleged statement, Hayes drew a revolver and opened fire, supposedly at Pearl and the drunken man. When the boys examined the bodies, however, they found it was the clergyman and the choir singer who had been shot.

This alleged statement, however, fails to explain how Mrs. Mills' throat came to be cut, how it was that the bodies were "laid out" with artistic precision under the tree, and why the minister's pockets were rifled and love notes found torn up and scattered on the ground.

Officials were reticent regarding the finding of the revolver, stating the gun had been recovered and that the minister's watch—stolen from his corpse—had come into possession of police.

"My God, what a mistake!" cried James Mills, the church janitor and husband of the slain woman, when he heard the report of the solution of the crime.

The janitor again insisted that he believed in his wife.

"Eleanor was a good wife," said Mills. "I know that there was nothing between Rev. Hall and her. Rev. Hall was such a good man and always a friend of mine."

Mrs. Hall, the wealthy widow of the pastor, denied herself to interviewers.

DELAY RETURN TRIP OF ARMY DIRIGIBLE

PASADENA, Oct. 9.—Because of a minor defect in one of the new motors in the army dirigible C-2, the big craft will not start on its eastward tour tonight, as had been announced. Instead, it was officially stated at Ross Field today, the ship will take the air either Tuesday or Wednesday. This will probably make it impossible for Major Strauss and his crew to reach Detroit, as planned, on October 14.

Espee Wins Battle In Supreme Court for $10,000,000 Oil Field

WASHINGTON, Oct. 9.—The People's Development company today in the supreme court lost its legal fight to knock out the title held by the Southern Pacific railroad to five tracts of oil land in Fresno county, California, valued at more than $10,000,000.

Today's decision was in affirmation of rulings made in the case by the courts of California.

The People's Development company discovered oil on the disputed lands in June 1909, and located placer claims. When the Southern Pacific which had patents to land under the railroad patent act, tried to oust it, the development company went into court, claiming that the patent given the railroad excluded rights to oil that might be found on the tracts.

Five sections of land are involved, all in the Coalinga oil fields.

BRITISH TO TEST BAN ON BOOZE CARGO

Steamship Lines to Send Vessels to United States With Liquor Aboard.

LONDON, Oct. 9.—Seven ships of the Cunard and White Star lines are to sail for America this week fully stocked with liquor to test the Daugherty order prohibiting ships from entering American ports with booze on board.

This announcement was made following a conference of shippers who met to decide what course to pursue. The names of the ships to be used in the test were not made known.

TOKIO, Oct. 9.—American and Japanese steamship men in Japan today professed amazement over the orders from Washington against sale of liquor on American ships or on steamships operating into American ports.

Rumors were going around that Japanese lines running into Seattle will change their routings so that they will call first at Victoria, B. C. Such a plan, it was believed, would make it possible for them to sell liquor at sea and leave their liquor stocks in storage in British Columbia before continuing on to an American port, picking up the liquor again on the return trip.

Those who task it is to unravel the tangled skeins that mesh cases of self-murder found but little to enlighten them.

They learned only in a vague way something of the fate of Minnie Strong, learned of the brother and where he lived, learned indefinitely of rumors that three years ago she and a sister came to Long Beach and failed gradually as writers of fiction.

Linked to this story was the report that the sister lost courage and had abandoned the ceaseless struggle to live. There followed her into the grave, Minnie Strong's sobbing prayer that she too would not break under the strain and take the life that had meant nothing but unhappiness to her.

Battle is Fruitless
Three months ago Minnie Strong's fate was in her pocket and her trunk filled with man's letters, came to Santa Ana. Always she fought despondence, discouragement, loneliness, but these won in the end.

Such was the intangible background of the pitifully impotent scene at the funeral chapel this afternoon.

The Rev. F. T. Porter, pastor of the First Christian church, spoke briefly, basing his sermon on the question, "Of What Does Success in Life Consist?"

Sometimes, he said in effect, we think we have failed, when as a matter of fact we may have during our lives wielded unsuspected influences for good. Minnie Strong was an authoress, he reminded his hearers, and it was therefore not improbable that she left behind, in her manuscripts, messages of that happiness that she could not herself gain.

And so the body was removed to the Santa Ana cemetery.

EXPECT 500 REALTY MEN HERE

LAST RITES HELD FOR SUICIDE

Fate Writes Final Chapter In Life of Despondent Authoress

They buried Minnie Strong today.

The gnarled, inexorable fingers of fate held the pen which wrote the final, poignant chapter in the tragedy of the life of one who tried to walk the earth with beauty—and failed.

The sunlight filtered fitfully into the chapel of Smith and Tutill this afternoon, but the smiling beams found there no relatives of the dead woman—found not even a friend to shed a tear.

There were flowers on the bier of the body that had lain there since the day, September 19, when the police had found Minnie Strong, a suicide in a local rooming house. But the flowers were not many—merely a few that charitable organizations, sweetly compassionate, had sent there.

Other Life Goes On
Outside the chapel, life went bustling on. Automobiles went whirling by. Huge trucks rumbled, men and women laughed, little children babbled happily.

A yellow slip of paper had its influence upon the simple ceremony inside. A telegram it was from the dead woman's brother, John Strong, at Nowata, Okla. "Bury her at county expense," it read.

Its laconic irony hinted that perhaps fate had leered ghoulishly upon that brother also, had, possibly, played with his destiny and led him into the dark land of misfortune.

Minnie Strong had tried to walk with beauty. Into the many manuscripts that the police found in her trunk she had poured out her soul, in the hope that publishers might see fit to give to the world, her dreams of life-as-it-should-be.

Life is Failure
She sought happiness, and the means of sustaining life, by mingling others' happy. She failed. Publishers, one by one, day after day, month after month, returned to her the stories which she sent them.

Those who task it is to unravel the tangled skeins that mesh cases of self-murder found but little to enlighten them.

They learned only in a vague way something of the fate of Minnie Strong, learned of the brother and where he lived, learned indefinitely of rumors that three years ago she and a sister came to Long Beach and failed gradually as writers of fiction.

Given Senate Seat As Noted Georgian Solon Passes Away

MRS. W. H. FELTON, Aged 87, of Cartersville, Georgia, who has been appointed by Governor Hardwick to fill the unexpired term of Senator Tom Watson, deceased.

Though Mrs. Felton is the first woman so honored she will never occupy a senate seat, since a successor will be elected before the senate reconvenes. She will enjoy the pay and prerogatives of a senator until her successor is named.

White declared that everyone of the eighty-three men at the conference indicated they were coming and that others from the boards they represented would be present.

Business sessions were held Saturday night and Sunday forenoon, the latter being necessary because of failure to clear the program at the Saturday evening meeting.

Amendments to be submitted at the November election were discussed. Some were approved and others were rejected. Among those endorsed was the soldiers' bonus bond proposition. The conference also tendered free facilities of the state organization and the individual boards in making appraisals on properties ex-service men may want to buy under the provisions of the bond act.

The legislative committee of the state association was directed to prepare an amendment to the state real estate law providing for a test of applicants for licenses. Realtors assert that in order to elevate the profession and at the same time protect clients, men selling real estate should know the fundamentals of the various types of paper that have to be drawn in a real estate transaction.

The realtors were guests of the Southern California Edison company on a visit to one of its building projects in which it will transfer water from the San Joaquin river through a tunnel for the development of hydro-electric power.

R. H. Ballard, of the company, addressed the conference on the plans of the company for developing power in the state.

Bird, V. Beebe and J. S. Howard, of Anaheim, and J. A. Armitage, of Sunset Beach, are other Orange county men who attended the conference.

2 MEN INJURED IN STAGE-AUTO CRASH

George Curtis and John Sables were at their homes in Los Angeles today, following their dismissal last night from the Community hospital where they were taken for treatment following an accident near San Juan Capistrano in which their car and a Pickwick stage figured yesterday.

The stage and the touring car collided, it was reported, the smaller car turning over. Both occupants sustained minor lacerations which were treated at the hospital. Their car was extensively damaged.

"30" BULLETINS

Preparations were being made today to extradite E. L. Wells, wanted by Orange county authorities for the alleged embezzlement of several hundred dollars from C. V. Davis, local bottle works proprietor. Wells is being held in Homer, La., where he was taken into custody at Sheriff C. E. Jackson's request. The alleged embezzlement took place August 24. Since that time a country-wide search for Wells has been in progress.

AUTO EMBEZZLEMENT CASE IS DISMISSED

C. H. Darling, Anaheim man charged with the embezzlement of a touring car from the Anaheim Buick agency, was free today, his case having been dismissed when it came before Justice Leo Goepfer for preliminary hearing at 10 a. m. today.

Darling was arrested after it was complained that he purchased a large touring car from the Anaheim agency and then sold it, while mortgaged to the Taggart Motor company of Fullerton.

It is understood that he made settlement, causing the district attorney to move dismissal of the case.

STATE MEET WILL LURE THROG

Arrangements for Annual Conclave Completed at Huntington Lake

Five hundred realtors are coming to the annual convention of the California Real Estate association to be held here in December.

Everett A. White, regional director of the state association, and Freeman H. Bloodgood, president of the Santa Ana Realty board, brought this word to Santa Ana today upon their return from the realtors' conference held at Huntington Lake, near Fresno, Saturday.

White declared that everyone of the eighty-three men at the conference indicated they were coming and that others from the boards they represented would be present.

BANKERS IN BIG SESSION OPTIMISTIC

Speakers and Delegates at Del Monte Convention Hold Outlook for Business Good.

DEL MONTE, Calif., Oct. 9.—Optimism was the keynote at the opening session today of the convention of the American Investment Bankers' association here.

Speakers discussing numerous phases of the commercial, industrial and economic problems of the country, all seemed to see a bright outlook for the coming year.

Howard F. Beebe of New York, president of the association, presided while William Sproule, president of the Southern Pacific railroad delivered the opening address.

Committees and official reports took up most of the remainder of the morning session while golf was to be the principal feature of the afternoon.

GEORGE HECKE TO BE GUEST OF HONOR

Sixty men, representative of agriculture and business interests throughout the county, will assemble at St. Ann's Inn here tonight at 6:30 o'clock for a dinner at which George H. Hecke, director of the state department of agriculture, will be the guest of honor, it was announced today.

Commenting on the fact that this will be the first time that Hecke has been in Orange county, D. Eymann Huff, El Modena, manager of the David Hewes Realty corporation and prominent citrus grower, said:

"It is believed that this is an exceptional opportunity to learn from Hecke at first hand the activities of his department."

"In addition, it will enable us to present to him the accomplishments in Orange county along agricultural lines, and also what it is hoped to accomplish in the future."

Hecke among other things will touch upon "The Bureau of Plant Quarantine" and the necessity of vigilance in all lines of necessary quarantine to keep out such dreaded pests as the "Mediterranean Fruit Fly," which is one of the worst enemies of the horticultural interests of the state.

"Hecke is a man of wide experience in agricultural lines, and in addition is a farmer himself, having many hundreds of acres of grapes and other deciduous fruits as well as being active in other lines of farming," Huff said. "The state department of agriculture under his direction has grown leaps and bounds and has rendered an efficient service largely because Hecke, being an experienced farmer, is always looking to serve those interests, giving of his time and energy without stint."

A partial list of those who will attend the dinner follows:

D. Eymann Huff, Orange; George H. Hecke, Sacramento; Lee A. Strong, Sacramento; Glen Wiley, Los Angeles; C. E. Tuttle, Tustin; C. V. Newman, Tustin; W. G. Mitchell, Tustin; George Jeffrey, Tustin; Ray Lambert, Tustin; J.

PLANS FOR PEACE IN DANGER

Kemalist Armies Now Within Day's March of Constantinople

ENVOYS GATHER TO SETTLE DIFFERENCES

Lloyd George Facing Downfall as Opponents Attack Policies

PARIS, Oct. 9.—Ferry service across the Straits of Bosphorus to Constantinople was stopped today by the British when the Kemalists took up positions within a day's march of the city, according to word received here from Constantinople.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Oct. 9.—Turkish forces today withdrew from Ismed in the neutral zone, it was announced here.

MUDANIA, Oct. 9.—Kemalist legions were within a day's march of Constantinople as allied generals met with Ismet Pasha in a renewed effort to untangle the Near Eastern problem today.

In spite of the promise of Ismet, Turkish Nationalist representative, to cease the concentration of troops in the neutral areas, the Kemalists surged into the forbidden area.

Turkish cavalry has reached Shile and Yarnisse, both places far within the neutral zone near the Bosphorus, at the right of the sea of Marmora. Yarnisse is within a day's march of Constantinople. The cavalry is also nearing Karayakobi, which is in the same area.

The concentration in the neutral zone on the west of the Sea of Marmora in the vicinity of Chanak is also continuing. In this area infantry has replaced cavalry, which is taken to mean that the Turks intend to dig in to hold their possessions.

The latest allied plan of peace, which includes the immediate withdrawal of the Greeks from Thrace and the occupation of that territory by the allies for a period of one month, after which a Turkish civil administration may be set up, was presented to Ismet by the military representatives of Great Britain, France and Italy.

The situation was somewhat relieved when the Greek cabinet instructed the Greek representative to inform the allies that the government would order its nationals out of Thrace. The Greeks, however, ask for two months, instead of one, to evacuate.

RENEW DRIVE TO UNSEAT BRITISH PREMIER

LONDON, Oct. 9.—Possibility of the overthrow of the Lloyd George government next month when parliament convenes, was discussed today by opponents of the prime minister.

Liberal and Conservative anti-Georgians saw an advantage in recent attacks on the premier because of his Near Eastern policies.

The attack in the press is led by J. L. Garvin, writer for the Observer, whose opinion carries great weight as a critic of the government.

The Observer and many other papers, some of them that have long been friendly to Lloyd George are clamoring for a change in government following the militant attitude the cabinet has taken in dealing with the Kemalists in the Near East. The recent manifesto issued from 10 Downing street, urging the dominions to aid in repelling the Turks from the neutral zone, is blamed for precipitating the present attacks on Lloyd George. It was charged that in issuing the manifesto the premier usurped the duties of Lord Curzon, foreign minister.

Curzon is given credit for forcing the cabinet to adopt a conciliatory attitude toward the Turks, which was evidenced in two allied notes despatched to the Turkish Nationalists.

Curzon is credited with getting the government out of the troubles that the Lloyd George policy gets it into.

PAINS ACROSS SMALL OF BACK Husband Helped in Housework.
Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Made Her Strong

Foster, Oregon.—"I used Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for pains across the small of my back. They bothered me so badly that I could do my work only with the help of my husband. One day he saw the 'ad.' in our paper telling what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound was doing for women, so I began to take it. It has helped me wonderfully. I am feeling fine, do all my housework and washing for seven in the family. I have been irregular too, and now am all right. I am telling my friends what it has done for me and am sure it will do good for others. You can use this letter as a testimonial. I will stand up for Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound any time."
—Mrs. M. J. JUNKIE, Foster, Oregon.
Doing the housework for a family of seven is some task. If you, as a housewife, are troubled with backache, irregularities, are easily tired out and irritable, or if you suffer from any of the ailments caused by some weakness, give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial. Let it help you.

ten hours a day. Now we are outraged that a few states allow children to be employed at all, and are going to pass a constitutional amendment empowering congress to impose on these few states the decency which all the others have imposed on themselves.

A new power house has just been opened in California which generates nearly 100,000 horsepower of electricity by water power and transmits it 200 miles at the enormous pressure of 220,000 volts. And we have seen so many miracles that we accept this one with merely passive interest. If it were transmitted a thousand miles at a million volts, only the experts would realize the tremendousness of the achievement.

There are old men still alive who can remember when an English laborer lived like a Chinese coolie. They are children already alive who will see the Chinese coolies, living like white men. There are men alive who remember when most of the work of the world was done by the muscles of men and of oxen. Now we send the power of a hundred thousand horses over two hundred miles of copper nerve, by the touch of a finger. "The world do move."

TELEGRAM BLOCKS MARRIAGE PLANS

"Los Angeles, Oct. 7, 1922.
"To County Clerk, Santa Ana, Cal.
"Charlotte Passino and A. J. O'Connor in turning car on way there to get marriage license. My daughter is only 15. Want to think over before giving my consent. Don't issue license till arrival of mother."

"A. J. PASSINO."
A telegram, worded thus, beat Allan James O'Connor, 1700 Anita place, Los Angeles, and Charlotte Natalia Passino, 2816 Pasadena avenue, Los Angeles, to County Clerk Backs' office by five minutes Saturday.

When the couple stepped up to the counter with an application blank all filled out showing the girl's age to be 18, Backs produced the telegram.

The young people were astounded. They said they could not understand what had happened; everything was all right when they left home.

They came back twice during the day, wondering if "mother" had come. She had not and did not, so far as Backs knows. At least, no license was issued.

POLICE SHOOT DOWN 2 HOLDUP SUSPECTS

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 9.—Ray Collins and Martha McGowan were shot, Collins perhaps fatally, and four companions escaped shortly before noon today when the six men were caught by police in a supposed attempt to rob a payroll car of the Dairy Delivery company, carrying $20,000. No loot was obtained. One other man was injured but managed to escape.

Two members of the sextet made good their flight by leaping into an automobile, and at the point of revolvers forced the chauffeur to drive them from the scene.

TACOMA WOMAN, 80, IS BURNED TO DEATH

TACOMA, Oct. 9.—Mrs. Mary Hilburn, age 80, was burned to death here this afternoon. The aged woman, who was almost blind, was alone in the house when she tried to build a fire in the kitchen stove. Her dress caught fire and she was so seriously burned that she died.

FILE INFORMATION.
Information was filed today by the district attorney's office in the case of Thomas Hogan, charged with driving an automobile while under the influence of intoxicating liquor. Hogan was arrested several weeks ago following an alleged disturbance at Seal Beach.

C. E. ENDS BUSY SESSION HERE LAST NIGHT

With nearly 1,000 in attendance at the final session last night of the thirty-third annual Orange County Christian Endeavor convention was brought to a close.

This is said to have been the most successful endeavor convention ever held in the county.

The Rev. Stanley H. Bailes, formerly of this city, now pastor of the Grace Presbyterian church of Los Angeles, preached the closing sermon at the First Presbyterian church, making a stirring appeal to the young people of the convention for service and Christian work.

The special meetings held yesterday afternoon were unusually successful, according to the reports.

Chinese Talk Popular.
Miss Donaldina Cameron of the Presbyterian Rescue Mission for Chinese Girls in San Francisco, addressed the young women's meeting in the Sunday school room of the convention church and to a crowded audience told the story of her work with the little Chinese girls, describing their rescue, education and how they are placed in good homes.

It was said that her talk was one of the most impressive of the entire convention.

The afternoon mass meeting yesterday was addressed by "Bob" Shuler, pastor of the Trinity Methodist church in Los Angeles, and endeavorers were enthusiastic in their comment after his inspiring talk.

His subject was "Challenge to the Heroic" and his talk was marked throughout by a strong appeal for clean living, hard work for the things that are worth while, and a good fighting spirit among endeavorers.

After the election of officers at the Saturday night's meeting the Rev. S. T. Hilgendorf, pastor of the Euena Park Congregational church, gave the address of the evening.

Officers are Installed.
New officers for the coming year who were installed at the praise service last night are:

LONG BEACH ELKS TO JOIN ANTLERED MARCH

LONG BEACH, Oct. 9.—The Long Beach Elks will take part in the big parade at Santa Monica Saturday, October 14. The parade is part of the program of events at the state convention of Elks to be held at Santa Monica.

Those marching will wear white trousers and dark coats and carry canes decorated with Long Beach banners, according to the plans arranged by the committee in charge. Full particulars will be made known at the meeting next Monday night.

S. A. PIONEER IS SUMMONED BY DEATH

Arrangements were being made today for funeral services to be held at 2:30 p. m. tomorrow at the Mission Funeral home of Mills and Winbiger for Mrs. Fannie S. Greenleaf, who died yesterday at her home, 2134 Greenleaf street, aged 67 years.

Mrs. Greenleaf had been bedridden for eight months, and her death was not entirely unexpected.

A native of California, born near Sacramento, in 1855, she was also a pioneer of Santa Ana, to which city she came with her family in 1882. Her parents later moved to Sonoma, where she grew to womanhood and graduated from the Sonoma academy.

She was married at Hollister, June 19, 1877, to Dr. E. F. Greenleaf. Following the wedding Dr. and Mrs. Greenleaf moved to New Idria, San Benito county, where Dr. Greenleaf practiced his profession.

When the family moved here in 1882 it settled on the ranch on which the deceased lived up to the time of her death. She is survived by her sons, Walter, Frank and Clifford A. Greenleaf; S. T. Moore and W. S. Moore, Gilroy, brothers; M. M. B. Skovall, Williams, sister, and Charles F. Greenleaf, grandson.

A woman of high attainments and lovable disposition, Mrs. Greenleaf endeared herself to those who had the good fortune to make her acquaintance, with the result that hundreds of persons in this city today mourn her passing almost as deeply and sincerely as do the members of the immediate family.

She was a member of the order of Eastern Star.

ALIEN WITH LIQUOR DENIED CITIZENSHIP

BIDDEFORD, Me., Oct. 9.—United States citizenship is too great a gift to be given to the alien who appears for his final papers with the taint of alcohol upon his breath, according to a ruling of Chief Justice Leslie C. Cornish, of the Maine Supreme court, who set a new standard for naturalization when he refused to admit a man on these grounds.

The ruling was made in the case of a Springvale man, who applied for citizenship at Alfred where the chief justice is presiding over the September term.

"Are you a drinking man," asked the court.

"I am not," replied the applicant.

"Have you been drinking today?"

"No, sir."

"Your breath smells as though you had been drinking and I will deny the application," ruled Chief Justice Cornish.

"WORTHLESS" MONEY IS VALUED AT $2000

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., Oct. 9.—Finding that he had thrown away in fun unsigned national bank notes amounting to $2000, believing them to be worthless, William B. Soucia, foreman of a bridge construction gang, today admitted that the joke was on him when he was informed that the notes were negotiable. The bills were found tucked away in a bridge pier that was being raised and were part of a lot of $10,000 believed to have been stolen while enroute from Washington to banks in western Massachusetts.

Foreman Soucia and two other workmen, noting that the bills were unsigned, amused themselves for several days by throwing them in the street and watching persons scramble for them. They were in denominations from $5 to $20.

BIG ORANGE ORCHARDS IN CERRO VILLA SOLD

The C. B. Berger Co., realtors at Anaheim, have sold two orchards in Cerro Villa, the Valencia orange subdivision they are handling for the Bixhys of Long Beach, to Harold T. Brewer of Placentia. Brewer has sold his ten acre full bearing orchard and beautiful home near Placentia to Albert Crimp of Orange.

The Chimps will take possession of the Placentia grove on November first and the Brewers will stay at Balboa while a new home is being built on their newly acquired grove in Cerro Villa, which consists of twenty acres.

EDEL FORD PUTS UP $10,000 FLYER PRIZES

DETROIT, Mich., Oct. 9.—To refute charges by Henry Woodhouse of New York that aviation interests here had failed to post prize money to be distributed among winners in the aviation flights of the national air races to be held next month, Edel B. Ford today deposited $10,000 to guarantee the fund. The deposit virtually covers all money prizes to be offered at the meet.

PILOT, IN CRASH, IS SUMMONED

Coroner C. D. Brown was prepared to hold an inquest at 3 p. m. today over the body of Refugio Elias, 17, who died yesterday at a community hospital, where he was taken a week ago, following an accident at El Modena in which he was thrown from his motorcycle.

According to reports made to the sheriff's office at the time of the accident, Elias and a companion were riding on a motorcycle, when a passing automobile, said to have been driven by Floyd Kench, son of N. L. Kench, manager of the Lyric theater here, collided with them. The boys were thrown heavily to the ground, Elias sustaining a fractured skull and other injuries.

The inquest will be held at Smith and Tutthill's funeral chapel.

EVERYTHING IN STYLES SHOWN IN GOTHAM

NEW YORK, Oct. 9.—Visiting the fall fashion promenade staged in New York by the National Garment Manufacturers Association, with Alice in Wonderland—a wonderland where mannequins of unusual height gowned in exaggerated versions of the present modes passed in endless procession.

It was a stupendous display of fashions as they exist in the minds of the designers, rather than as they will be worn. One felt that one was gazing through a glass that magnified in color and detail the fashions of the moment. Side panels draped upon the floor, draped skirts were draped until one feared to gaze, circular skirt that measured twelve yards around were followed by hems that couldn't boast of a yard. The silhouette as presented at this review was decidedly varied although there is no doubt but that the straight-line silhouette ruled.

Out of the whole, one finally decided that the fall tendencies were falling hems, falling panels. We will no longer be able to get a dress out of three and one-half yards of material, that's certain. Some of the circular panels alone require that amount of cloth.

The two distinctly opposite silhouettes shown—the full, circular model and the living, tightly draped model are presumably designed for two different types of women. It is for us to decide to which type we belong. The long, draped, follow-the-figure effects certainly do not apply to every type of figure. Brocade velvets and metallic cloths are among the newest of these. Often they are fur-lined so that they may be reversed. Linings play as important a part as do the wraps themselves and often two or more colors are arranged in design so that when the wrap is thrown back the wearer is surrounded by a rainbow-like background.

BOLD THIEVES TAKE TRAILER AND LEAVE ONLY TRAILS BEHIND

City and county officials were today searching for the ultra-bold thieves who last night removed a light trailer from the rear of D. O. Minter's automobile as it stood beside his home on West Fifth street.

According to Minter, the trailer was securely fastened to the car. Tracks in the sand showed that the thieves unfastened the trailer, pushed it to the paved highway and disappeared.

Minter describes the trailer, which he valued at $125, as being about six feet long, with a serial number, 3781, mounted on a plate in the rear.

COMMUNITY SERVICE LEADER IN ANAHEIM

(Special to The Register)
ANAHEIM, Oct. 9.—Charles M. Anderson, organizer for the community service, is in the city in the interest of his organization. A meeting of parties interested will be held at the city hall at 7:30 this evening to discuss and outline plans. F. A. Backs, as chairman of the initiator's committee, has invited a number of local people to be present.

Anderson announced today that he will conduct a ten days campaign to raise funds for providing public playground facilities for this city.

He will also operate at Fullerton and Whittier.

BARBER SHOP SOLD.
ANAHEIM, Oct. 9.—Final arrangements were made today for the change in ownership of the barber shop located at 162 West Center street, formerly owned by J. D. Van Hook. The new owners, Carl Venatta and Dan Higgins, took complete charge today and were busy changing things in order to give the best service to their patrons.

and every conceivable color is used. Velvets in vivid tones also promise to hold an important place in the evening apparel. These are all made on simple lines with no trimming—save buckles of diamonds or cluster pearls where the drape is held in place.

Evening wraps have never been so exquisite in coloring or texture as they will be this coming season. Brocade velvets and metallic cloths are among the newest of these. Often they are fur-lined so that they may be reversed. Linings play as important a part as do the wraps themselves and often two or more colors are arranged in design so that when the wrap is thrown back the wearer is surrounded by a rainbow-like background.

THE DOG AND THE FISH

A dog, while fishing, dreamed that he had caught a little fish at sea.
He threw it back into the water and, out of gratitude, the fish helped him to win the dog's daughter with all the money one could wish.
Alas for that poor canine, there,
He woke and found his hook was bare!

Moral—A guy who dreams of winning Won't find his line with fishes dancing.

NEWS BRIEFS

The Men's club of the First Baptist church will meet for dinner at 6:30 p. m. tomorrow at that church.
It was announced today. An attendance of between 75 and 100 men is expected.

E. M. Nealley, of Santa Ana junior college, is to speak tonight before the Monday club on "Biology and Race Problems." The club meets at Fred Rafferty's home.

Chiropractors of Orange county will meet here tomorrow night to complete county campaign plans in behalf of Initiative Bill No. 16, which will be voted on November 7, and which would provide for a state board of chiropractors to license members of that profession.

A considerable delegation from Los Angeles will attend the meeting, it was stated today.

Members of the committee of District No. 2, Orange county council, Boy Scouts of America, will meet at the city hall here Friday at 7:30 p. m. Roland E. Dye, county social executive, announced today.

Dan O'Hanlon, of Fullerton, a veteran of the British forces during the World War, is completing arrangements for entering a considerable number of overseas men in the Foreign Legion division of the Armistice day parade November 11. It was announced here today. Men representing all of the countries of the allied armies that participated in the great conflict will compose this section of the parade, it was stated.

David, the 2-year-old son of Mr.
and Mrs. Robert L. Brown, 513
South Sycamore street, whose life was despaired of last Wednesday when he drank a quantity of kerosene, continued to improve today, his father said. The boy's life was saved when Mrs. Brown administered first aid counterattacks.

Expansion of the Goble sign works at 215 East third street by the purchase of the Jones sign shop at Orange was announced today. At the same time it became known that D. A. Jones, formerly proprietor of the Orange shop, has been appointed foreman of the two shops, leaving Wayne Goble, the proprietor, free to devote all his time to the outside duties of the business, which has rapidly expanded to cover nearly all of Orange county. The Goble sign organization, starting a year ago, now numbers four first-class sign writers.

A number of Santa Ana men are directly concerned in decision that the Virginia Country club may ing and Frank Freeman.

Nonagenarian Receives Birthday Wishes

Mr. and Mrs. W. A. West entertained a group of relatives and a few friends at a delightful dinner last evening at their Buero home, the occasion being the birthdays of Mrs. West, Charles F. Smith and Henry Clinton.

Of the three celebrants, Mr.
Clinton, the father of the hostess, was easily the ranking guest of honor, a position granted him by virtue of his years, 94. He was the recipient of hearty congratulations from all present, upon his remarkable activity and his long span of life, and it was freely predicted that he would live to pass the century mark.

NEW INCOME TAX RULING

A new income tax ruling holds that a statement under oath from a non-resident alien individual, a partnership, or the proper official of a foreign corporation that he or it has no office or place of business in the United States, and is not engaged in trade or business therein, will be accepted as sufficient evidence of the foreign depositor's non-liability to federal income tax with respect to interest in deposits in a bank. A letter is not sufficient.

the influence of liquor, and drunkenness, respectively.

Their arrest followed a frolicsome game of "tag" in which three cars figured on South Main street last evening.

According to reports at the police station, the Mexicans, driving a small car, were headed northward on Main street and bumped a car, belonging to Floyd Goodman, which was standing near the curb. Rear fenders were smashed, and the force of the impact is said to have driven Goodman's machine into the rear of a third car, which was also parked near the curb.

The car in which the Mexicans were driving is said to have turned turtle, spilling Flores, who, the officers say, promptly went to sleep, with the curbstone for a pillow.

Escobedo was taken to the police station, where he was held in lieu of $500 bond.

Both men were released today under $500 bond each.

LOCAL ARTISTS
FILL KFAW PROGRAM

When the big Southern California audience tunes in for KFAW at 8 o'clock tonight a program of the highest character will be ready to broadcast, a program exclusively by Santa Ana artists. Those contributing to the entertainment will be Miss Mabel Kraus, Oberlin graduate, associate teacher with Earl Fraser and his pupil; Leon Eckles, baritone, who has recently announced the opening of his studio in Santa Ana; Earl Fraser, tenor and pianist; Eleanor Young Elliott, reader; and Miss Ruth Armstrong, pianist.

Miss Kraus will play a group including "Etude Caprice" by Rudolph Ganz and the "Prelude in D Minor" by Chopin as her first number. She will also present a concert arrangement of "Turkey in the Straw," arranged by Gulon, and "Schervu, B Flat," from Sonata, composed by Chopin.

A number of vocal duets by Eckles and Fraser will include the "Wanderers Night Song," by Rubenstein, "The Face of Destiny" and
"La Boheme," both in Italian.

Earl Fraser will sing as individual numbers, "Down in a Forest" by Ronald, "Life" by Curran, and "Sunrise and You" by Penn.

Leon Eckles will present three selections, the titles of which were not available this afternoon.

The vocal numbers will be accompanied by Miss Ruth Armstrong.

Eleanor Young Elliott has promised three of her best character sketches. Her impersonation of juvenile characters is extremely popular with local audiences. Tonight she will present "The Hen" and "Whoops," by Edmund Vance Cook, and "Vincent Has a Kitten," her own composition.

SANTA ANA ROUTS MANUAL ARTS 25 TO 6 IN LAST PRACTICE GRID GAME OF SEASON

Morrison's Charges Look Like Million Dollars During First Half But Fail to Display Any Defense For Open Play In Last Two Quarters

With Santa Ana high school's first league football game scheduled for next Saturday at Whittier and with less than a week remaining in which to prepare for it, Coach Marvin Morrison today launched an intensive siege of practice during which he hopes to remedy glaring defects in certain parts of his team's play which came to light prominently last Saturday despite the fact that his squad routed Manual Arts high school of Los Angeles 25 to 6 on the local turf.

On the offense the Santa Ana eleven looked good—good enough for any man's team. On the defense the team didn't look good at all.

Manual Arts scored but once—in the third quarter on a series of passes and trick formations. But with the exception of one flash of splendid line bucking Santa Ana was on the defense throughout the last half. Manual Arts menaced the Poly goal line time after time. They did so because Morrison's charges missed tackles. When the visiting team got too close to the goal, Poly bucked up and held. But Morrison figures a less weak team than the Los Angeles school will be able to work its way over that last chalk mark more than once—if the local men don't tackle lower and harder.

Poly Offensive O. K. Grid fans couldn't ask for any better offensive work than that displayed by Poly in the first half. With it came a realization that two men, Captain "Eeny" Wilcox and Earl Jabs carry the real punch of the team.

When Santa Ana needed yards and needed them badly, it was either Jabs or Wilcox that produced them.

Jabs crashed through the line time after time for huge gains. He smashed over the goal for two touchdowns in the first quarter. He made half the tackles on the defense. He was the star of the afternoon's fracas.

Gardner, a halfback made into an end, played well considering it was his first test at the wing position. Phipps, Stillens and Coulson in the line showed great possibilities. Santa Ana scored early in the first period without once losing the ball.

Manual Returns Kick. Dungan kicked off and Manual immediately returned the boot. It was short and Wilcox carried it back to the Toller's forty yard mark. Le Bard made two, Jabs plunged through center for six and made it first down with a buck for three yards.

After two bucks netted nothing, Black nabbed a short pass for five yards. On the next play, Jabs passed perfectly to Wilcox for twenty yards, giving Santa Ana first down on the five yard line.

Wilcox called on Jabs four times. On the last attempt the big fullback went over. Wilcox missed goal.

A Manual Arts fumble led directly to Poly's second touchdown in the same quarter. Dungan kicked off. On the first play Newman fumbled and Santa Ana recovered. Black's end run was good for seven. Jabs made two and then made it first down. Le Bard shot off tackle for six yards. Jabs smashed over the same place for eight yards, making it first and ten on the Manual Arts ten yard line.

Jabs Smashes Over. Wilcox made six. Santa Ana was penalized fifteen yards. Wilcox swerved his way for ten. Jabs passed to Black for another ten yards, placing the ball on the one yard mark. Jabs smashed his way through center for a score. Wilcox missed goal.

Poly scored its third touchdown in the second quarter. Jabs intercepted a Toller forward pass and then he and Wilcox made five yards each on two bucks. Black raced around end for twenty yards giving Santa Ana first down on Manual's twenty-three yard line. Jabs added eight on two tries and Wilcox took it over on a fifteen yard dash. Phipps missed goal but a penalty on Manual Arts during the play gave Santa Ana the extra point.

Manual Arts opened up in the second half with a whirlwind attack that brought results early in the third period. Taking the ball on a punt in midfield, Sid Foster's men worked play after play for huge gains. A criss-cross play was good for twenty yards. Van Dame carried it over on the next play, a wide end run of ten yards. The attempt at goal failed.

Rush in Substitutes. Morrison rushed in a flock of substitutes in the last half and some of the men looked good. Just before the close of the third quarter, Santa Ana held and took the ball on downs on Manual's thirty-five yard line. Luck, who replaced Jabs at full, went for four. Gardner caught a pass for ten yards' gain. Luck carried the ball back out of the next seven times, smashing his way through center for the final Poly score. Goal was missed.

The Santa Ana goal line was continually in danger throughout the last quarter but Manual Arts was unable to score.

MERCHANTS TOLD HOW TO ELIMINATE LOSSES

Methods by which the Merchants and Manufacturers' association, the Nick Harris detective agency and the People's Finance and Thrift bank can be of assistance to merchants in decreasing their losses by bad accounts were disclosed to members at today's meeting of the Orange County Credit Men's association held at James's cafe at noon.

A. Monroe Lacy, secretary, spoke for the finance organization; P. S. Lucas, secretary, for the M. and M. and T. W. Cochran, superintendent of the bureau of special investigation, for the detective agency.

The protection offered merchants was stressed by the speakers, Lucas emphasizing the value of business men co-operating in checking against men and women who are known to be in the habit of opening charge accounts with intent of defrauding.

WARNING ON ALLFED SWINDLER IS ISSUED

P. S. Lucas, secretary of the Merchants and Manufacturers' association, today received a letter from the Vacuum Oil company, New York, issuing a warning against the operations of a man who poses as a representative of the company. According to the letter, the man is known to have used the name of Benz, Rentz and Berman, and a number of other aliases. It is stated that his plan of operation is to approach business men offering a certain brand of lubricating oil at a price far below the producers' net price, and in addition to offer without charge a large electric sign or some other advertising device. It is declared that in each sale he demands a check for ten per cent of the purchase. Checks given are cashed at once and the purchaser never receives the goods, according to the company.

BURCH FACING THIRD KENNEDY CASE TRIAL

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 9.—Arthur C. Burch was to go on trial today for the third time for the murder of John Belton Kennedy.

"Out of the cell by Christmas is my slogan," said Burch today in an optimistic mood.

His two previous trials and the two trials of Madalynne Obenchain, accused of the same crime, have resulted in disagements of the juries.

LEGION MEN TO GO THURSDAY TO ORLEANS

Clad in red flannel shirts, blue denim trousers, and big-brimmed "forty-niner" hats, the Santa Ana delegation of the American Legion will leave early Thursday morning for Los Angeles where it will board the American Legion special headed for the National convention in New Orleans October 16.

Clyde Whitney, adjutant of Santa Ana post No. 131, is busy listing the names of the local members to be included in the delegation. Many members have made tentative plans for the trip and Adjutant Whitney will make public a complete roster of the delegation as soon as the individuals have made final arrangements for their departure.

In a bulletin issued by Department Commander Seth Millington the details of the trip are outlined. By a special arrangement with the Santa Fe the pullman cars will be held on the siding at New Orleans during the five days of the convention, in lieu of hotel accommodations. Because the date of departure had been set on the regular meeting day there will be no new matters taken up with the exception of such emergency measures that may be necessary. At present the entire legion is devoting its efforts to propaganda supporting the veterans' loan acts, 1 and 2, on the November ballot.

Speakers have been organized to address audiences at the several local theatres on the advantages of the $10,000,000 bond issue covering the probable expense of the veteran welfare act, parts of which were held to be unconstitutional on the grounds that the credit of the State of California was being loaned.

Fifteen speakers, one of whom will speak through The Register radio broadcasting station, will go into the details of the two acts and give the public a clear understanding of the soldiers' needs.

At the meeting on the 12th further arrangements will be made for presenting the veteran welfare workers to the county with the idea of giving the ex-service men the many benefits accruing under the provisions of the welfare act.

Fights! You have seen a few rattling good ones in motion pictures before, but you've never seen anything like the ones in "The Man From Lost River."

The tang of the North Woods is in this big drama. The hero, played by House Peters, is the boss of a lumber camp in a Sierra red-wood forest, and you'll never know till the very end whether he's really a hero or villain.

Katherine Newlin Burt, in her first original story for the screen, has scored one of the biggest successes of the season. Don't miss it!

NEW FISHING RECORD
SAN PEDRO, Oct. 9 — More than 1,000,000 pounds of fish from American and Mexican waters were delivered to the wholesale markets of Los Angeles Harbor during September, according to a report just issued by C. A. Bander, California Fish and Game Commission, head at the port. The month's catch, which sets a new record for the fresh market, included nearly forty varieties of shoal and deep-sea fish. The catch of white sea bass topped the list, 291,782 pounds of that variety being landed, while yellowtail was second with a yield of 275,542 pounds. Barracuda and halibut were third and fourth, respectively.

YOU CAN GET BACK YOUR GRIP ON HEALTH

Hope for the millions of unfortunate men and women who are victims of stomach trouble is sounded by Mrs. Minnie Bente, 3027 Filbert St., Oakland, Calif. Mrs. Bente was a victim of stomach trouble in its worst form but was completely restored to health by taking Tanlac. She says: "For years I suffered from stomach trouble, and when I began taking Tanlac I was on the verge of a nervous breakdown. Tanlac changed things around for me completely and now my stomach and nerves are in fine shape and I am well and strong again."

BIG CONVENTION AND MEET ENGAGE ELKS

With local Elks today interesting themselves in a special program of entertainment to be provided at the regular meeting of the order tomorrow night, and a number preparing to go to the state convention opening at Santa Monica Wednesday, local members of the lodge today were anticipating a busy week.

Members will be permitted to invite one friend each for tomorrow evening's entertainment, which will be staged in the new lodge room. There is seating capacity for 600, and W. W. Wasser, secretary, said today that it is expected that the seating capacity will be overtaxed. The lodge will convene for a short business session. Guests will be admitted to the room after adjournment.

The local lodge is entitled to nineteen delegates to the state convention and these will be named tomorrow evening. In addition the exalted ruler and past rulers are privileged to attend the convention as official delegates. It is expected there will be twenty to twenty men present from Santa Ana Lodge, according to Wasser. Wasser and Fred Parsons, exalted ruler, have signified their intention of being present.

The Patchwork Quilt
By Eleanor Young Elliott HAVE YOU A PIECE TO PUT IN IT?

THE DIVINE FIRE
I have a little candle which I treasure in my heart.
It wavers in the shadow and it flutters in the breeze.
It brightens up the corners where the dark dreams stand apart.
And like a little witch's light
it dances 'neath the trees.
I hold by little candle up and light it at the sun
And try to set the world afire with all its twinkling light.
But when the sun has closed its eyes and all the day is done,
I weep because my little candle doesn't last the night.

THE VERY FIRST THING
we saw when we entered the cafeteria was the baby carriage just inside the door. Wrapped in a dainty pink silk quilt, was a most adorable baby, roguish and smiling, and kicking its little heels free of the silken covering.
After gathering up our tray and its collection of little bird-baths filled with vegetables, we chose a seat where we might watch the people coming in.

It was interesting. A family party entered; the shy little girl was dragged reluctantly past the carriage by the stern faced mother who never vouchsafed a look at the carriage and its cooing occupant. But the kindly faced pater familias bringing up the rear of the party, stopped for a friendly greeting and slipped his hand down so that the baby's little wandering fingers might clasp one of his.
We know where the little girl of that family goes for sympathy and understanding—and petting.

Two tall young office girls gave a glance towards the carriage, but their rigid efficiency and strict modernity was so pronounced that a glance was all that was spared.
They had a certain time set aside for laughing, and nothing was allowed to interfere.

Half a dozen men entered in rapid succession. Several stopped for a friendly "Hello kid," and "He's a cute little shaver," pronounced one. A dear little "grandma lady" bent over the carriage for several minutes and offered homage. No doubt but that in that short space of time, she relived many happy years when those tall, dignified and self-sufficient strangers who are now her sons and daughters, were tiny darling babies, dependent upon her for their every need.

Entered two perfect specimens of the genus "Happer." Cupids with lips, brilliant pink and white coloring fluffy bobbed hair, de-butante slouch. Here were two who would never see the carriage even.

"Say, kid, look! Oh isn't he the cutest thing!" and such a fluttering and twittering as there was around the little nest! It was with reluctance that the two were compelled to go on or else lose their place in the line. The maternal instinct is not to be smothered with a too free application of Coty's perfumed face powder.

And the baby? It continued to coo and gurgle and dispense its sweetness to all who passed.

SOLITUDE OF THE FAR PLACES is ever conducive to phil-osophizing on the far-reaching effects of actions harmless in themselves.

Spending day after day as lookout on top of Santiago peak, Donald Anderson has time to realize the effects of actions harmless in themselves and like the immortal Silas Wegg, "lapses into poetry"
as follows:

Did you ever look at a match,
An innocent little thing,
And think of all the waste
To a forest it can bring?

You rub it on your pants
To produce its heat and light,
Then give it a little twist
It's forever out of sight.

But this selfsame tiny match,
That's dropped among the brush,
Is often times the reason
That you hear the rangers cuss.

The match that's left behind,
As the hiker goes his ways,
Is many times the cause
Of destructive forest blaze.

It takes a second's thought
To be sure the match is dead,
But it takes a lot of work
When the forest fires blaze red.

and her programme committee,
headed by Mrs. E. M. Blake, have arranged, a year of unual inspiration and growth is anticipated.

After the routine business of the day was disposed of, Mrs. Emeline Bancroft Harmon, vice-regent of Eschscholtzia chapter in Los Angeles and mother of Mrs.
Swales, who has often been the Santa Ana chapter's honored guest, presented it with a handsome silver mounted gavel, suitably engraved. The chapter members gave her a rising vote of thanks.

The programme for the day followed. Miss Yonche Plum gave a talk on various methods of luting the flag; Miss Lomson, Santa Ana's home teacher for foreigners, spoke briefly of the work she has planned for the year, and told various ways in which help may be given her; Miss Jennie Lasby gave a ten-minute talk on current news items of special interest to patriotic women.

Mr. Leon Eckles, a musician, who recently came to Santa Ana, then sang three songs, "Till Beaming Eyes," "Mother of Mine" by Toms and "Recompense" by Burleigh. Mr. Eckles delighted his hearers by the beautiful tone quality of his voice and the clearness of his enunciation. Miss Ruth Armstrong played his accompaniment.

The chief speakers of the day were Mrs. Cassius Cottle, vice-president general of the national organization, and Mrs. Lyman B.
Stookey, regent for California.
Mrs. Cottle traced briefly the growth of the society from the eighteen patriotic women who organized it in Washington thirty-two years ago to its present size.
There are now nearly 200,000 members; they hold a charter from the United States government for Continental Hall, one of the most beautiful of all the lovely buildings in Washington.
This hall they built, and in it are museums and libraries in which to preserve precious relics and records of the past.

Mrs. Cottle spoke of the pre-eminently national character of the society. She quoted from the open letter of Mrs. Minor, president general of the society, Mrs.
Minor urged the Daughters of the American Revolution to remember that they were not a social organization, but that their ideals were work and service. Her letter emphasized the obligations resting on the members of this patriotic society for the betterment of their country and the safe preservation of her institutions. Mrs. Minor declared that the organization must be a stabilizing influence to counteract the radical tendencies of the times.
Mrs. Cottle closed by complimenting the chapter on the excellence of the Americanization and educational work it has carried on here.

Mrs. Stookey, state regent, then spoke. She outlined the work the society hopes to do in California this year. The entire national organization is pledged to promote historical, educational and patriotic work. In California are many places of historical interest entirely unmarked. The state chapters hope to place suitable monuments or tablets in these spots. Probably the first one will be in Cahuanga Pass, opposite Universal City. Here the papers of capitulation were handed over to the United States by Mexico.

Mrs. Stookey told of the vigorous, constructive work planned by the better films committee, by the committees for Americanization work, for patriotic education, for the conservation of national parks and monuments, and for Indian welfare work. She closed by urging all members to study international relations that they may be the better able to intelligently safeguard the institutions of their own country.
After the programme Mrs. Otis, assisted by her daughter, Mrs.
Horace Spruance, Mrs. D. K.
Hammond, Miss Charlotte Dresser and Mrs. E. M. Blake served delicious refreshments.

CONDITION OF HART IMPROVES SOME

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 9.—William S. Hart, past the crisis in a critical illness, is still in a weakened condition and will be confined to his bed for two weeks, his physicians believed today.

Dr. Leon J. Rath, attending physician, said he believed Hart had escaped a case of typhoid fever.
Hart was taken with a cold last week, developed a high fever and for two days was in a delirium.
The doctors were unable to diagnose the case and for a time there was fear that Hart might not survive.

that's a new one to me. I've always known about Ash Wednesday and Shrove Tuesday and Good Friday, but I've never known Nut Sunday before."

Musical Program Offered by Choir of Richland Avenue Church

While members of the Richland avenue Methodist church thoroughly enjoyed a musical program presented by the choir at last night's regular service hour, yet there was an undercurrent of sadness, for the occasion was probably to be the final appearance of the Rev. Floyd W. Rollins and Mrs. Rollins are their departure for their new field in Los Angeles.

For several years the pastor and his wife have been the dearly loved leaders of the church and with their talent of song, have ever taken an active part in all song service. They will leave this week for Los Angeles where they will probably be located at 1332 North Mariposa street, and where the Rev. Mr. Rollins will assume the pastorate of Trinity South Methodist church.

Last night's excellent program was presented for the purpose of raising funds to build a number of separate units to the church of Richland avenue, for the benefit of the Sunday school, which sadly overworked the church proper. These will be constructed on the lot adjoining that on which the church stands.

The entire program was given with Miss Dorothy Hurd, a talented young pianist recently arrived from the East, acting as accompanist, and opened with a voluntary followed by the church song,
A. E. Chapman, Mrs. Rollins, Miss Agolina Heimerdinger, Messrs.
Rollins, P. C. Browne, H. C. Collins, and Marriott, in the "Awakening Chorus."

The program included a quartette, "The King of Love" by Messieurs Chapman and Rollins, and Messrs. Collins and Rollins; a solo by Miss Hurd whose ability as a singer is as great as is her talent as a pianist, and "Praise Ye," sung as a trio by Mrs. Rollins and Messrs. Browne and Rollins.

"Sail On" by the choir was followed by a beautiful solo number by Miss Heimerdinger, who like Mrs. Chapman, is well known through her connection with the Orange County Choral union. Mr.
Rollins also delighted with a solo,
"The Choir Invisible," followed by a ladies' trio by Mrs. Chapman, Mrs. Rollins and Miss Heimerdinger singing "The Lost Chord."
The "Neighbor" by Katherine Holland Brown was given as a reading by Eleanor Young Elliott and the appearance of Mrs. Chapman, Mrs. Rollins and Mrs. Browne in the trio, "Protect Us Through the Coming Night," completed a remarkably pleasing program with the congregation rising for the doxology.

Shiloh Circle

Mrs. Martha Crane of Garden Grove will be hostess to members of Shiloh Circle, Ladies of the G.
A. R. at a potluck dinner Thursday of this week. Dinner will be served promptly at noon and the afternoon will be devoted to a program and a social time.
Mrs. Crane's home is on Sixth street between Cedar and Stanford avenues in Garden Grove and it has been suggested that those who will make the trip by Pacific Electric, take the car leaving Santa Ana at 9:25 a. m.

Instituting the year's activities, members of the Junior High School Parent-Teacher association will gather at Room No. 21 of the Junior high building Wednesday, October 11, at 3 p. m.

Constant growth of the membership is responsible for many new faces while a number of new teachers will be introduced, hence the occasion will be in the nature of a "become acquainted party." Many interesting little talks will be presented in the hour of the business sessions. The speakers planned for being J. A. Cranston, superintendent of schools, H. G. Nelson, principal of Junior high, Mrs. Iva M.
Webber, vice-principal and dean of girls, Harry Garstang, boys' advisor, L. W. Archer, director of physical education for the boys, and Miss Gillette, occupying the same position with the girls.

From 4 to 4:30 sociability will prevail and Mrs. Edmund Snow and her committee will preside over the punch bowl where they will also serve wafers.

LIVING ROOM REAL SOUL OF DOMICILES

A most convincing bit of evidence that the world is growing better—whatever pessimists may say to the contrary—is the assurance of the inviting, comfortable, harmonious living room of today over the stiff, forbidding parlor of yesterday!

In all types of homes, from the smallest, simplest ones to those where the outlay of money has known few limitations, where comfort and livability has been taken to heart, we find always a living room where the family and friends may gather in happy informality and surroundings congenial to tranquility of mind.
One of the surest ways of attaining the desired result combining comfort, convenience and harmony in the living room is to begin by planning the furniture and its arrangement according to central points of interest.

Dahlias and Golden Rod Grace Luncheon Given By Popular Hostess

Beautifully appointed was the luncheon with which Mrs. Leonard G. Swales, newly elected regent of Santa Ana chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, entertained her officers and board of management Saturday at St. Ann's Inn.

The guests were asked to meet
Mrs. Cassius Cottle, vicepres-ident general of the national organization and Mrs. Lyman B.
Stookey, state regent of California who were in the city to attend the opening meeting of the local chapter Saturday afternoon at the W. E. Otis home.

Pride of California dahlias whose rich and glowing red was complemented by feathery golden rod, the national flower, allotted an artistic basket which graced the center of the table where the guests gathered to enjoy an impeccably served luncheon.

Charmingly designed cards indicated places for the hostess, Mrs. Swales, Mrs. Cottle, Mrs.
Stookey, Mrs. Emeline Bancroft
Harmon of Los Angeles, Miss Jennie Lasby, Miss M. Birdenia
Henry, Miss Mabel McFadden, Miss Katherine Edwards, Mes-sieurs A. J. Crookshank, William E. Otis, Ella Campau, Minnie Holmes, J. J. Pyle and Robert Northcross.

Friends Gather For Friendly Games
And Evening of Music

Mr. and Mrs. Eugene F. Adams entertained a number of their friends at their lovely home at 915 South Sycamore on Friday night, when guests formed two tables of "500" resulting in an interesting and exciting evening.

The rooms were beautifully decked with dahlias of the autumn shades, and hints of the approaching Halloween season.
Mrs. Addison Brown rendered a few very pretty selections on the piano, while the rest of the evening was devoted to Victrola music.

At a late hour delicious refreshments of sherbert, cake and cider were served by the hostess, assisted by Mrs. Cranston Tyler.

Those bidden to the pleasant affair were Mr. and Mrs. William Rash, Mr. and Mrs. Addison Brown of Orange, and Mr. and Mrs. Cranston Tyler of Garden Grove.

Eastern Star Matron Speaks at Long Beach

Honored by being chosen to represent the Eastern Star matrons, Mrs. H. Clay Kellogg was one of the speakers at a delightful meeting of Palos Verdes chapter, O. E. S. at Long Beach, Friday night of last week.

Mrs. Kellogg in company with Mrs. Walter Cornelius, matron of Hennosa chapter, Miss Maxine Cornelius and Miss Vylian Mc-Farren, motored over to attend the session which was one of the first in the handsome new Masonic temple of the beach city.

The occasion honored Mrs. Lorraine Miller, Grand Ada, and blue appointments figured in the evening's decorations, menu and floral settings. It was a distinguished gathering with many of the grand officers present as well as matrons and patrons of 1922 who shared honors with Mrs.
Miller.

Many brilliant little talks were given and that of Mrs. Kellogg was particularly well received, her connection as matron of Santa Ana chapter, one of the baby chapters of the state, being well known.

PHONOGRAPH IS NO LONGER PLAYTHING

A few years ago the phonograph field was virtually in the hands of a half dozen manufacturers, due primarily to the fact that these manufacturers had a practical monopoly on basic patents covering machine and record manufacture. About 1915 some of the principal patents expired, and the mechanism became public property. The result was a rush of new manufacturing concerns into the market.
During the last five years countless new makes of talking machines have come out, the majority of them simply assembled from cabinets and mechanical parts bought in different places.
There has been a constant shifting among these concerns, in what direction the industry will move, only the coming years can determine.

The phonograph no longer is considered a novelty or bought as a toy for the passing moment.
It has a recognized service to perform and is gradually working its way into a permanent place as a music-making instrument for the home.

Of course, it is largely a matter of supposition what direction the rapidly increasing taste for good music will take.

OIL BLAST PERILS
$1,500,000 PLANT

(United Press Leased Wire)
LOS ANGELES, Oct. 9.—Thick, greasy clouds of smoke obscured the sun here today indicating that the fire which broke out at 5:15
a. m. in the Richfield Oil company plant was still burning.

The fire for a time threatened the southeastern industrial district of the city, but the combined efforts of all available fire companies prevented it from spreading.

CINCINNATI BANK IS ROBBED OF $14,000

CINCINNATI, O., Oct. 9.—Five men entered the Hamilton County bank on Woodburn avenue today, struck the cashier over the head and escaped with $14,000, according to a report to police headquarters.

The bandits, who had driven up in a small automobile, rushed with drawn revolvers into the bank, compelled the depositors and the bank employees to go into a supply room in the rear, while they looted the open safe of all the money and the bonds in sight. One of the bandits hit Maurice Griefe, the cashier, on the head with a revolver. He was not badly hurt.

Torosa Rebekah

Local and visiting members of the Rebekah lodge are cordially invited to be present at the regular meeting of Torosa Rebekah lodge at G. A. R. hall, Wednesday, October 11 at 7:30 p. m.

A large class of initiates will be present to be inducted into membership in the order and an interesting evening is anticipated.

Art Appreciation

"Early American Portrait Painters" will be the subject of the paper to be given by Mrs. J. A. Bond before members of the Art appreciation section of Ebell Club, meeting Thursday afternoon with Mrs. Ardine D. Clayton, 717 North Main street. The hour named is 2:15 p. m.

PRESIDENT'S FATHER OUT FOR DEMOCRAT

DES MOINES, Ia., Oct. 9.—Dr. George T. Harding, father of President Warren G. Harding, is against bolshevists, and that is why he has pronounced his allegiance to Clyde L. Herring, Democratic nominee for United States senator in the Hawkeye state.

President Harding's father, now well along in years, observed: "Mr. Herring is a gentleman. The man running against him is a Socialist. I don't want to see a Socialist in Washington causing trouble. My boy has enough bolshevists troubling him there now. I have my sleeves rolled up for Mr. Herring."

Mr. Herring has the reputation of having sold more Ford cars than any other man in the country. He is an intimate friend of Henry Ford.

Relief Corps

Different patriotic societies of the city will each furnish one number on the rally day program to be presented at the regular Woman's Relief Corps tea at G. A. R. hall next Friday afternoon.

The program will begin at 2 o'clock and a large attendance is anticipated to enjoy the unique occasion. At the meeting of the corps on a recent afternoon, final plans for the affair were made. Three new names added to the roster on that occasion were an indication of the constant and logical growth of the organization.

Members of patriotic societies generally and those of Sedgwick Post and the Woman's Relief Corps particularly, are anticipating the meeting to be held at G. A. R. hall on Thursday, October 19, when the battle of Cedar Creek in Virginia will be commemorated.

L. A. Ludwig, commander of Sedgwick Post, participated in that battle and received the wound effects of which he has felt ever since. He will be called upon to give reminiscences of the battle and other experiences in the Civil War.

The program will be given in the morning hours, beginning at 10 o'clock and at noon a pot-luck dinner will be served followed by a session of the W. R. C. beginning at 2 o'clock.

CHOIR SINGER DIES
MARYSVILLE, Calif., Oct. 9.—Mrs. P. Davenport dropped dead here last night while singing in the choir at the Methodist Episcopal church.

BIDS FOR TRANSPORTS TO BE CLOSED OCT. 2

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 9.—Monday, October 2, will be the last day on which sealed bids for the historic army transports Sherman, Sheridan, Logan, Buford and Crook will be received in the office of the quartermaster-general at Washington by the general superintendent of the army transport service at New York and at San Francisco, and by the commanding officer of the quartermaster depot at Seattle. These vessels, which have plowed the Pacific and most of the other waters of the globe for nearly a quarter of a century, will be sold to the highest bidders, all to be delivered in San Francisco, except the Crook, which is at Norfolk, Va.

SIGNAL HONOR WON BY SAN DIEGO BOY

WASHINGTON, Oct. 9.—Stanley Newcomb, an eighth grade pupil in the Lincoln school at San Diego, Calif., has been awarded first place among more than 400,000 juvenile writers who entered the prize essay contest recently conducted by the highway education board. He wins a gold watch and a trip to Washington, where he will be the guest of the board and of the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce.

A gold loving cup emblematic of second honors was awarded to Miss Marden Beck, of Draper, Utah, and a silver loving cup, representing third place, went to James Edward Gillenwaters of Knoxville, Tenn.

SANTA CLARA WALNUT PLANT OPENS OCT. 1

SANTA CLARA, Oct. 9.—The packing plant of the Walnut Growers' association will open for the fall pack on Sunday, according to Joseph Connor, manager of the Santa Clara unit. Workmen have been putting the building in order and the present building will be enlarged 16 by 80 feet to provide space for handling the extra large crop this year. It is estimated that between 350 and 400 tons will go through the warehouse.

Joseph A. Conner has again been chosen manager of the plant, a position he has held since the organization of the association. P. G. Martin is president, George C. Payne, vice president and C. J. Parks, secretary and treasurer.

TO BUILD NEW DAM ACROSS NILE RIVER

LONDON, Oct. 9.—S. Pearson & Co., a well-known contracting firm, have secured the contract for building a new dam across the Blue Nile at Sennar 150 miles above Khartoum.

In addition to the dam itself, which will be over two miles long, some 650 miles of irrigation and drainage canals will be constructed, the total cost being between $3,000,000 and $4,000,000. A large tract of land will thus be brought under cultivation, and it will be used for the cultivation of cotton.

It is understood that the scheme has been under consideration for a considerable time, being held up owing to opposition from Egypt, where it was feared the proposed new dam would deprive the lower reaches of the Nile of water needed for cultivation. When the work starts it will employ some seven thousand hands and take over three years to complete.

SEEK NEW ROADS NEAR NORTH LINE

SUSANVILLE, Lassen County, Oct. 9.—Completion of the state highway system in accordance with the plans of the original highway act and the creation of a new fish and game district in northern California were urged in resolutions adopted by the Northern California Counties association at its annual meeting.

The resolutions were adopted at a joint meeting last night in the Northern California Supervisors' association.

The highway resolution calls for the completion as soon as possible of the trunk line to the Oregon boundary and the pushing through of the roads connecting county seats. Recommendation was made that Redding and Weaverville, Redding and Alturas and Red Bluff and Susanville be linked with state highways as provided for in the original highway act. The first time the legislature appropriates more money for state highways, it was pointed out, the appropriations should be devoted to this work.

The fish and game resolution urged the creation of a new fish and game district to include Modoc, Lassen, Plumas, Sierra, Trinity and Shasta counties. The deer season in this proposed district would open October 1st; no fork horn, mule tailed deer would be killed; the limit would be one to a season, and a hunter would have stated on his license the county in which he intended to hunt.

SCIENTISTS DISPEL FOG BY OIL SPRAYS

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Oct. 9.—An experiment made today by local scientists, assisted by officials of the weather bureau and experts from the United States Engineering department, demonstrated that fog may be dispelled. The experiment was made on the Monongahela river.

As the fog formed over the water a thin spray of oil and organic acid was spread over the river. As had been expected, the oil prevented the union of the air and water, and the fog rapidly disappeared. The experiment was pronounced a complete success. Another on a much larger scale soon will be made, it is announced.

ARCTIC SHIPS FROZEN IN, CAPTAIN REPORTS

NOME, Alaska, Oct. 9.—The schooner Teddy Bear, which failed in its mission to bring back from Wrangel island the party sent there last year by Vilhjalmur Stefansson to hold the island for Canada, has returned here with tales of unusual conditions in the Arctic regions.

In charge of Captain Joseph Bernard, the Teddy Bear sailed August 20, reached East Cape in four days and by August 28 had forced a passage through to Cape Vankarem. Here the Teddy Bear came across the schooner Amy, south-bound. The skipper of the Amy reported that the Chukotsky, the Silver Wave and the Blue sea were frozen in fifteen miles from the North cape.

Despite the terrific head winds and the worst ice condition in twenty-five years, Captain Bernard pushed on. He then received reports that the schooner Polar Bear and Eagle were wrecked by ice twenty-five miles south of North cape, but that their crews had been rescued.

Captain Bernard ordered the Teddy Bear back to Nome, believing that it would be impossible to reach Wrangel.

MORE SHIPS WANTED BY GRAPE RANCHERS

WASHINGTON, Oct. 9.—Senator Shorridge called on the Shipping board today to urge granting of the application of California grape growers for additional ships to convey their grapes to the Atlantic coast. A decision is expected in a short time.

CHAMPION SPAGHETTI EATER INVADERS L. A.

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 9.—Maco Madugno, claimant to the title of champion eater of this world, has arrived here from Kansas City, seeking matches. He says he has "done better than a pound of spaghetti in a minute and three seconds."

is the third annual Marmon Demonstration Week to popularize new-day ways of comparing cars. The Marmon Score Card furnishes the 12 vital tests of performance used by leading automotive engineers. We gladly show you what the Marmon can do under these tests and we suggest that you apply these tests to other cars. The comparison will be a revelation.

LIVE PROGRAM FOR MEETING OF WOMEN'S CLUBS SET

Federated Gathering Is Scheduled Here For October 21

NOTED LECTURER DUE

All-Day Session to Be Replete With Varied Features

With G. Bromley Oxnam scheduled as one of the speakers, members of women's clubs of the county today were eagerly anticipating the semi-annual meeting of the Orange County Federation of Women's clubs at the First Christian Church here Saturday, October 21. The meeting starting at 9 a. m.

According to Dr. Evalene Peo, president of the Santa Ana Woman's club, between 250 and 300 women from different sections of the county will attend the all-day session.

Dr. Oxnam's number on the program is scheduled for 1:45 p. m. His subject is "International Relationship."

Delegates will be extended a cordial welcome by Dr. Peo on behalf of the Santa Ana Woman's club. Response will be made by Mrs. J. S. Terry, president of one of the Anaheim clubs.

The closing hours of the meeting will be devoted to discussion of state legislative matters, with Mrs. Eva Wheeler, president of the state W. C. T. U., explaining the Wright Law. Miss Marguerite Brehm, of Long Beach, will present the water and power act, the soldiers' state bonus bill and other legislative matters, at 2:45 p. m.

Other numbers on the program include: Song, "America;" invocation, Mrs. I. D. Mills, of Orange; community singing, led by Mrs. Albert Launer, Fullerton; president's greeting, Mrs. A. E. Ellick, Costa Mesa; forty-five minute business session; greeting from district president, Mrs. F. W. Haman, San Diego; and luncheon at the Christian church at 12. The afternoon program opens at 1:15 o'clock, with community singing, followed by vocal selections by Prof. Amhurst.

BIBLE CLASS TO MEET. COSTA MESA, Oct. 9.—The Women's Bible class will meet Friday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Ellison, when its regular work will be conducted, it was announced today.

Special meeting of the stockholders of the Tustin Hills Citrus Ass'n. will be held at the packing house of the association on Newport Road Monday, Oct. 9, 1922 at 10 o'clock a. m. Full attendance desired. B. A. Crawford, Secretary.

ACTRESS NOTED FOR COMPLEXION GIVES FREE BEAUTY HINTS

By PEGGY KURTON

Actress in "Good Morning, Dearie," Celebrated for Her Complexion.

The geographical structure of your face, and the general arrangement of your features is something you haven't much control over, but your complexion is within your power.

Don't delude yourself—you can't cover up a bad skin. Remedy it first, then redecorate later if you must.

Your skin is always in sympathy with your general health. It won't have a peaches-and-cream appearance if your stomach is disordered, if your liver has become lazy and indifferent and if your lungs haven't been given plenty of fresh air.

Nervousness and morbid emotions all will register on your skin. The reason out-of-door exercise is the world's greatest beautifier is because when you get outdoors you get rid of your unhealthy thoughts. Exercise banishes morbidity.

Clear your mind and your skin will show its gratitude. Rain or shine, I have at least one hour of it a day.

Of course your skin must be clean. I wash my face with soap and water in the evening just before retiring, using water as hot as I can stand it and a good, pure soap.

I put a few drops of tincture of benzoin in the water to soften it and because it has a whitening effect.

LINCOLN DEATH TOLD IN OLD NEWSPAPER

Did you ever see a copy of the New York Herald printed in 1865?

Through the courtesy of John Matson of El Modena, The Register has been privileged to look over a copy of that paper of Saturday, April 15, 1865, containing an account of the assassination of Abraham Lincoln.

In addition to the complete account of the shooting of President Lincoln by John Wilkes Booth at Ford's Theater, the paper contains an account of his death at 7:22 the following morning. It also contains "Jeff Davis' Last Proclamation."

On an inside page there is a long dispatch from Appomattox court house, under date of April 10th (evidently transmitted by mail as it was five days getting into print) giving details of the execution of Lee's surrender.

SANTA ANA IS 53 YEARS OLD TOMORROW

Half Century Passes Since "Uncle" Spurgeon Founds City

Tomorrow is Santa Ana's birth-day. Exactly 53 years ago tomorrow—October 10, 1869, to be exact—a man rode on horseback from Los Angeles through vast fields of mustard and looked for the first time upon the land that was destined in future years to become the county seat of "the richest little county in the world."

That man was W. H. Spurgeon. It was he who founded Santa Ana. Dismounting from his horse, Spurgeon climbed a sycamore tree in order that the towering mustard might not interfere with his view of seventy-six acres that he was buying of one of the Yorba estates.

Until a few years ago, that sycamore—which served as an observation tower for the man who even then visioned a city standing in the wilderness—stood a few yards south of Third street, between Sycamore street and Broadway.

City Is Mapped Out

Shortly after the land was purchased, Santa Ana was mapped out. A Los Angeles surveyor named Wright set out the stakes on the seventy-six-acre townsite. At that time, Ed Tedford, who was for many years city clerk here, and who is now with the Union Oil company in this county, was a mere boy. Wright engaged him to carry chain during the surveying operations.

Tedford, whose parents had settled in what was then called Gosnell swamp, now Greenville, recalls vividly the events of those epochal days.

Speaking of the early-day experiences, Tedford said:

Founder's Wish Fulfilled

"Mr. Spurgeon's foresight was remarkable. When it came time to get the stakes where the courthouse now stands, I remember that 'Uncle Billy' said, 'Some day there will be a courthouse on this square. I'll hold it for that.'"

"His prophecy came true. He lived not only to see the courthouse become a reality, but many other buildings as well."

One of the first of Spurgeon's numerous undertakings in the up-building of the city was the operation of a store in a one-room frame building at the southwest corner of West Fourth street and Broadway.

Other Settlers Come

Other settlers came to the town. Gradually, other buildings were erected. Many years went by—years that often were filled with discouragements that would have taken the heart out of many a less determined pioneer.

Yet Spurgeon remained on the ground and as time went on he saw his dream realized—saw Santa Ana pass from the country village class into one of the most important of the smaller cities of the Southland.

"Uncle Billy" Spurgeon's optimistic faith never wavered.

WOMAN ASKS P. E. $20,000 FOR HURTS

Asking $20,000 and costs as damages for injuries sustained in a collision December 9, 1921, Love Johnston today had filed suit against the Pacific Electric railway.

The accident on which the unit is based is said to have occurred at the Cypress crossing, when an automobile in which the plaintiff was riding was struck by a trolley car.

In the suit the plaintiff asserts that she is 58 years old, and that the fractured collar bone, and injuries to her back and chest will doubtless permanently cripple her.

She asks $20,000 damages, $500 doctors' fees, and the costs of the action. She is represented by Attorneys H. C. Mead, Harrison, C. Gardner and Fred W. Morrison.

FRANKLIN PIONEERS IN MANUFACTURE AND MOVEMENT OF SEDANS

Declaring that a large percentage of Franklin cars delivered in Southern California recently has been of the enclosed type, H. A. Shugart, of Shugart and Son, local Franklin distributors, announced today that this week will be Franklin sedan week throughout the United States with all agents stressing this model of car.

Shugart quoted factory figures disclosing that of the 7359 cars manufactured by the Franklin factory for the year ending September 1, 37.7 per cent were sedans. According to Shugart 52.7 per cent of the cars shipped were enclosed models, consisting of sedans, coupes, touring limousines and broughams.

"To the Franklin company must go the honor of pioneering the development of this popular type," said Shugart, "and the entire Franklin organization this week is celebrating the tenth year of the manufacture of the 'leader' in the Franklin line."

ONE PERSON IN EIGHT FILES TAX RETURN

Orange County Payments Help to Boost Southland Revenue Totals

Figures covering internal revenue collections in the Los Angeles district since January 1 made available today show that one person in eight in Orange county filed a return, and the increase in the number of returns filed over the corresponding period last year shows a big increase in population, according to Collector Rex B. Goodcell, of Los Angeles.

Collections for the Los Angeles district, which includes Los Angeles, San Diego, Ventura, Kern, San Luis Obispo, San Bernardino, Imperial, Riverside, Santa Barbara and Orange counties amount to $26,009,593.45. The total number of returns filed was 190,930 as against 156,531 for last year.

Figuring on a basis of one person in eight filing a return, Goodcell has figured out that the population increase over his district during the past year is 275,142. The number of returns filed in the Los Angeles district was nine times as many as were filed in the whole state in 1916. The ten counties making up the Los Angeles district filed approximately as many returns as the forty-eight counties making up the San Francisco district.

The latest figures available show that in per capita net income reported, California leads all the States in the Union except New York. New York's per capita was $388.11 and California's $387.82.

In percentage of population filing returns, California, with 11,580, leads all of the big States, including New York, Pennsylvania, Illinois, Massachusetts and Ohio.

BOND ISSUE PROBLEM BEFORE HUNTINGTON

HUNTINGTON BEACH, Oct. 9.—Whether the voters of this city will be asked further to bond themselves to the extent of probably $20,000 in order to carry out the generous building program now under contemplation, is expected to be decided at a meeting tonight of the board of trustees.

Recently Huntington Beach voters approved a bond issue of $95,000 with which to erect a city hall and a municipal auditorium, and to purchase essential fire apparatus. On the face of bids submitted to the board for these improvements it was found that the issue would not cover their cost. Hence, plans are under consideration by the board for the submission of another issue to the voters.

FARM ASSOCIATION TO FROLIC TUESDAY

COSTA MESA, Oct. 9.—The Fairview Farm association will meet at the home of E. V. Minor, on Thurman avenue, tomorrow evening, according to announcement today.

The meeting will be of a social character. Persons not members, as well as those who belong to the association, are urged to attend.

FEMININE ROLE TO BE BIG IN FAIR AT RIVERSIDE TUESDAY

Upper picture shows "a full house—three of a kind and a pair," at the Southern California fair, which will open at Riverside tomorrow, to continue through October 15. Lower picture, agricultural club girls at the big fair.

MINISTER BIDS FAREWELL TO FOLLOWERS

The Rev. John Oliver, pastor of the First Methodist church, last night said farewell to his congregation, and today left for Los Angeles to attend conferences of several boards of which he is a member. Tomorrow morning he will leave Los Angeles for Fresno to be present at the conference of the Methodist church for this district. When he returns to Santa Ana again, it will be to assist in packing up preparatory to moving to another city to assume the duties of pastor in the First Methodist there.

Both services at the local church yesterday were marked by unusually large attendance, indicating that friends of the pastor and members of the congregation had taken the occasion to demonstrate their appreciation of the Rev. Mr. Oliver's departure.

Girls and women will play a large part in the Southern California fair, which will open at Riverside tomorrow, to continue through October 15.

Women will participate in the big relay races, in which sixty head of running horses have been entered. Each day, in this interesting event, there will be a men's race and a women's race.

Agricultural club girls are taking a more than active part in the big exposition.

Women to Milk

Women will take part in the milking contest, which will be a feature next Sunday. Liberal prizes have been offered by the fair association for the woman who milks the largest amount in a given time.

Tomorrow has been designated as editorial day at the fair and editors and their wives have been invited to the big show and to a big banquet at the Glenwood Mission inn in the evening.

The Associated Chambers of Commerce of Imperial county are arranging for a special day at the fair, which has been set for Saturday, October 14. A large delegation from the valley is planning to visit the big fair on that day.

The Chamber of Commerce is presenting a silver trophy to the high school student ranking highest in individual score in the junior judging contest. This trophy will

MILLION DOLLAR WALNUT CROP EAST ON WAY FROM PLANT TO BUYER

Growers Association to Reap Big Benefit from Labors

PACKING IS SPEEDED

First Shipment of Record Harvest Due to Go Tomorrow

With thirty-five men and 150 women employed; with the first Eastern shipments scheduled to move tomorrow, and with indications that the total output would be about 2,000 tons of walnuts, the packing plant of the Santa Ana Walnut Growers' association today was operating at full capacity, according to Secretary Joe Woodside. At the same time Woodside indicated that a million dollar Christmas gift is in prospect for Orange county growers and declared that every effort will be made to break all records in the number of cars shipped daily.

New Record Is Goal

"We will try to ship from one to three cars daily during the earlier period of packing operations," said Woodside, "but we will increase this as rapidly as possible. It is probable that six or eight cars will be shipped daily when we get into full swing. Every effort will be made to break records this year."

"This year the plant will be operated on a twelve-hour basis, with the women working a double shift. These shifts will be divided into six hour periods. The men will work straight twelve hours."

Payments to Be Early

"The first pool will close November 20, and a few days later the growers will begin receiving their payments on the 1922 crop. In the meantime, advance payments will be made on delivery of the nuts. Indications are that Orange county growers will receive a million-dollar Christmas gift."

In the cracking department we will be operating at full capacity October 18. About 250 women will be employed.

"Although the nuts have been coming in slowly during the past few days, it has been clearly established that they are better filled and the meat is of a superior quality. Every effort will be made to place the finest nuts on the eastern markets for the holiday trade."

Payroll Not Determined

"Just what the season's payroll will be is somewhat problematical. Last year it was around $50,000. This year it may run a little more, depending largely upon conditions. Last year's output was 2,200 tons."

The local packing plant, Woodside pointed out, has been greatly improved and will be in a position to handle the big crop with greater ease. Six concrete bleaching drums have been added and new sacking tables have been installed. The

Peroxide of Hydrogen

Peroxide is a most valuable substance which depends for its antiseptic properties on the extra atom of oxygen which it contains—H₂O₂. As is well known oxygen is nature's chief purifying agent.

Peroxide of Hydrogen is obtained by treating Barium Dioxide with an acid—preferably Phosphoric Acid—although Sulphuric Acid is often used in making cheaper grades of the product. But Phosphoric Acid produces a more stable peroxide. For this reason the latter acid is used in making the better grades of Hydrogen Peroxide.

So you see, there are many grades of Peroxide of Hydrogen—depending upon the price the manufacturer wishes to sell his product or the money he expects to make out of it.

As you buy Peroxide of Hydrogen for its medicinal properties and as this property is always in direct proportion to the price you pay it is our advice to you to buy only the best Peroxide of Hydrogen.

There is no Peroxide of Hydrogen of purer strength or better medicinal qualities than Park Davis' Peroxide of Hydrogen.

work. His discourse last night did not take on the nature of a farewell address, but he did take occasion briefly to refer to his service here and to thank his congregation for the splendid support given him. He said that close friendships had been formed in and outside of the membership of the church and that he would ever hold in kind remembrance his congregation and friends in Santa Ana.

The Rev. Mr. Oliver is leaving Santa Ana on his own initiative. He has asked to be changed to another pastorate, and it is his purpose to secure an appointment in a location that will have the best possible educational advantages for his children.

The retiring pastor was an active member of the Kiwanis club, and in many talks to the club has presented the highest ideals of man's obligations to himself, his brothers and his home city.

Appointments Made. Residents of Orange county identified with the German Methodist church today were interested in announcement of the appointment by Bishop Adna Wright Leonard of the Rev. F. W. Elger as pastor of the churches at Anaheim and Orange.

The announcement was made following adjournment of the California German Methodist conference at Pasadena yesterday. The Rev. J. H. Durbahn, of Los Angeles, was appointed district superintendent. Other appointments were made as follows:

Rev. E. C. Jannusch, superintendent of the Pacific Home for the Aged; Rev. George Guth, field agent for the Aged Preachers' Permanent Endowment Fund, and Alice Kolbe, deaconess of the First Church of Los Angeles.

The following were named members of quarterly conferences: Rev. George Guth, St. John's, San Francisco; H. J. Hobert, J. G. Voge and William Schults, Oakland First Church; J. W. Riedemann, Stockton; John Brunswick, to attend a school; F. W. Meyer, Santa Rosa; William Schmutzler, First Church, Los Angeles; H. C. Jacoby and C. A. Friesing, Bethel Church, Los Angeles, and C. F. Kuhnle, Hollywood.

Declaring that Sunday movies "work against the church," and "operate against the worth of a community," Charles Forbes Taylor, renowned boy evangelist, yesterday dealt a severe blow to the Sunday theater policy in a stirring talk before a large throng in the First Baptist church.

"A church in a community increases the price of real estate ninety per cent, and anything that operates against the work of a church operates against the worth of a community," he said.

"It is not the duty of the movies to teach religion. It should be left to the church," he added. In the evening he spoke of one word, "Must." This was a sermon on regeneration. The house was filled, every seat taken and people were standing. At the close of the sermon a number came forward, some to unite with the Baptist church and some to go to other churches.

The song service is a great feature. "Charlie" directs the large chorus, whistles and does everything in a unique way.

Monday afternoon at 3 o'clock, "Dad" Taylor began his life story, which he will give on five afternoons. In the evening "Charlie" preaches on "The Greatest Need of Santa Ana."

REPORTS CRASH OF 2 AUTOS NEAR TALBERT

A report was on file in police headquarters here today of a collision at Talbert yesterday between a car driven by Henrietta Wollast, 642 North Ross street, and a machine registered under number 521, New Mexico. Slight damage was done to both cars.

T. Yamashita reported a collision at the intersection of Chapman and Tustin avenues, Orange, about midnight yesterday, with a car belonging to Mrs. Crown, of Orange. Both autos were slightly damaged.

fect on the skin. I rinse my face in cold water, then give it an ice rub with a piece of ice held in a Turkish towel. Then I dry it thoroughly and rub in a little cold cream.

In the morning I wash with cold water and during the day I use a cleansing cream when necessary. An occasional Turkish or cabinet bath is very good for the complexion. I drink orange juice every morning. Fruit juices, particularly those of the citrus fruits, are most beneficial in promoting a clear skin.

Besides a cleansing cream I find my skin occasionally needs an astringent wash and that diluted lemon juice is an effective bleach. I use only the purest creams and soaps.

I use few cosmetics, except on the stage. It's easier to have a good complexion than to be a facial artist, I find.

"STUDY MATHEMATICS" AND AVOID ACCIDENT, IS NOVEL SUGGESTION

Prof. Amos W. Plummer of Los Angeles, principal of the Santa Ana schools in 1891, and a teacher in Los Angeles and Orange counties since 1884, in a public utterance has declared that "if people would devote a few minutes each day to study of mathematics they would be less likely to get their names in the papers as victims of traffic accidents." He asserts that studying would give the people the habit of thinking quickly and accurately, with the result that they would act more quickly when confronted with possible danger in riding, driving or stepping in front of an auto.

Professor Plummer is one of a number of educators in the state who, by reason of length of service, have been retired on stated, permanent salaries.

ANAHEIM FRATERNAL LEADER IS CALLED

Gen. J. O. Royer, for a number of years a resident of Anaheim and well known in this county, is dead in Los Angeles. Funeral services are to be held tomorrow at 2:30 p. m. at the Masonic temple, Pico and Figueroa streets, Los Angeles, with Los Angeles Commandery No. 9, Knights Templar, in charge.

The title given to Gen. Royer came through a high position he held in the Knights of Pythias. He was born in this state, at Napa, but was greatly interested in bettering the condition of the peasantry of France, where his parents were born. He fathered a number of colonization plans for the French. Gen. Royer acquired a good deal of money through mining operations. About fifteen years ago he bought 200 acres southwest of Anaheim, and built up a property in baronial style. In recent years he has lived in Los Angeles, where he was greatly interested in politics and police work. He is said to have a large collection of weapons taken from noted murderers and other criminals.

MANY REGISTER FOR NOVEMBER VOTE HERE

Although accurate check of the number of voters registered Saturday, the last day allowed before the elections, November 7, was not available today, the number who entered their names on the list, or made transfers, was unusually large, County Clerk J. M. Backs said.

At the county clerk's office in the court house, which was kept open until 10:30 p. m. to accommodate those desiring to register, Backs and several deputies were kept busy throughout the day by voters. Between 6:30 and 8:30 p. m. Backs registered 53 persons, he said.

TREASURES THOUGHT IN "HIDDEN VALLEY" ARE TO BE SOUGHT

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 9.—Mountain climbers of the West have turned their scaling abilities to the task of discovering what lies beyond the seeming impenetrable wall of Slakiyon county's "hidden valley." G. W. Pelletreau, Big Bar, Trinity county, said today that he had glimpsed the valley from a high mountain peak with the aid of high powered binoculars.

From all reports, he said, the valley abounds in game and that mineral deposits are likely to be found.

The walls of sharp peaks surround the valley, standing like a barricade against man's advance. Once by the walls, Pelletreau said, scaling ropes and ladders are necessary to get beyond the deep chasms.

Pelletreau estimates the valley contains three hundred acres.

PLAN TO ERECT LEMON BEAN'S RESIDENCES

ORANGE, Oct. 9.—Whether

a building program, involving an expenditure of $30,000, providing homes for nearly two hundred Mexican employees and their families, will be carried out as proposed, will be decided at a meeting of the directors of the Central Lemon Growers' association scheduled for next Thursday afternoon at the packing plant offices, according to an official announcement here today.

The program, although not definitely assured, calls for construction of thirty houses, at an approximate cost of $1,000 each. The houses will be identical, containing four rooms and of 20x20 feet dimensions. They will probably be of hollow tile construction.

The structures will be erected on a four and a half acre tract, directly east of the lemon plant, which was secured several years ago to shirshrdres shrdshrdlnu ago for this purpose.

According to E. B. Collier, manager of the lemon association, construction of the buildings will start immediately if the directors sanction the plan.

Construction of homes for the Mexican employees is only a step in a plan to create satisfaction among the employees of the plant by obviating traveling long distances to work. It will also do away with the costly transportation system now employed, it was said.

At present 175 Mexicans are employed as pickers by the association.

Harvesting of lima and baby lima beans is beginning to get well under way in the five counties of southern California, in which these varieties are grown, according to a field report received from R. L. Churchill, secretary and manager of the California Lima Bean Growers association.

Threshing has not proceeded far enough to permit of an accurate estimate as to total production, Churchill said. Some fields have yielded no more than last year, and other an appreciable increase. However, few, if any fields, are yielding more than 85 per cent of the amount estimated six weeks ago. Sizes of limas from early deliveries show rather small—an evident result of the August heat wave.

"From best information now obtainable, it appears that a liberal estimate of the total production of limas would be not to exceed 1,200,000 bags, and of baby limas a total of about 160,000 bags, which will be considerably less than last year's crop of baby limas and carry-over," Churchill continued.

On the edge of the sink-hole they halted. Smith turned and faced Clinch.

"What's the idea?" he asked without a quaver.

"Was you in Russia?"

"Yes."

"Was you an officer?"

"I was."

"Then you're spyin'. You're a cop."

"You're mistaken."

"Ah, don't land me none like that! You're a State Trooper, or a Secret Service guy, or a plain, dirty cop. And I'm a-going to croak you."

"I'm not in any service, now."

"Wasn't you an army officer?"

"Yes. Can't an officer go wrong?"

"Soft stuff. Don't feed it to me. I told you too much anyway. I was babblin' drunk. I'm drunk now, but I got sense. Do you think I'll run chances of sittin' in State's Prison for the next ten years and leave Eve out here alone? No. I gotta shoot you, Smith. And I'm a-going to do it."

"If you think there's some kind o' god you can square before you croak."

"If you go to the chair for murder, what good will it do Eve?" asked Smith. His lips were cracking dry. He moistened them.

"Sink holes don't talk," said Clinch.

"Gwan and say what you want, you're the church kind."

"Clinch," said Smith unsteadily, "if you kill me now you're as good as dead yourself. Quintana is here."

"Say, don't hand me that," retorted Clinch. "Do you square yourself or no?"

"I tell you Quintana's gang were at the dance tonight—Picquet, Salazar, Georgiadis, Sard, Beck, Jose Sanchez—the one who looks like a French priest. Maybe he had a beard when you saw him in that cafe washroom."

"What!" shouted Clinch in sudden fury. "What yeh talkin' about, you poor dumb dingy! Yeh fixin' to scare me? What do you know about them? Are you one of Quintana's gang, too?"

FULLERTON MAY GET SCIENTIST SCHOOL

FULLERTON, Oct. 8.—A $5-

900,000 university of Church of Christ, Scientist, situated on a 10-acre tract of the Bastanchury ranch, which may come under the Fullerton Chamber of Commerce and other boosters there.

L. P. Drake, a member of the board of directors of the Fullerton Chamber of Commerce, stated that this organization has under consideration plans designed to further the establishment of the university in the northern Orange county city.

L. T. Cline, said to be representing a building corporation of the church, has been in Fullerton twice recently conferring with persons with regard to obtaining a site for the university which the church proposes to locate in California.

"Soft stuff. Don't feed it to me. I told you too much anyway. I was babblin' drunk. I'm drunk now, but I got sense. Do you think I'll run chances of sittin' in State's Prison for the next ten years and leave Eve out here alone? No. I gotta shoot you, Smith. And I'm a-going to do it."

MORE FRENZIED FINANCE

To Cassie Chadwick and Mr. Ponzi, as exemplars of frenzied finance, may now be added George Krause and his wife, Susan Krause, of Pomeroy, O.

Krause is a coal miner. Apparently he lived for more than sixty years without any financial adventures more pretentious than drawing and spending his week's wages. Then, it is charged, he and his wife started borrowing money from their friends and church associates on the promise of big returns.

In connection with an embezzlement suit now pending, this old couple are declared to have borrowed altogether $200,000 to $300,000 in the last two years, in sums running from a couple of hundred dollars up to $100,000. They are very reticent about their mode of procedure, but the woman is said to have represented that the funds were invested by a brother in Indianapolis. Strict secrecy was enjoined in every case, and every investor believed that he was the only one favored with the opportunity.

Thus desire for big profit is said to have impoverished widows and orphans, wage-earners and modest capitalists, in the old familiar way. It is the old story of credulous people imagining that money can be made in unusual amounts by some miraculous process, and taking a blind chance instead of putting their savings into investments which are neither secret nor spectacular, and pay only a modest return but pay it regularly, without endangering the principal.

THE GREEK REVOLUTION

Correspondents who were on the ground describe the Greek revolution as one "which will go down in history as one of the most capably organized and one of the swiftest military upheavals ever affecting the nations of the world."

The leader of the movement justifies it thus: "We were misgoverned at home, and because of that we met military disaster abroad, so we decided to come home and remove both the king and the government—to put our house in order. We removed the king because he was an embarrassment in our foreign relations, and so we asked him to make way for his son."

The objective of the new government, he says, will be "Collaboration with the Entente countries, the immediate reinforcement of the Thracian front, active pushing of the war against the Turks if that should be necessary, and the unification of all parties at home, so long divided by hates."

So far, so good. It is an eloquent indication as to what kings and perhaps other types of rulers may expect from now on if their policies are not pleasing to their people. While this tendency to revolution is not without its sinister side, the fact that it hangs in the air may have a salutary effect on those who govern.

As for the revolution itself, there is this for those who engineered it and those who cheer from the sidelines to consider. It makes little difference why or how a revolution is started—the thing is to keep it under control and properly directed when once it has begun, as the revolution started with such great promise in Russia bears witness.

PRACTICAL PROTEST A SUCCESS

A business observer who has just made a trip through the Middle West speaks of a notable increase in the popularity of Henry Ford as a result of that manufacturer's fight against the high cost of coal. He found that coal for which $9 a ton was being asked three or four weeks ago is now selling for $5 a ton. He doesn't profess to know just who is responsible for the drop, but the public gives Ford the credit, and no doubt is at least partly right.

Ford threw a scare into the coal profiteers and shocked public authorities into action by a sudden, bold stroke. His spectacular closing of his plant, throwing nearly 100,000 men out of work directly and threatening indirectly the jobs of hundreds of thousands more, woke everybody up to the coal situation and gave consumers a rallying cry. It was a fine piece of publicity work, if nothing more. And Mr. Ford, while acting primarily, or possibly altogether, for his own selfish interest, thus acted also for millions of others. It was a practical deed worth more than any quantity of mere preaching and protest.

Similar boldness and practicality on the part of leaders in business, professional life and public life would cut short extortion in many other lines. Profiteers usually "get away with it" merely because nobody calls their bluff.

TRAINING THE VOICES

"No loud talking in the halls" is the edict sent out by the heads of a big high school. A similar order probably has been issued in every school in the country. What a blessing it would be if the movement could be broadened to encourage low-pitched voices among children in their general conversation in school and out. It is neither necessary nor desirable that the shouts of playing children should be repressed sternly, but on the other hand there is every reason why the child should be trained in voice pitch and the pleasant modulation of his speech.

An agreeable speaking voice is not only restful to the ear. It is also a distinct business and social asset for the speaker. It is a fact too often overlooked in the child's early training. The shrill American voice is notorious. If the effort to suppress young voices in school halls were elaborated just a little, the timbre of the national voice could be changed in a generation.

CELEBRATE NAVY DAY

Plans are under way for the general celebration of October 27 as Navy Day. The object is to pay tribute to the navy and arouse interest in it. It is an event which should be as interesting to the inland town as to the coast city, and as earnestly furthered by the stay-at-home civilian as by those accustomed to going down to the sea in ships.

The historic achievements of the United States navy, its activities in war and its duties in peace are less generally known than they should be. A day devoted to special consideration of these topics is little enough.

Service in the naval force as a career for the young man, or as a preliminary to usefulness in other fields, has much to recommend it, with its opportunities for travel, study and varied experience. Nor is interest in this branch of our nation's defense interest in a passing glory. Even though peace and disarmament progress as all the world hopes they may, the time can hardly be foreseen when this or any other major country will not need considerable sea forces for home protection if not for belligerent action.

A WELCOME FOR THE ALIEN

Former Commissioner of Immigration Wallis is lifting his voice for better conditions at Ellis island, where the immigrant gets his first experience of America. He feels that Americanization work should start at that point.

"You can make an anarchist over night at Ellis island," says Mr. Wallis.

This is not the first time it has been suggested that the situation at Ellis island needed improvement. It would be a pity the suggestion needs repetition. It is a very difficult matter to make conditions ideal, but much could be done to better them. The trouble arises not because of the indifference of those handling the immigrants when they come in, but because the subject as a whole never has been provided for on the big scale which its needs demand.

First impressions sink deep and often are lasting. After handpicking and sifting immigrants at the foreign ports, the next best step toward assimilation and Americanization undoubtedly would be a welcome at the gates of America which predisposed the alien to believe in and trust the new land to which he has come. If he leaves the port of entry ugly and disillusioned, it is bad for him and bad for the country which must harbor him. In the general reform of our immigrant policy this point should not be forgotten.

Highways and Railroad

Riverside Press

Railroads lay their track first and then provide rolling stock. Automobile owners have followed the opposite method. They have got their cars first and then looked around for roads to run them over.

That is what makes the great American highway problem. Figures presented by Philip S. Rose in The Country Gentleman make the comparison of highway and railroad illuminating.

It is a perfectly fair comparison, for as transportation agencies the two are nearer together than most persons suppose. The highways take care of more people than the railroads do. Automobiles are estimated to have carried last year nearly 7,000,000,000 passengers while the railroads carried 1,934,000,000. The automobile hauls were shorter, yet reckoned on a passenger-mile basis, the automobile record for the year is 70,000,000,000 to the railroads' 37,000,000,000.

In the matter of freight, even, the railroads have not such overwhelming superiority as might be expected. In actual tonnage they carried only a little more than trucks, though their average hauls were far longer and their ton-miles about 50 times that of the trucks.

The important fact is that motor traffic is rapidly assuming as much importance as steam traffic, and the building of roads—tracks for the motor cars—started late and is not keeping pace with the increase of rolling stock. Five years ago there were one and one-half motor vehicles to a mile of road. Last January there were four.

In California at least the automobiles, the buses and the trucks are not paying their just share of the upkeep of the roads built by public taxation for their use. The public does not provide the railroads with tracks and right of way, and if we are to do that for passenger and freight lines operating on the highways, we should in all fairness compel the payment of taxes commensurate with privileges granted.

The College Loafers to Go

Stockton Record

There seems to be a growing sentiment for getting all youth down to hard work in college by eliminating both easy courses and easy students. The council of education has been grappling with the problem offered by our crowded colleges and the consensus of opinion seems to be that the drones of either sex must go in the interest of those who take college seriously. Will C. Wood, state superintendent of public instruction, back from a series of education conferences in the Middle West and Northwest, says:

"There is a growing feeling that in our institutions of higher education we have been sacrificing quality of scholarship for quantity of students. The large classes found in some of the larger institutions are difficult to handle. College executives are therefore considering ways and means for reducing numbers without sacrificing educational opportunities for deserving students. The college loafer is becoming taboo. Elimination of the loafer can effect a saving of at least two years in the total course of preparation for the professions."

That sounds like a symptom of healthy growth. From a time when only the specially brilliant young American got an opportunity to go to college we came to a time when everybody went if only for the veneer of a college education was supposed to give. The first American college youths trained only for three professions, law, medicine and the ministry. Then the people discovered that education is a good thing to mix with many other pursuits in life and that led to trained engineers, scientists, chemists, educators, business men, farmers, etc. Finally came the youngsters with that vague and pleasing idea that an education "helps one to live" even if it does not lead to anything definite. For them what was known as the "pipe" courses.

The work has been made increasingly difficult for the serious minded with more and more specialization along every line. It is healthy and right now that the crowding has come to eliminate the worst workers and let the fittest survive. No American boy or girl with an earnest desire to go to college should be deprived of the privilege and none will be, but education will come to have a higher meaning and will be more appreciated if going to college ceases to be a pastime for any and purposeful for all.

Against This Tax Measure

Sacramento Bee

No. 29 on the November ballot is the Single Tax camouflaged under the title of "Land Franchise Taxation."

Its first section proclaims that private property rights attach only to products of labor and not to land; and that it is the duty of the state to collect from the holders of land its full rental value—not as a tax but as a moral obligation, etc.—and not to tax improvements on land.

This idea, in some form, has been submitted to the People of California in every general election since 1912, and each time was badly beaten. A majority of 350,000 votes was cast against it two years ago, and doubtless a like fate awaits the present measure.

This Wall May Be a Blessing

The Home Circle

By MARCELINE D'ALROY, International Lecturer

The Home Circle—what a picture of coziness, of contentment, of completion it brings, but then that is natural, for the last two words are filled with charm. Yes, there is the magic of healing in the word Home; and the magic of completion in the word Circle.

In the outside world we get hurt; in the outside world nothing seems ever completed, but inside, at "home," within that charmed circle lies the cure for all our outside ills.

Have you noticed when you throw a stone in a pond how it makes circle after circle. Well, it is like that I see the life, with the home impetus, with circle after circle spreading from it. For in the home we start as a baby, our clinging arms forming a necklace round our Mother's neck, as we lie within the safe circle of her tender arms. Then we grow up, and there is the home circle; the family circle; it grows more, and then we have our circle of friends and acquaintances.

Maybe we marry and start new circles of our own. The Circle of Life, and Home the pivot around which all our circles revolve. Home—the beginning and the end of all things; and the kind of home we came from will determine the circles that we shall cause around us.

So, looked at like that, how great, how deep, how far-reaching is the effect that our homes are to have on ourselves, our children, and the world in general. It is worth while to think and think deeply and wisely.

For if we think deeply and wisely, we shall act that way and quickly, too. We shall realize that though a Mother's arms may cradle the baby, they must guide the child. A boy who is ceaselessly petted becomes weak; another thing in the boy is the desire of the man to be getting on, going straight on, accomplishing. Sooner or later he goes out into the world, faces it, fights it, and the result of that fight depends largely, almost entirely, on one thing only, his early home environment.

So those dear, wise women that I have heard called "the sweethearts of the world"—I mean the real Mothers—will look to their homes, look to their circles.

Can you make your home more beautiful, more home-like, more efficient? Do you wish to? But of course, for in that way you serve your country greatly and well.

Enlarge the circle of your vision, and draw all the knowledge, wisdom, efficiency, from without into that charmed circle called Home.

Worth While Verse

EPITAPH

I ask no stone to mark me where I lie,
Only a pine's tall shaft in a deep wood Beneath blue skies with white clouds drifting by Where I may sleep in soundless solitude.

And let there be no written record planned—
My school shall be the seasons as they pass.
The white of snows when Winter veils the land;
The moons of Springtime latticing the grass—

It may be then that I shall hear again
The things I loved so well so long ago—
The fitful drumming of the young year's rain,
The first Spring flowers thrusting through the snow.

Tolerance

By Bertalan Erley

A little boredom now and then,
Is healthy for the brightest men;
It touches patience, calm and poise,
And adds a lull to our joys:
For when you've listened to a bore
For half an hour or maybe more,
You are so glad to get away
That anything will make you gay!

The dullest books, the dullest folks,
The fustiest of tales and jokes
Enhance your natural delight
In anything that's new and bright.
So when a bore drones in your ear
Long years you do not care to hear.

Consider, as he talks to you,
How glad you'll be when he is through.

If you can listen with a smile
While he goes on in dreary style,
If you don't Crack Beneath the Strain
Think how your Character will gain!

You've learned the secret of control,
And you are Captain of your soul.
The bore's a useful chap, you see—
From whom, Good Lord, deliver me!

CANDIDATE WOOLWINE'S
ADDRESS

Redlands Facts.—Thomas Lee Woolwine, candidate of the Democratic party for Governor of California, spoke to an audience of some 5000 people in the Redlands amphitheatre last evening. Mr. Woolwine is a speaker of ability and charm, and while he did not create a profound impression upon his audience, at all times during his discussion he demonstrated that he is a Southern gentleman, and undoubtedly convinced of the wisdom of the policies he would put into effect in California. His remarks upon the Eighteenth Amendment were listened to with much attention, and there is no doubt he made some people gasp with the information he brought of the presence of crime under existing conditions.

As the editor of this paper understood Mr. Woolwine, he is for the modification of the Volstead Act because he believes it cannot be enforced in its present form and that the violations of it have already reached such a stage that the young people of the land are growing up in an atmosphere of law-breaking, which because of its approval by many prominent people, bodes ill for the future of the republic.

The sincerity of Mr. Woolwine's belief in his position is not open to argument. The weight of the story he tells is large. That felony prosecutions in Los Angeles county should increase 100 per cent between 1920 and 1922 demonstrates something is wrong. Mr. Woolwine says it is bootleg liquor and narcotics and alleges that in his position as district attorney of the county he can clearly see these things.

The problem as The Facts sees it, if we concede Mr. Woolwine's premise to be correct, is—Where is the remedy for prevailing conditions? Does it lie in a modification of the Volstead Act, so that the lighter liquors shall be available, with the thought that if they are put within reach of the people, those who are now using "bootleg and narcotics" will abandon such practices and take up rather the lighter and less injurious stimulants?

Probably it would not be contended by Mr. Woolwine and others who think as he does that there is much hope of saving the toppers who have already entered upon the considerable consumption of bootleg and narcotics. History does not show men tapering down from the strong to the weak, but rather tapering up from the weak to the strong.

So we may as well practically abandon the hardened sinners and merely ask the further question if it is the better policy to place in front of our boys and girls light liquors, rather than to outlaw all liquors, and expose them to such temptations as may be had from bootleggers and narcotic peddlers?

This paper does not believe the people are going to be satisfied to turn down the prohibition principle with the present showing. There has not time enough elapsed since the principle went into effect, not a sufficient enforcement of the law, to show what it can do. Is it not at least as good a guess as the solution of the problem that we are confronted with as is Mr. Woolwine's proposed solution of making plentiful the lighter stimulants, that we pass the Wright Act and give this state at least ample enforcement officers (so that the Volstead Act shall be tested out for a while under fair conditions)?

All the old wet interests are behind such an experiment as Mr. Woolwine suggests. Possibly they are right. But there ought to be a fair test of the strict enforcement plan before we go back to it.

Benny, take this quarter and run around to the cigar store and get me 2 Queen Billie cigars, if I don't have a smook in 5 minnits I'm a ded man.

Yes sir, I sed. And I ran all the way to the cigar store as fast as lightning and started to run back agen even faster carrying the cigars in a paper bag in one hand and the first thing I knew I was ony carrying the bag on account of the cigars having jumped out while I was running, and I went back and pritty soon I found them looking all rite except for a loose end on one and 2 small cracks on the other one, and I started to run home agen, and the next thing I knew I tripped over a stuck up brick and fell rite down on top of the cigars, proberly being the ony thing that kept them from coming out of the bag agen, thinking

HEALTH

Something About How to Keep Well.

To avoid contracting grip or colds, or any other contagious disease, for that matter, the following "don'ts" are well to remember.

Don't let a person sneeze or cough in your face.

Don't forget to cover every sneeze or cough.

Don't get your feet wet and don't stand long on cold pavements.

Don't get into crowded places where there is apt to be poor ventilation.

Adventures of The Twins

Birds Come to Twins' Aid

By Olive Roberts Barton

"Ho! What do I see?" cried the Green Wizard, looking down from the tree-tops.

A minute before Nancy and Nick had been rolling along as comfy as the footman on Cinderella's coach in plain view of everybody, but now there wasn't a thing to be seen but a thick white fog that covered everything.

"Hopping goldfish and swimming grasshoppers!" cried the Green Wizard, shading his eyes and looking harder than ever. "I mean 'swimming goldfishes' and 'hopping grasshoppers'—no I mean, goodness! I don't know what I mean. I'm completely flabbergasted. Now where did that fog come from and who sent it?"

Suddenly the Green Wizard guessed the truth. He guessed tricky little Light Fingers was at the bottom of the trouble.

"Now I know exactly what happened," said he. "Light Fingers is still trying to steal the automobile I made for the Fairy Queen and he has duped the weatherman's nar-rel of fog out of the sky so he can catch the Twins. Hark, I believe I hear him coming. Yes, sir, I certainly do. I must be quick!"

The Green Wizard went first to the birds. He knocked on everybody's front door in Whispering Forest and Old Orchard and Bright Meadow and told each one the trouble.

Instantly Chris Crow, Bill Blackbird, Sally Sparrow, Oliver Oriole, Oscar Owl, Casper Catbird, Beinda Bluebird, Bobbie Robin, Wilhelmina Wren, Harry Hummingbird and lots of others flew to the place the fog was and began to flap their wings.

Next the Green Wizard went to the butterflies. Soon Sis Silver-spot and Sammy Skipper and Dave Dusky-Wing and Polly Painted-Lady and all the other butterflies flew off to help. Such flapping of wings as there was!

They blew the fog away and the Twins continued their journey. (Copyright, 1922, NEA Service.)

The Opening Week Of A Perpetual Campaign For Better And Happier American Homes

BETTER AMERICAN HOMES

The White House,
Washington.

It gives me especial pleasure to record my endorsement and approval of "Better Homes" week. It may be trite, but it is everlastingly true that the home is the corner-stone of our civilization. Better homes, more attractive homes, homes whose occupants will find true refreshment and real inspiration to increased efforts for education and culture—such homes are the ones which assure greatest stability to our institutions, greatest security to our society. I can not but feel that the effort you are making is one which deserves a wider projection, and would be glad if your example might presently be an inspiration to a nation wide enterprise of the same kind.

Very truly yours,
WARREN G. HARDING.

WHAT IS A HOME?

Four walls and a roof? No.

You may build your walls of massive marble, hang them with richest tapestries, pile your floors deep with silken carpets and crowd your habitation with the masterpieces of the great artists, and still you shall not have made a home.

What is a home?

A log cabin in the clearing, a sod house on the prairie, if so be it holds peace and contentment for those who dwell therein.

In the ancient picture-writing of China the symbols representing a woman and a child when combined make the character that means "good." With two strokes of his brush, making a roof over his woman and child, the Chinese writer draws the character "home."

What is a home?

Man, woman, children—those three—and contentment.

The perfect home holds all of these in ties that no outward force can break. It is the mirror of the souls of those who live in it. It reflects in its outward presence and its inward spirit the tastes, the aspirations, the characters of those who have made it a home.

The spirit of the home needs no palace for its domicile. From the hearthstone of the humblest human habitation there may radiate such a message of comfort and good will as to draw friends irresistibly across its threshold.

From such homes came forth the great men and noble women whose names and memories we, as Americans, cherish and venerate. To the memory of such homes the men and women who are upholding America's high standards of character and conduct hark back for the inspiration that guides their lives. In such homes are being nurtured today the ideals of beauty, truth, courage and devotion that shall inspire the men and women of a new generation to plant those standards on yet loftier heights.

To build homes that shall foster these ideas, shaped and planned to convey to the wayfarer without somewhat of the spirit that dwells within, and so furnished forth in the full expression of that spirit that whoever shall once find shelter therein shall forever after know no such perfect happiness and contentment elsewhere, is the purpose and aim of Better Homes Week and the great men and women behind this movement.

When Every Piece in the Suite is Found to be Perfect, the Result is Bound to be Pleasing

HERE IS A BEDROOM SUCH AS WOMEN DREAM ABOUT

FIREPLACE FOUND ALWAYS POPULAR

While modernism in the home has crowded many and many a once-cherished article of furniture or decoration into the realms of forgotten things, the fireplace in one form or another holds its own in favor, with apparently no prospect of passing. In picture, song and story, it is the symbol of the home and the best it stands for. While hospitality remains a virtue and the love of cheer persists in the heart, the fireplace stands little chance of losing its place in the affections of the family.

And while the fireplace continues to be a feature in the impression carried by the living room, the dining room or the hall, the mantel will hold its own. True, its function is decorative, rather than practical. Yet the place it has made for itself is so permanent that any consideration of home decoration sooner or later will deal with the mantel. It may stand over a fireplace whose use is imaginary rather than real, but still it is a mantel and its decorative possibilities demand attention.

A pleasant sense of admiration akin to satisfaction, and a desire for ownership, make themselves manifest when one looks upon this attractive bedroom suite.

This illustration probably represents, in a general way, the mental picture formed by many housewives who have nourished the hope of some time having such a suite for their own home.

The design is a French adaptation with pleasing grace and suggests a lifetime of service. The twin beds form the center of attraction and, with their spread of linen, combined with handmade laces, would be cherished by the painstaking woman who takes pride in her home. The pillows are lace filled.

More charm is lent to the suite by the dressing table, with its large upright and two movable mirrors, of just the right dimensions to meet all of a lady's needs. The writing desk and its two small twin lamps add to the completeness of the suite.

The hassock is upholstered in hand-blocked linen, with pipings of plain colors, the dressing stool with covering to match, the cane-backed chamber chair, the night stand and its lamp, with soft-toned shade, and the English china vase comprise the necessary and useful small pieces to meet the comfort of the occupant. The two-toned rug is in keeping with the color scheme of the suite.

This suite is one that would bring a deep sense of satisfaction and pride in possessing.

PERSONALITY IS STRONG FACTOR THROUGHOUT

Personal Touch Reaches Into Every Corner of Every Room In House

Homemakers, men and women, almost invariably are harassed by a sense of their own limitations in the matter of selecting and arranging household furnishings. They usually are confused by a medley of suggestions from friends and acquaintances, and appalled by various proclamations relating to so-called infallible standard in household decoration.

Under circumstances such as these, it is always well to begin with the question of requirements. There is no escape from this question where a human habitation comes under discussion. It enters into consideration whether the house is to be used by a single family, whether it is a tenement, a studio building, a hut in the wilderness or a cottage in city, town or country.

Personal Touch Rules
It is apparent that to make the home successful, it is essential to know the needs of those who are to dwell in it, their circumstances and the relations they bear to the community in which they live. There is more than a little truth in the statement that a man's duties to himself must guide him on one side and his obligations to his neighbor on the other. These he must balance.

There appears little room for question, but that the responsibility of comprehending and respecting the domestic and social requirements rest for the most part, upon the woman. To be successful as their interpreter, the housewife must make them a particular study.

It would seem that the decoration of a home implies, primarily, making provision for special needs. The degree of felicity with which these provisions are made, marks the excellence of one decorator over another. In all instances there must be a thorough knowledge and observance of propriety and proportion.

Social Nature Rules
Man, whether it be his individual desire or not, is a social being. He cannot live by himself alone. It stands to reason, therefore, that he should build or decorate his home without consideration of his fellow beings. By making his own life full, he equips himself for enriching that of others. The true spirit of decoration leaves none of these questions neglected. The eternal quest of the home-lover should be for the best means by which these various requirements can be met.

The one thought to be constantly borne in mind is, that it is the business of all who are interested in the decoration of homes, whether simple or elaborate, to arrange and rearrange until desired results be attained. Wall papers, curtains, draperies, rugs, pictures and furniture are nothing more or less than the tools whereby the decorator obtains the atmosphere he desires.

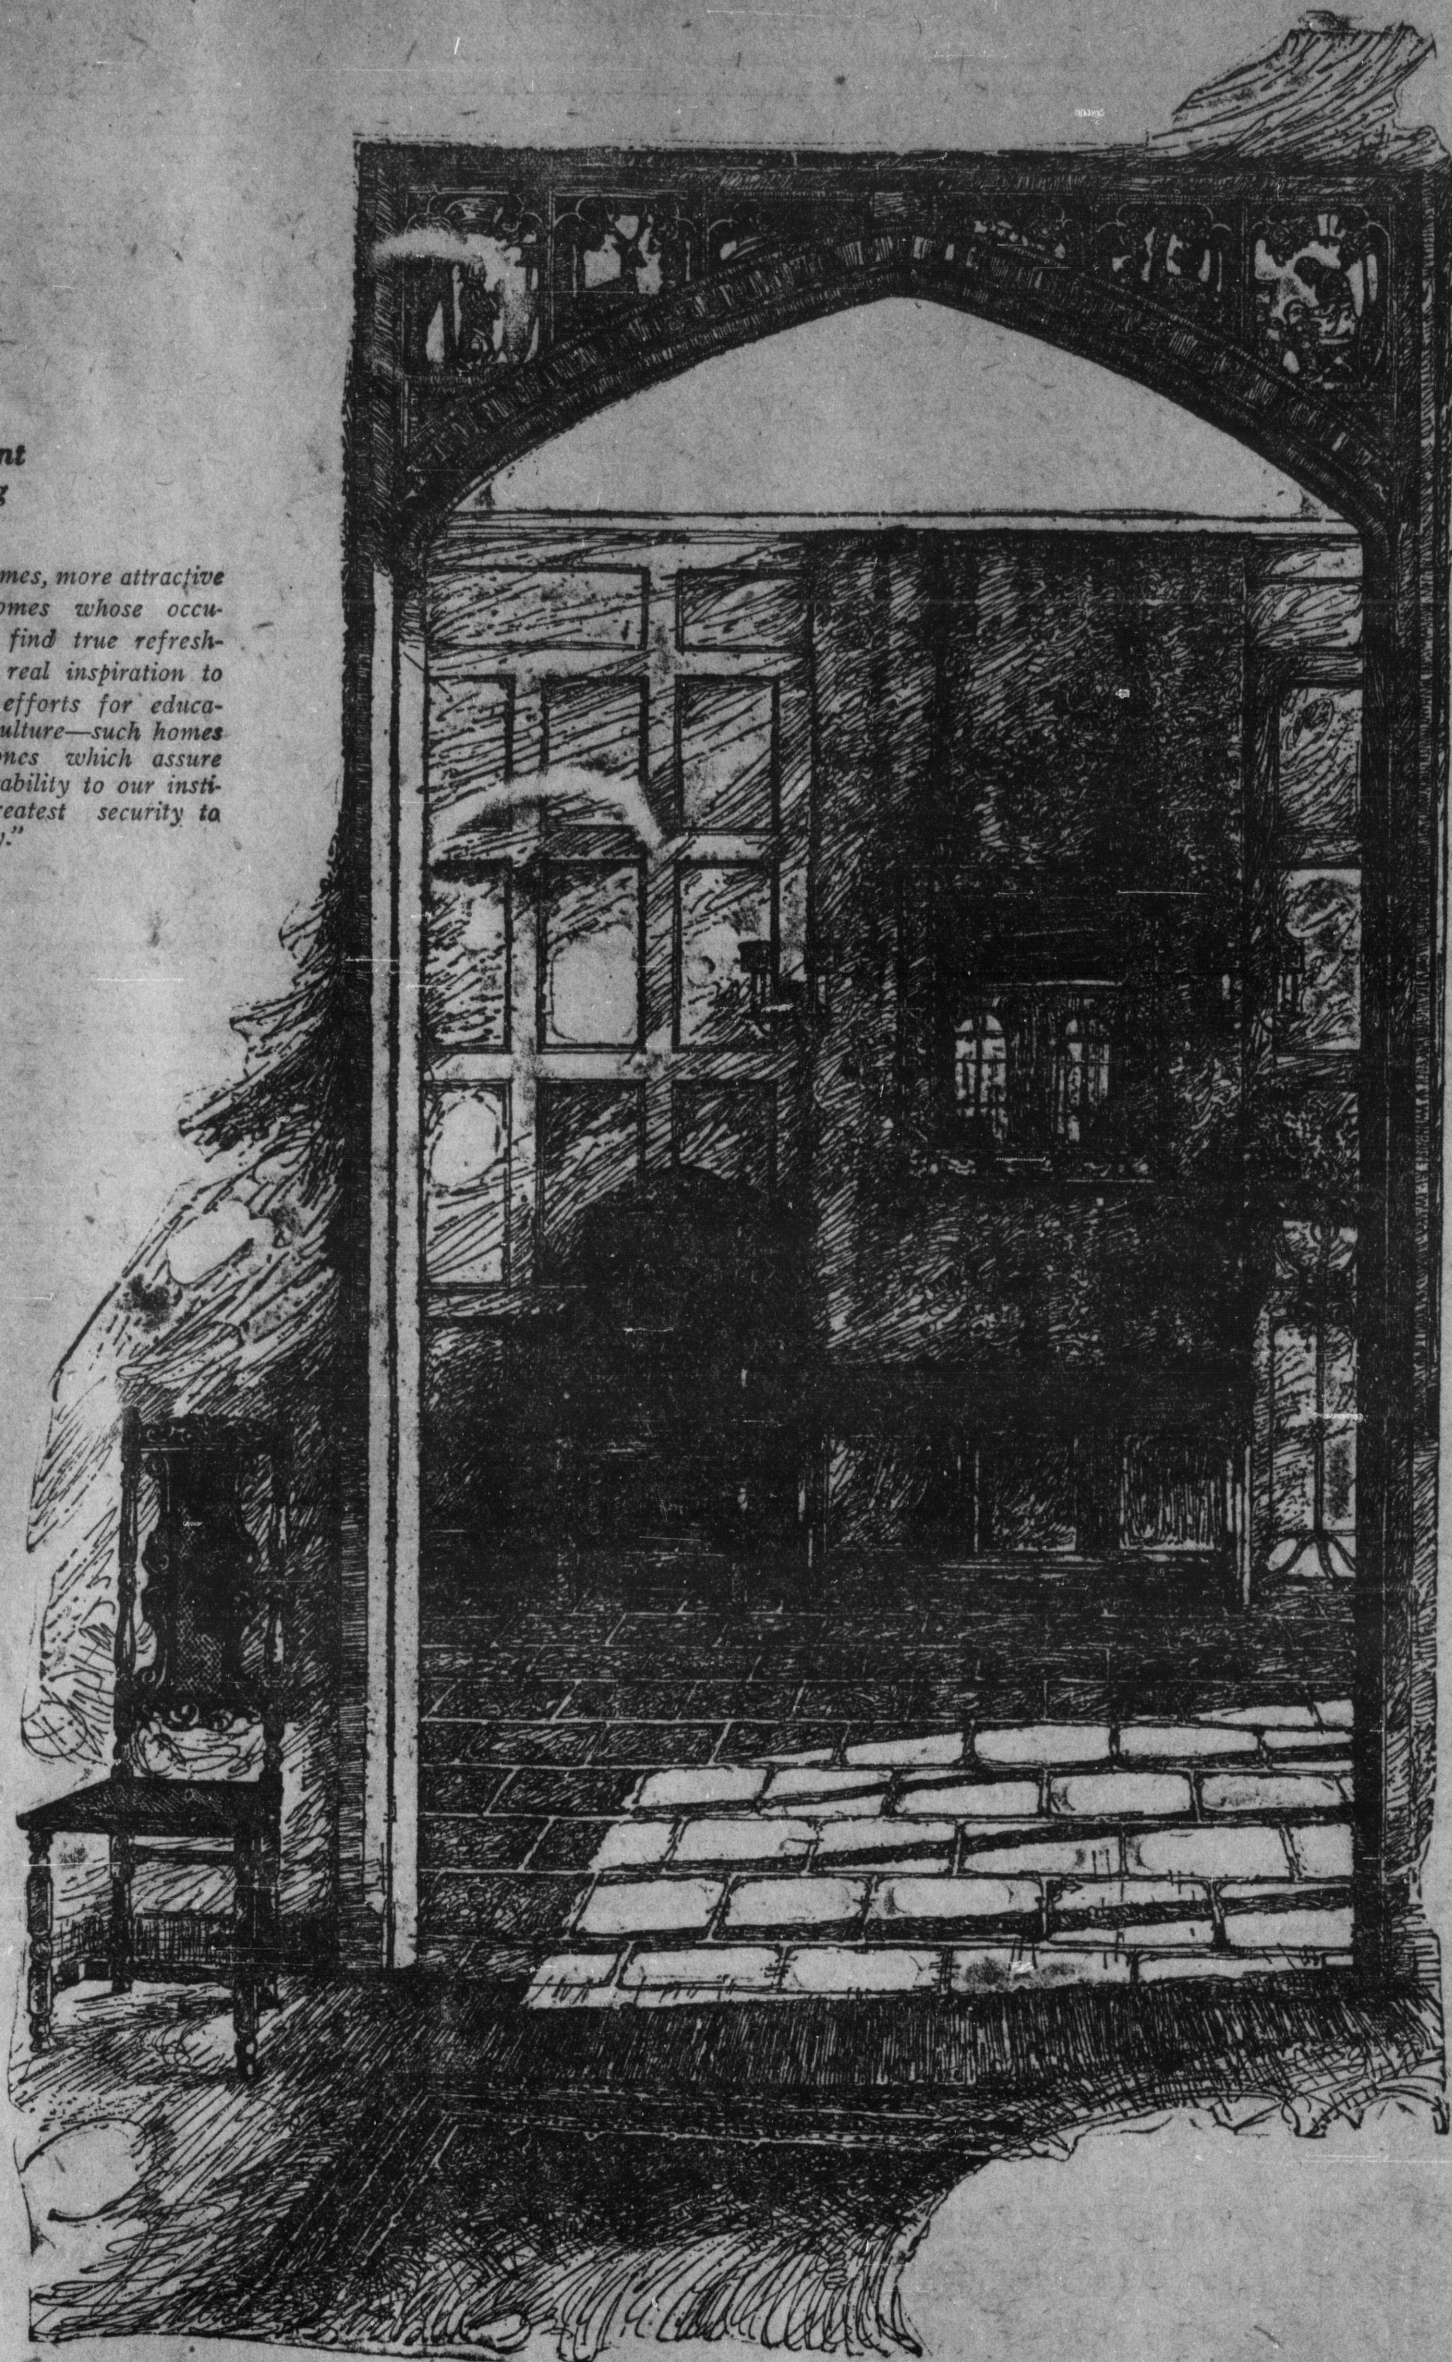

ARE FIVE METHODS OF MAKING CRETONNE

There are five methods of manufacturing cretonne used in this country today. All of these transfer the pattern from wooden blocks. American chintz is synonym for cretonne. The basic fabric may be homespun, swansdown, Alvos silk, ticking, scrim, French rep, Antoinette rep, voile, tulle-like cloth, marquisette, krinkle cloth, Standish cloth, Terry cloth, madras, silk-oline, dimity, crash, sateen and Norman cloth.

LACE TUNIC SUGGESTED
A dinner gown of black velvet has an over-tunic of delicate lace threaded with silver and gold. The girdle, placed low, is of twisted strands of gold and silver.

President Harding Says:

"Better homes, more attractive homes, homes whose occupants will find true refreshment and real inspiration to increased efforts for education and culture—such homes are the ones which assure greatest stability to our institutions, greatest security to our society."

Your Home

October 9 to 14

National Better Homes Week and Furniture Style Show

—Beauty and harmony are essential in the furnishing of your home, yet practicability is of important consideration. Your home should be furnished in good taste, yet it is not necessary that it be expensively furnished.

—Home means the same to those in moderate circumstances as it does to the rich—in cottage or mansion the home environment has its influence on future citizenship, the character moulded into the child by proper home surroundings is carried through life.

—Spurgeon's offers you the opportunity for correct home furnishing from a stock so diversified that every requirement can be met whether it be for a mansion in which cost is of minor consideration or cottage where economy must be practiced. In every instance the price is consistent with the quality.

—Coupled with good merchandise is the ability of the Spurgeon organization to assist you in the planning of your home furnishing and Spurgeon service that assures satisfaction.

OFFERS ADVICE ON FINANCING BUILDING

Following is the text of a monograph on "Financing a Home," prepared by the division of building and housing, Department of Commerce:

In purchasing a home a mistake may be unfortunate, so get the best advice you can, and watch every step.

First of all, what you buy is the site and the improvements on it. If a building and loan association, or bank, loans you money on the property, it has a direct financial interest in helping you guard yourself on certain points, such as making sure that there are no old mortgages, or unpaid back taxes, or bills for building materials, or other claims against the property.

Be certain your title is clear, or have it insured or guaranteed. Learn of any easements, such as the right of a telephone company to place its poles upon your lot.

How to Buy It

If you make a purchase offer with a cash deposit, include a statement as to whether window shades, stoves, and other movable property are included. Risk from loss by fire or elements should be assumed by the owner until the title passes to you.

Your offer should be dependent on your obtaining a satisfactory loan to finance the proposition, and the ability of the owners to furnish papers to show a good marketable title, free from liens or encumbrances. In other words, do not bind yourself to the purchase until you are sure of what you are paying for, and that you can finance it.

You must be prepared to pay taxes on your property, and special assessments for installation of water, sewage, electric light, gas or other public utilities, or street paving and sidewalks. Note what improvements are already made, and what additional ones you may have to pay for.

How to Pay For Your Home
In buying a house and lot you must borrow what you cannot pay in cash.

Remember that the more risks you assume, the fewer the lender will have to charge you for. Your promise to pay back what you borrow will be secured by a mortgage or trust on the property.

A first mortgage loan on not over one-half or two-thirds of the value of a piece of property is a very safe investment, and the rates of interest should be low. The lender on a second mortgage takes more risk, and rates of interest and discounts are higher.

If you agree to buy a home without the title passing to you at once, the seller takes less risk and you may save money.

Where to get Loans
There are building and loan associations throughout the country, usually organized to serve the needs of people like yourself.

Living-Room in Small Apartment Just as Well be Made Artistic

who wish to finance a home.

Their plan of weekly or monthly payments, both on principal and for interest, has proved sound from the experience of millions of people as an aid to systematic saving. Loans may often be obtained from savings banks, trust companies, state banks, individuals, and trustees for estates.

Obtaining money on a second mortgage is usually not so easy. Remember that when the owner of a house takes a second mortgage in payment he may plan to sell it for four-fifths or less of its face value, and that he probably charges you accordingly.

Above all, when you start to save for a home do not throw your money into glittering schemes that promise big dividends and the chance to borrow money at 3 per cent or less.

CURTAINS ESSENTIAL FOR AN IMPRESSION

In the ensemble of the room, no single article of decoration contributes more to the general effect, good or bad, than the window curtains. In the sweep of the eye that the visitor involuntarily gives to the room on entering it, the vision is attracted to the windows and necessarily the curtains add their share to the impression given by the room as a whole.

MATERIAL COUNTS.
A good table is expensive, but, again, a good table made of exquisite wood, honestly made and simply designed will last for generations, and will be equally as pleasing to the third generation as to this.

Ancients developed the art of engraving on emeralds, which were in great demand.

WILLIAM AND MARY STYLE POPULAR

Of all historic furniture styles which have recently enjoyed revivals, one of the most adaptable to modern home environment is the style of William and Mary.

Immediately following the Stuart period in England came the reigns of the sovereigns from Holland—William and Mary and Queen Anne. Court life, not so formal and luxurious as under the Stuarts, had its effect in dictating a certain turn toward domesticity. Furniture based on the stylish expression of either of these English reigns comes to us today as an agreeable and proper type for our home environment.

The most readily distinguished feature of design in William and Mary furniture is seen in the "Bell-turnings" of the legs, and in the general absence of a profusion of carved ornament. The transition between the styles of William and Mary and Queen Anne, however, was not sharply defined. Thus the "spiral" characteristic of Queen Anne chair backs, is also seen in many William and Mary chairs. The two styles, indeed, may be very agreeably blended in the same interior. The simple living room shown illustrates the suitability of adapted William and Mary furniture forms for unpretentious American homes of today.

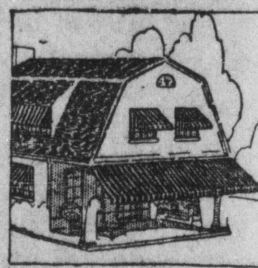

Eavesdropping

Homes not Houses

EAVESDROPPING! That's what it was. Might as well confess that part of it before I begin. But what a ripe bit of conversation I gathered for home-lovers.

They Conversed

"That's just it," interrupted she with an artistic soul, "She did live in a house, comfortable, too, so far as beds, tables and chairs go, but soulless, absolutely soulless—just a house."

I Talk

—Wonder how many wholly responsible parents realize the lasting influence of home surroundings in the lives of their children and themselves!

—Perhaps they know that their surroundings lack repose, refinement, sincerity, but the moon of introducing restful furnishings is ever postponed.

—Let not a wanted auto cause such a delay, nor yet a vacation at the resort, nor plead a static bank account!

They Continued

—"Really! Hard to recover from early impressions. Now I wonder at the taste shown in her new furnishings."

—"Ah—sometimes exceptional opportunities are offered."

I held my breath. Could it be? Would it be? I—

—"There's an Easy Payment Plan at Horton's—a very easy payment plan—that explains—"

No need to eavesdrop after that.

Statistics

—Wonder how many, many Santa Ana homes have ascended to a surprising degree of artistry because that champion of the artistic, the Horton Easy Payment Plan, with its convenient arrangement that allows one to buy home things and take plenty of time to pay, a little at a time, wouldn't allow moderate circumstances to produce a mediocre home.

—Use it, in the name of better homes; make the leisurely purchase of good furniture possible and the enjoyment of it while it's being paid for possible, and assure an atmosphere of dignity and composure for the background of your home.

Furnishings to Make a House a Home

Such little things—are they really little?—yet what an influence of carelessness they exert and how they affect one's behaviour!

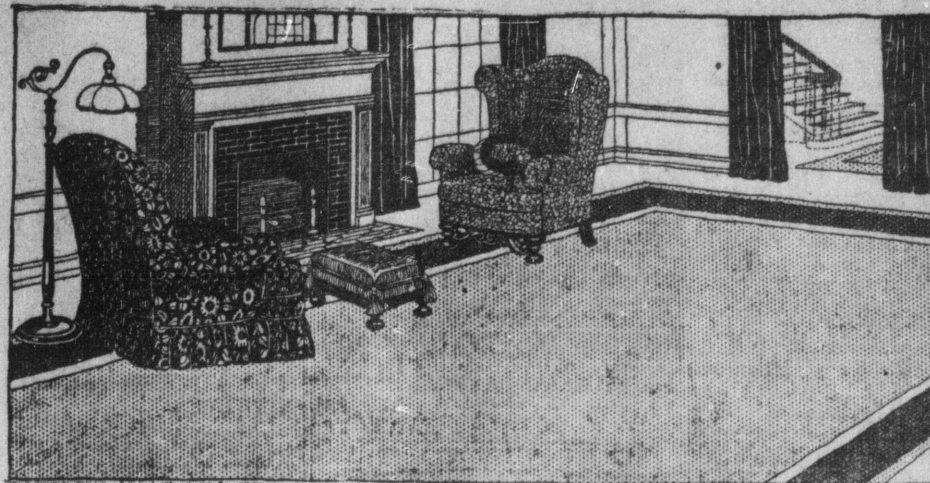

Let's begin now to make over our home.

A New Car and a Shabby Home vs.

"A Car that will Do" and a Home of Renewed Beauty

WOULDN'T it be a terrible thing for Santa Ana if everybody preferred a car of the latest model to a beautiful, reposeful home?

We know a man—

That man came to our store the other day and wanted to know if we could put him in touch with someone who had a second-hand living room suite to sell cheap. Pattern didn't matter, style meant nothing—

That same man bought a new 1922 car for the simple reason that he liked the lines better than his 1920 model which needed a new coat of paint and had a slight tear in the upholstery!

He didn't care whether or not his living room furniture needed paint or had tears in the upholstery!

And his wife and children reflect his carelessness at home both mentally and physically.

He Could Completely Furnish His Home on the First Year's Depreciation on His New Car!

Wonder if that ever occurred to him!

Understand us, we believe a man must have a car in Southern California to really enjoy its beauties and to get the most out of healthy outdoor pleasure.

But must it be a new car and a shabby home?

Won't the old car do, with a little extra care, while a man is making a HOME out of his house?

Then the end of each ride will be a home-coming to be anticipated—comfortable, restful, all harmonious, beautiful.

You are interested in better HOMES— Heres a thought for you!—

How much influence upon the completed result of your HOME is the interior trim, cabinet work, windows and doors, and floors going to have?

Did you ever stop to realize that these items comprise over one-half of the furnishings of any HOME?

Take the floors for instance, they form a background for your rugs and no matter how fine a rug you may have it will not show to advantage on a poor floor.

And the type and finish of the interior trim will influence the selection of your furniture more than any other factor in the entire building.

The built-in features like mantle, bookcases, buffet, etc., should be given the same thought as the selection of any piece of furniture in the HOME.

The type of windows is going to make all the difference in the world with your draperies.

You cannot plan a successful HOME without giving these factors consideration. The Barr Lumber Company are specialists in the sale and manufacture of all these items and they maintain a service room for your use. Call and get posted on these matters.

SEEK HARMONY THROUGH RUG SELECTION

Harmony of the rug with its surroundings is the first consideration in placing it in a position where you want it to be effective from the decorative point of view. Beware of the misfit rug and its effects on its neighbors in the room.

Any rug which is totally different in character from its surroundings will strike a jarring note in the appearance of the room. An awkward-placed rug, such for example, as one which crosses the corners and does not follow the lines of the room will spoil the whole effect. Avoiding heavy borders and large figures is another point to beware of. After all that has been said and written about the use of large figured rugs in small rooms and in connection with other details out of harmony with them, one would suppose that the average home-maker would be able to place them correctly, but every little while one sees rugs which are wholly out of keeping with their surroundings.

Oriental rugs may be used with more or less freedom and two-toned rugs of neutral shades are always in good taste and are seldom trying to the eye. A conservative plan of floor decoration may be carried out by keeping the pattern scheme intact and avoiding a monotonous appearance by laying rugs of the same pattern, but of varying sizes.

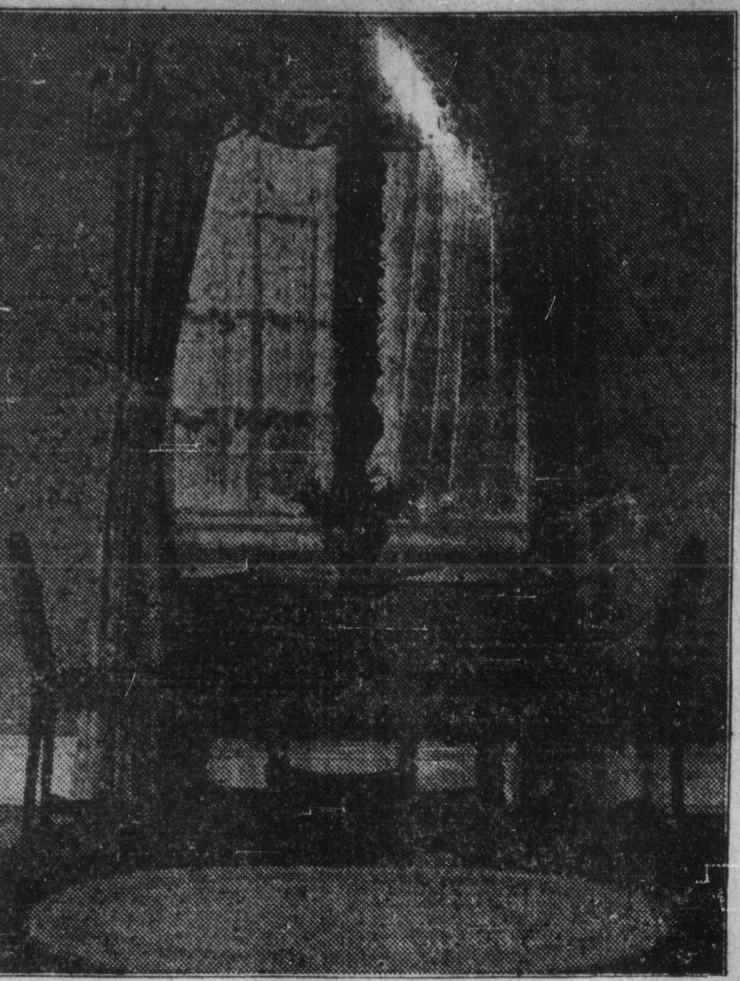

Explains Rug Weaves
Winifred Foles, in a recent magazine article, explains the why and wherefore of the various weaves of rugs and their utility of construction. She says:

"There is probably no better wearing rug for its price than body Brussels. The pile, formed of uncut loops, is stiff and wiry, and neither absorbs dust, nor mats down like a cut pile. On the other hand it is less soft and luxurious, and lacks the velvety richness caused by cutting. Brussels has been practically out of the market for some time, but it is now coming in. It gives particularly good service in the dining room, as crumbs can be easily removed from its wiry surface and the constant moving to and fro of chairs does not leave marks as in the case of cut pile carpets.

"Tapestry Brussels is an imitation of body Brussels, invented in England in 1831. It costs less, but is neither as heavy and durable nor as desirable in patterns and colors as the genuine."

ACIDS AS CLEANSING AGENTS.
Acids are coming into more common use for housekeeping purposes. The bathroom floor tiling can be cleaned with a weak solution of hydrochloric or, as it is commonly called, muriatic acid. This same acid, used in a medicine dropper on an iron rust stain will remove the stain without damage if the cloth is rinsed in weak ammonia. Label the bottle "poison," for even the mildest acids may be dangerous.

Study in Selection of Curtains Makes Big Difference in Room

HERE IS A PLEASING SETTING FOR LOVE IN A COTTAGE IN ORANGE COUNTY.

GOODBY, HOUSE HELP, JUICE DOING WORK YOU USED TO DO

Good-bye, Bridget, Hannah and Lena! Your days are numbered, if, indeed, not entirely over. Those beautiful mountain streams high in the Sierra have taken your place. Electricity, that silent, safe force, has brought the power of these waterfalls into your home to wash your clothes, cook your meals, clean your house and solve your servant problems.

At breakfast time think of the joy of sitting at your table with an electric percolator making your coffee, a toaster stove frying your bacon and eggs or pancakes, and a turnover toaster making your toast. Truly this is pure joy. Even the efficient Bridget is in the way, for now she has no work left to do. Electricity has taken her place.

And the dishes—yes, electricity will do this for you—at a snap of the switch the dishwasher starts, and, lo and behold, your dishes are clean.

Even sewing by electricity has been revolutionized. No need of milady tiring herself

A little study of the window to be decorated and a close attention to the selection of materials for the curtains resulted in this pleasing and cozy effect for a cottage type window. In this illustration it is proved that low windows and cozy cottage types are obviously the place for smart little sprigged patterns and reveals a general suggestion of what can be accomplished by a little care and study.

The sprigged chintz used for valances is printed in Holland blue on a checked ground in yellow and white with accents in black. This valance is little more than a deftly made ruffle and is just what such a window calls for. A formal stiff valance on this type of window would not do.

The various dotted muslins are favorites for glass curtains and are particularly suited for suburban or country house use and for bedrooms.

As a background for the gate-leg table and the low-backed chairs what more inviting or suitable arrangement would be asked for in a small cottage or small apartment?

with the old-fashioned foot treadle machine. Electricity will do this work, and many thousands of housewives find pleasure in sewing the electrical way.

SOLVE PROBLEM DINING-ROOM PRESENTS

By the common consent of decorators and home-makers, the dining room is rather a difficult subject to handle satisfactorily with the ordinary financial means at hand.

Usually it is a room of several exits and entrances, with the consequence that its wall space may be rather limited. At the same time, such articles of furniture as the sideboard, the sidetable and the china closet require considerable space against the wall. As a result of these conditions, home-makers often find it difficult to fit their furniture to the spaces at their command.

Of small houses is this condition particularly true. In the nature of things the mistress of a large house, with ample means at her command, may find little trouble in deciding upon a formal arrangement of this room, but the householder of moderate means and good taste sometimes finds the dining room rather a serious problem.

If one starts with the presumption that, irrespective of the size of the room, there must be the usual complement of table and chairs, sideboard and sidetable, china closet and the like, the situation is likely to be hopeless from the outset.

No experienced decorator tries the treatment of a room without first working out a color scheme, and there is no reason why the home-maker should not employ the same plan. By taking a large sheet of cardboard and folding it to represent three sides of the room, the home-maker may make a beginning. The cardboard may be ruled off to show the spaces occupied by doors, windows and woodwork. Then with a case of water colors, the home-maker may experiment with colors and shades till the right combination is decided upon. It is a simple plan which may save final disappointment.

GENERAL WELFARE IN EACH WOMAN'S HAND

"Whoever makes a home more beautiful, more home-like, more efficient, starts the whole community to thinking and building in terms of higher standards," writes Mr. C. W. Fugatey, assistant secretary of the Department of Agriculture, and adds: "The first woman who installs sanitary or labor-saving equipment in her home, to add to her comfort and lessen her burdens, paves the way for the comfort and happiness of her neighbor. In this way the general welfare of an entire community is advanced."

TOILET FITTINGS.
Toilet fittings in ivory and its splendid imitations, in amber, tortoise and silver, are popular.

We Are Helping Hundreds to Make Better Homes

WE WANT TO HELP YOU

Electric labor-saving devices not only lighten the work of the housewife, but they make it possible for her to give more of her time to looking after the family and really making a BETTER HOME.

Every month we are equipping new homes with electric appliances. Not novelties nor extras, but practical, common-sense things that every household should have.

Electric Vacuum Cleaners are a necessity in the modern home. So are Electric irons, Electric Washers, and many other machines that cost a nominal sum and work wonders for the housewife.

We would like to equip YOUR home with these necessary little time and labor savers.

It Pays To Buy Electric Goods At A Real Electric Store

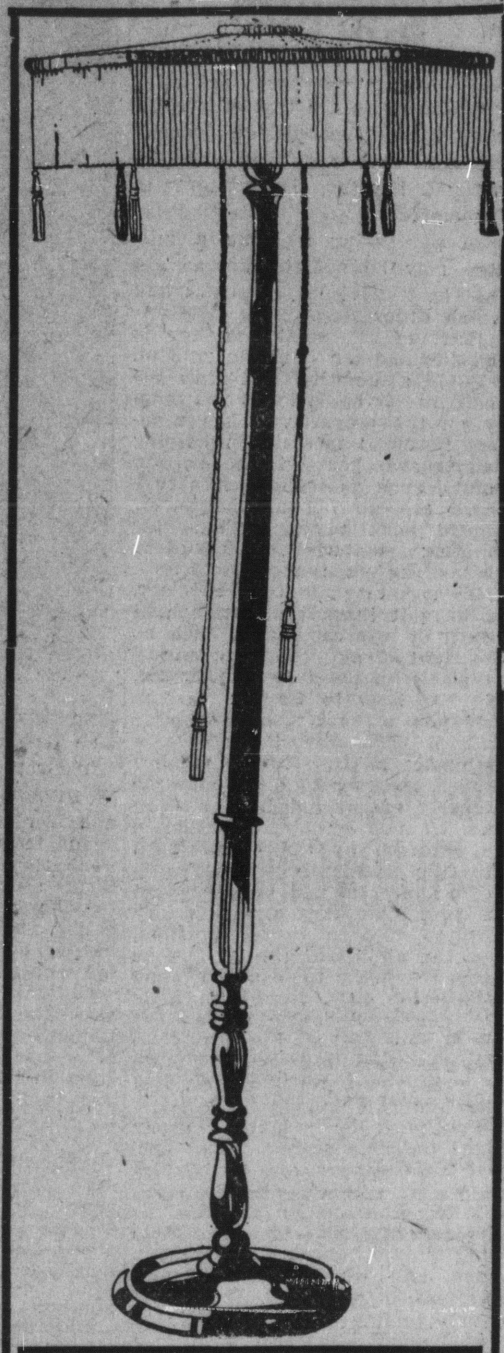

In the past few years we have wired and equipped hundreds of homes and business buildings in this locality. Any of these customers will tell you that our work has been perfectly done. The repairs and alterations in our work are negligible.

This is because we have a real business system of doing things. If it's a wiring job we have a specialist to do it. If it is fixture work we send a specialist to do that. If you want a motor installed we send a motor expert. We do not expect one man to know everything but we DO expect a specialist to know his particular line.

It pays you in three ways to buy electric goods and service at a real electric store like this. Better selections, better service and better prices.

HOUSE OF COMFORT THING OF TODAY

From ages past, the house has nestled into its valley or commanded its hilltop, cozy or stately—a work of art expressing the spirit of the home life of its age. In exterior beauty, modern times have little to add to the friendly thatched cottage of an English lane, the graceful chateau of France at the end of its popular avenue, or the magnificent palace of the Doges in all the cold reserve of its gray granite.

The triumph of the modern home lies in the comfort of its interior.

The picturesque castle of the medieval baron was a bit drafty of a winter evening, the French aristocracy of an earlier age went without what are now considered essentials in plumbing fixtures—even the better home of America a quarter of a century ago was lit with gas and was dependent upon the ministrations of servants to smooth its discomforts.

Our ancestors could command beauty of outline and of texture, well they knew the charm of silhouettes and the lure of the garden way, but the element of convenience is the gift of today.

PICTURES LIKELY TO CONTROL ROOM

Do you know what picture-furnishing is?

It does not mean cramming one's walls full of pictures, but, instead, using a beautiful picture as a keynote to the whole room.

The color and tone of the picture may determine the manner of the furnishings and the scheme of the room.

One-Room Apartment Can Be Made Wonderfully Attractive

In the one-room apartment the question of serving the meals attractively generally offers quite a problem. A gate-leg table is quite often the solution. In this room in which there is quite a Colonial feeling in the background with its white enamel woodwork and its old-fashioned built-in cupboard so reminiscent of early American days, the table is especially good since it carries out the feeling of the Colonial style.

COLOR SCHEME IN HOME IS INDICATED

For the Hall

Walls—Ivory paper or paint.
Woodwork—Paint—dull finish.
Floors—Hardwood—Stained antique oak, finished with wax or varnish.

Floors—Softwood—Painted a deep yellow, or gray, or stained to represent hardwood.

Floors—Linoleum—In a tile pattern of black and white, provided the living room is not directly connected with the hall; in such case use only a plain brown, gray, or Jasper linoleum.

For Living Room

Walls—Ivory, cream or gray—paper or paint.
Woodwork—Ivory paint—dull finish.

Floors—Hardwood—Stained antique oak with wax or varnish finish.

Floors—Softwood—Painted a deep yellow or gray, or stained to represent hardwoods.

For Bedroom

Walls—Corn colored cross-hatched paper.
Woodwork—White, dull finish, paint.

Floors—Hardwood—Stained antique oak, with wax or varnish finish.

Floors—Softwood—Painted a deep yellow, or covered in plain brown, tan, or Jasper linoleum.

Girls' Rooms

Walls—Papered in a soft gray-rose, all-over design paper.
Woodwork—Cream paint.

Floors—Hardwood—Rag rugs, with rose strips or a gray chenille carpet, Softwood—Battle-ship gray paint, with rag rugs or rose chenille carpet.

Boys' Rooms

Walls—Buff-colored paint, or tinted walls.
Woodwork—Stained mission oak or walnut.

Floors—Hardwood floor, strips of coco matting, or wool-branded rugs.

Softwood—a large square of linoleum.

For the Nursery

Walls—A soft, misty, gray paint, tint, or plain paper.
Woodwork—A dull white.

Floors—Plain hardwood, with a rag or braided rug in sapphire blue—or softwood, entirely covered in taupe Jasper linoleum.

SELECTING CLOCK CALLS FOR CARE

There is one bit of house furnishings that is used by everybody old enough to know the difference between 1 o'clock and 3 o'clock.

The article is the clock. No home is complete without a well selected clock, and when one says "well selected" a good deal is said.

"The safest thing to do when one goes to buy a clock," said E. B. Smith, of the firm of Smith and Bishop, "is to ask the advice of some business man who handles clocks and who knows a good clock, a modern clock, from one that is hardly worth buying."

A clock should be selected with reference to the position it is to hold in the room in which it is to be placed. It should be neither too large nor too small to fit into its surroundings.

HEAVY SALES ARE MADE FOR STATE

Heavy selling of the past three years to a new clientele, bids fair to have a beneficial result, for this selling may rigidly be considered the foundation for development of better homes. The well-informed furniture dealer in California, is quite well aware that the greatest field of business lies in fostering the tastes of the ordinary, everyday man and woman rather than in the policy of catering to a small and exclusive minority.

With better understanding of right designs and cultivation of artistic possibilities in the furnishing of homes, it is becoming increasingly clear that moderate-priced goods in authentic style and good color selection, offer the safest middle course in buying and selling. The idea of genuine service and co-operation provides a safe and firm foundation for steady growth of any business.

CONVENIENCE ESSENTIAL.

These are the days when more attention is being paid to the kitchen, especially its arrangement, that 100 per cent service and enjoyment may be had from it and also that the housewife's work and footsteps may be reduced.

GROUPING OF CHAIRS.

Increased charm may be given the living room by careful and thoughtful combining of a variety of styles. This is especially true in the case of chairs.

The water of Lake Geneva rises and falls irregularly, much like the ocean tide.

LIVING ROOM MAY BE FAMILY CENTER

The living room in the American home today is the social center of the family life—the heart of the home. It has taken the place of the old-fashioned parlor and has really become a reception room, probed by the semi-formal furnishings.

While the living room has no set rule for furnishing, it should be so arranged to meet the individual needs of the family which will live in it.

PAINT AND PAPER POWERFUL AGENTS

"The two most powerful agents in making a house over, inside and outside," said Charles F. Mitchell, "are paint and paper. I might add tinting materials, too, but I had them in mind when I said paint. They are used to cover unsightliness in rooms that look shabby for no other reason than that the walls need freshening up."

Anyone who has been in Santa Ana over a month knows of more than one residence that has been transformed in appearance by the use of paint.

The application of paint and paper calls for expert consideration, if one is to get good results. One cannot select either paint or paper with his eyes shut. The blending of colors, the kind of furniture, the amount of light afforded—these are but some of the things to be thought over when one is getting ready to renovate a room.

QUEEN ANNE PERIOD FURNITURE PLEASURES

When selecting furniture for the modern home, especial care and thought are given to those furnishings which will be used in making the dining room attractive. For this room distinction, good taste, style and service are sought in quality furniture.

American furniture manufacturers have sensed the demands of the home owner and are producing modern designs, agreeably adapted, in dining room suites. One of the period styles that have been so treated and which have proved popular with the buying public is the Queen Anne.

Queen Anne design of dining room furniture conforms to present day styles and needs.

WICKER FURNITURE HAS MOVED UP TO WIDER USEFULNESS

During the past few years there has been a marked increase in the popularity of wicker furniture for the American home. And the greater popular favor for furniture of this kind has made it possible for the progressive furniture shop to offer the home furnisher wicker designs of better artistic and constructional merit than ever before.

Today wicker furniture plays an important part in the furnishing of our entire homes; yesterday it was considered correct only for porches and gardens and quite out of place indoors.

STYLE IS SEEN BY PICTURING THIS ROOM

A dining room suite of rare beauty and color, enhanced by exquisite inlay work and marquetrie, whose symmetry and appealing lines are among its attractive features should prove popular. From a craftsmanship and artistic viewpoint this suite is truly a work of art.

Just picture, in your mind, this room: Of two-tone walnut, it is a strictly American adaptation of Hepplewhite in feeling with some of the refinements of the Louis XVI period, especially in the carvings on the legs, charming ornamentation and attractive form.

Beautiful to look upon and admire are these pieces of furniture, because of the changeable colors of the wood grain, especially in the panels which are really pictures produced by the designer's artistry.

The sideboard is a splendid specimen of the best product of the skilled craftsmen of the furniture industry. The panels, designed from burl, reflect the delightful colors of the wood, which is finished in the natural. The inlay work is the highest conception of such ornamentation, seven different kinds of woods being used to produce the beautiful floral effect. The numerous drawers, disclosed on opening the wide doors, reveal the excellence of workmanship on the pieces, the fronts having the same excellent finish as the exterior of the sideboard.

Thoroughness of detail, with a view to effectiveness and without a trace of lavishness, is found in the inlaid fret supporting the apron below the silver drawer and extending to the cabinet side. The inlaid design is a miniature of the others. The rear legs of the buffet are harmonious and pleasing in effect and finish as those in front, a feature found only on quality furniture. The silver drawer is lined with a serviceable and attractive material.

The broad surface of the 72-inch oblong table top, showing an artistic burl, is inlaid around the edges with two lines of dark-er wood, making that piece ideal. The attractive inlay work is carried even to the apron beneath the top, giving another pleasing effect to the suite. The center legs and base assure evenness of the top and ample support at all times. Extra leaves for the table provide for an extra extension of 52 inches.

The chairs are a conception of an old English design and are hand-carved and beautifully inlaid. They have bowbacks, with shield panels containing the same delightful floral inlay work seen on the other pieces, a feature that is instantly appealing to those who seek good taste in furniture and want a dining room suite that is attractive yet dignified. Two of the chairs have arms and all have upholstered

Corner of Morning Room May Just as Well Be Made Delightful

This corner of a morning room and boudoir is delightful. The background—late Colonial style—very refined in detail with its arch topped cupboards and simple and beautiful fireplace, are well held together by the narrow moulding or chair-rail, as it is sometimes called. The arm-chair and ottoman

The china cabinet carries an old-fashioned distinction, is beautifully paneled and inlaid and is provided with shelves which permit it to be used as a linen cabinet should the occasion require. Commodious and serviceable is the serving table, the panels of which show the same delicate shadings and rich inlay work as the larger pieces of the suite. It contains several drawers, the interiors of which are finished the same as the exterior of the piece.

In pleasing contrast to the soft, brown colors of the suite is the golden framed mirror, which has a purely Italian motif. The finely carved leaf and fruit design at the top and sides are delicate suggestions of Chippendale at the time of that early English period when such decorative effects were in great vogue. The beauty of the mirror frame is emphasized by a deep fluting in Italian blue coloring which outlines the glass.

This suite, with its rich colors, inlay work and marquetrie floral ornamentation possesses rare beauty. The workmanship has been so faithfully done that the possessor of the suite is assured a lifetime of satisfied service and admiration from its daily use. Containing a subdued dignity, yet commanding in its form and lines, this beautiful suite is one that would bring grace, distinction and feeling to any home where its beauty would be enjoyed.

CALL OF OUTDOORS GREAT, SAY DEALERS

There are several rooms, the popularity of which are increasing by leaps and bounds—the outdoor rooms which are included indoors, breakfast room, sleeping porch and sunroom.

The "call of the out-of-doors" is strong. The sunroom with its fireplace for chilly days and its windows which range around three walls, catches all the sunlight there is. Soft green curtains which can be drawn to shut out the glare of the sun decorate as well as necessary.

The furniture may be willow and reed—a huge wing chair may be painted a lovely shade of green and brick-red blended, which are repeated in a bold design in the

PAINTED COTTAGE FURNITURE LIKED

Painted cottage furniture has come into high favor in America for the small informal home and in the larger house for the breakfast room, bedroom and nursery. It is a happy sign in the development of house furnishing, as it indicates a design on the part of the home-owner to achieve an intimate, cheerful and decidedly livable atmosphere in the home. It is part of the same tendency that has made porch and garden furniture so popular.

Painted furniture may now be obtained in a great variety of designs and decorated in as many different ways. It is produced in many period forms and in the arts and crafts style. It is enameled in many colors and

GUEST ROOM SHOULD BE GIVEN THOUGHT

Bedrooms whether in suite or consisting of a single room, to be interesting as well as attractive, must be distinctive and individual. More plainly speaking, it should express that individuality it deserves, especially the guest room and more consideration on the part of the mistress of the house than is usually bestowed upon it should be given.

GREAT VARIETY IS SEEN IN SANTA ANA

Never since the making of furniture began has there been so much excellence and variety in workmanship, material and designs, the careful reproductions of the best work of other periods and of the modern interpretation of these as is to be found in the stocks of the Santa Ana dealers today.

DECLARES HOME BACKBONE OF AMERICAN DESTINY

CO-OPERATION URGED

Suggests Lines to Be Followed In Strengthening Its Hold

"The American home is the backbone of the political stability of the nation," is the opinion of the Rev. F. T. Porter, president of the Ministerial Union of this city, pastor of the First Christian church.

"Where the home falls down, society falls down," said the Rev. Porter, in pointing out the importance of maintaining good homes throughout the country.

"Practically all the trouble in society comes from people who have no homes," said Rev. Porter. "It is a recognized fact that people who are interested in homes are the most law-abiding."

The spirit of co-operation and a deeper appreciation of things that are worth while and essential in good citizenship are produced in the real homes of the nation.

"It is said that what you want in government you should put into the schools," said Rev. Porter, "but what you want in the schools must come from the homes, which establishes the fact that the home is the foundation upon which the government is built."

"Obedience, respect for womanhood, and appreciation of law and order are taught in the home primarily. The peculiar position held by the Hebrews is largely the result of their home training."

"Both individual and group success of any kind, is rooted in home training of the right type."

When asked what effect the owning of a home has upon people Rev. Porter said that the possession of a home means that every member of the family works for the improvement and maintenance of that home and thus a spirit of team work which is invaluable in society evolves.

The better the home, the better the home training, the better the individual will be, and the result is directly effective upon national life.

"I can conceive of nothing but chaos, political and social, unless the standard of the home is kept up," said Rev. Porter.

"Yes, indeed, the Ministerial Union is very much interested in

Sincerity and Integrity Marking Business Life

The same standards of sincerity and integrity that make the home an asset to a community make a business firm an asset to its community.

And because they have a sense of responsibility and because they know that business-building, like character-building, is based on fair dealing, Santa Ana business firms have achieved a reputation throughout the county for sincerity and integrity.

Santa Ana merchants believe in the home. As individual citizens they are found back of every movement for the betterment of the home. Whether the movement be for a Y. M. C. A., for Boy Scouts, for a county fair, for improvements in schools, the business men of Santa Ana are to be found ready to give of their time and money for civic improvement.

Santa Ana businesses have been built up on the soundest of sound foundations—the foundation of service and integrity. In that, the personality of the merchants themselves has entered into their businesses. The business life of no city could more completely reflect the high standards of thought toward the American home than does Santa Ana's.

EXAMINE COLORING WITH GREAT CARE

In selecting colors for hangings and the like in a small apartment, do not make the mistake of imagining that, because you have but two rooms, you should indulge in a riot of color. In fact, if the predominating note of color is used in one room it may be carried over into the other with good effect. And last, but not least, remember that the plain wallpapers or painted walls give to small rooms the impression of greater size.

Imitations are always in bad taste.

The windows should be dressed simply and, if door hangings are used, have them repeat the fabrics and tones of the windows.

Small apartments may be made quite as livable as larger ones if proper taste and judgment are used.

SAYS CANDLESTICKS GOOD SUBSTITUTE

There are certain bric-a-brac substitutes which will give real beauty and distinction to any room in your house.

For the living room or library there are wonderful wood, brass or wrought-iron candlesticks. There is the right candlestick for every right kind of mantel.

Better Homes week, and stands back of any movement for the betterment of homes," was Rev. Porter's statement.

MIRROR IS IMPORTANT IN SMALL APARTMENT

Care and some exercise of the artistic sense may have a wonderful effect in enhancing the attractiveness of a little apartment, especially in the hanging of mirrors and pictures.

Mirrors, as everybody knows, have the effect of giving an apparent spaciousness to the room. A mirror well hung is a joy forever. In these days of beautiful mirrors in really worthy frames there is hardly an excuse for a mirror that does not add to the charm of the room.

DO NOT OVERLOAD WITH GIMCRACKS

A mantel never should fall into the category of the old-fashioned "whatnot" and become the receptacle for any article not easily disposed of. Gimcracks should be avoided and it should never become the resting place for a gallery of family photographs.

The mantel, like the fireplace, usually is a dominating feature of the room. Never should it have its significance belittled by making it a catch-all for all sorts of ornaments.

A picture really good, a portrait or a mirror may be used with good effect in the space over the mantel. Other articles of ornament placed on the shelf when the space above it is filled should be chosen carefully for their character and arranged with reference to their shape and number.

FURNITURE MEN ARE HOSTS AT RECEPTION

Hospitality Offered Public In Affairs Freed from Sales Idea

Stores open but not a thing for sale!

In these words, briefly, one may state the happy thought that is to be put into action by Santa Ana furniture stores Wednesday evening of this week.

On that evening every furniture store in Santa Ana is to hold a reception, with everybody from everywhere invited to be present.

The hospitality of the furniture dealers is to be extended to visitors. The desire of the dealers is that by setting apart an evening for the inspection of their stocks, those who desire to look over the displays can do so with the proprietors and the employees of the firm on hand to answer questions without interruptions made necessary by the daily routine of business.

Are to Entertain

Particular efforts are being put forth to arrange to make the evening pleasant. It is proposed to make the reception in every sense a reception. The plan is to separate the store, for the time being, from the sales idea. The proprietors want everybody to come to their open house gathering just as they would if the reception were given in some place other than their stores.

The furniture displays are to be so arranged that they will be attractive. It is pointed out that there is nobody who is not interested in furniture. Even those who are fully satisfied with the furniture they have find a great deal of pleasure in looking over new furniture. There are styles in furniture—and where is the woman who is not interested in styles?

Not to Make Sales

There is to be no effort to make sales. The whole energy of the proprietors of the stores and their assistants is to be devoted to aiding their visitors in looking over articles that the visitors find to be interesting.

Santa Ana furniture men are exceptionally well informed on the goods they handle. They can tell visitors where the various kinds of furniture are made, what methods are used in securing the various kinds of finishes, how and why particular styles have proven popular.

This fund of information will come in for use among patrons who visit the stores Wednesday evening of this week.

Thus, the Wednesday evening receptions of the furniture stores of this city is bound to be a big feature in the Better Home Week demonstration in this county. The enterprise and ability of the furniture dealers assures success for the receptions. These dealers have taken a tremendous pride in building up their stores. They have stocks of goods on hand that are both extensive and complete. They have made heavy investments in order to give their patrons the best there is in furniture, and as a result of their achievements as merchants they are able to offer furniture at prices that leave no reason for anyone going elsewhere for their furniture. The local dealers have made it a distinct policy in setting prices to beat what Los Angeles has to offer.

WINDOW BOX OFTEN BRIGHT AND USEFUL

A window box filled with flowering plants is always pleasing and adds a touch of brightness. Children enjoy planting seeds and watching them grow. Teach children to care for the plants and thus instill into their minds the idea that they have some work to do, making each one feel that he is responsible for a certain portion of the daily routine which you have assigned to him.

TUDOR CABINET IS PLEASING TO MANY

The Tudor cabinet with its artistic and yet plain but not overdone trimming makes an appeal to your artistic sense. Its lines are such that it instantly appeals to you. It appears restful to your eye and that is the success of proper home furnishings.

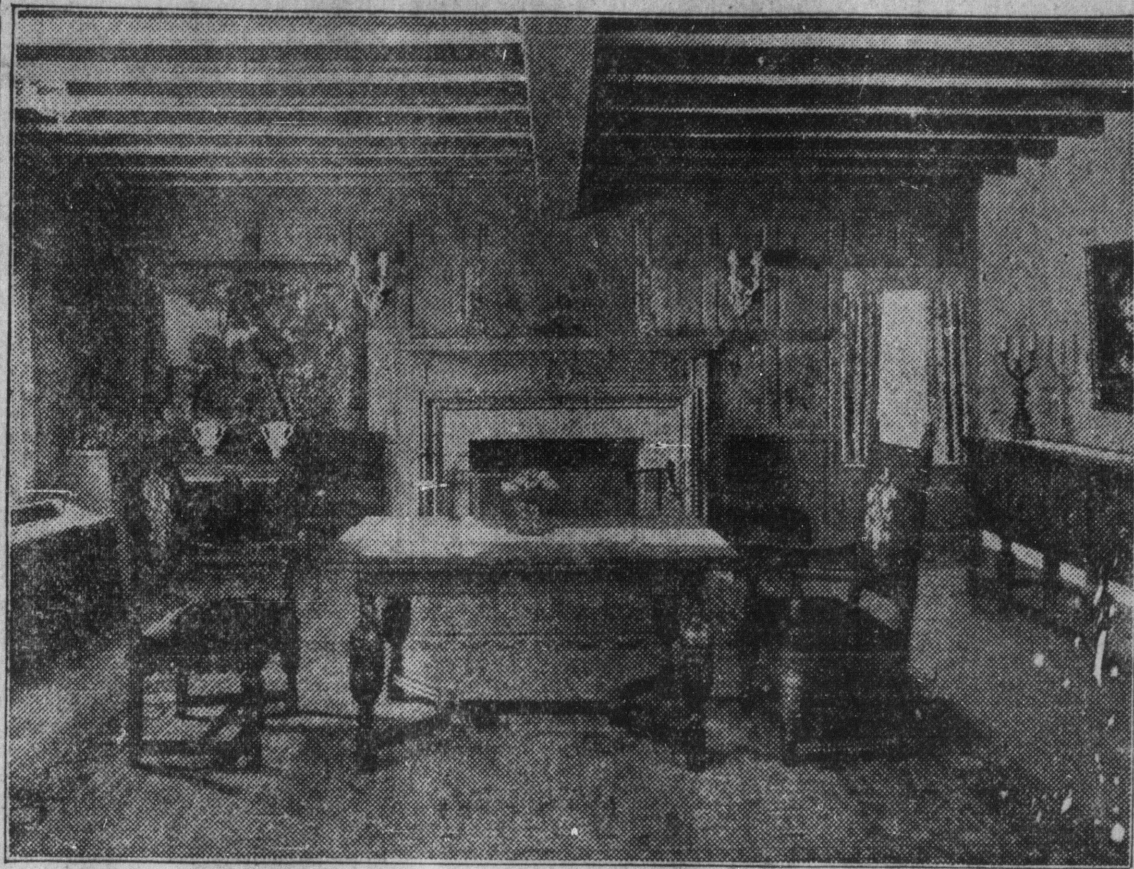

USING BANDANAS IN MANY CLEVER WAYS

Besides being the popular material for hats now, bandanas, handkerchiefs in silks are being used for coat vests and original looking sashes. Often they make smart handbags to be worn with turbans of the same.

WREATH OF ROSES

A wreath of quaintly colored roses, mounted on a silver band, makes a charming headress for a young girl. It affords an expedient way of holding bobbed hair in place in its growing-out days.

Adaptation of Italian Renaissance in Modern Dining-room Proves Attractive and Pleasing

OWNING HOMES BRINGS PRIDE TO CITIZENS

Santa Ana is a city of people who own their own homes.

This has been often pointed out as one of the factors in making Santa Ana an excellent place in which to live.

When a great number of citizens own their own homes, the spirit of civic pride becomes strong, resourceful and enterprising.

In Santa Ana, the ownership of a home has been made comparatively easy. Those who have investigated the matter say that nowhere are there better opportunities for a worthy young couple to make arrangements for buying property than right here. The sentiment of the business firms dealing in home building is strongly in favor of home ownership as a civic virtue.

Santa Ana lumber companies are uniformly back of the home ownership movement, and they are ready with their services in planning of homes. Through their experience in business they are well qualified to give advice, and advice from them has been a bulwark of common sense in home building in Santa Ana.

EYESIGHT ALONE IS REASON FOR CARE

From the hygienic aspect alone and in consideration of the fact that the eyesight is the faculty which most often and most markedly declines with advancing years, the illumination of room should receive very serious and careful attention. For eyes that are tired, softly diffused and restful illumination is most gratifying.

INTERESTING VARIETY; DISTINCTIVE PIECES

To make a bedroom attractive modern and to furnish it at small expense, the present revival of decorated furniture opens the way to an interesting variety of distinctive pieces. Strange as it may seem to those accustomed to turned oak, golden oak, walnut and mahogany, some of the newer styles are black with delicately painted decorations, while others have the ground color gray, pale green, cream, ivory or white.

REED FURNITURE CAN BE COMBINED

Reed furniture can be combined with furniture of various woods, providing the design is rather simple and light.

AMPLE LIGHT SAID TO INCREASE OUTPUT

Tests made on employees working behind clean windows generally reveal a 5 to 15 per cent increase in efficiency. There is no question about the importance of ample light, particularly sunlight, where possible, in the workaday world.

WICKER PIECES WELCOME

Chairs of wicker or reed that can be moved about easily are most convenient. They go well in the informal manner of furnishing in vogue, and they combine well with other pieces.

SECTIONAL CASE ADDS MUCH TO A LIBRARY

No other room in the home offers greater opportunities for the quiet expression of individuality than the library.

It has been said that "a house without books is like a room without windows." Therefore the book case, the real substance of the library, depends for selection partly upon taste, partly circumstances, and partly upon the number of books to be housed. Sectional bookcases enable one to buy from time to time and add more books.

The chairs in the library, regardless of style, must have one property in common—comfort. Probably no other chair is as appropriate for the library as the Morris chair, with its adjustable back and foot rests. Then there are other things needed, such as tables, smoking stands and the like.

The effect of the whole must be perfectly harmonious. There must be no jarring note, no discord to disturb the visual or mental repose, so bear in mind in furnishing the library to create an "atmosphere" that is thoroughly expressive of repose and comfort.

CABINET MAKERS A GREAT AID IN MAKING HOMES DECORATIVE

"Harmonious interior decorative effects in woodwork design cannot be worked out without careful study and application," said Arnold Facou today, one of the members of the Santa Ana Cabinet and Fixture Company, 411 East Fourth. "For this reason," continued Facou, "we always suggest that the effects to be derived are worked out carefully at the time the house is being planned. Mantles, bookcases, stair rails, buffets and all built-in features should be given a great deal of consideration while planning the house so that the result may be one of unity and a harmonious effect."

"We have carefully studied the many styles of architectural decoration and ever since this company was formed we have worked for perfection in this line."

"Starting three years ago, John Hansen, Arnold Lykke and myself opened this business with the idea of specializing on custom furniture. With the advent of the modern home and its many built-in features we turned our thoughts and work to this phase of the wood-working industry."

"We have met with fine success and are proud to have furnished cabinet work, etc., for many of the city's finest new homes, work that not only lends attractiveness but also convenience, a point that should be given a great deal of consideration in home planning. We also specialize on the designing and building of store and office fixtures."

THOUGHT PUT INTO LIBRARY
BRINGS HOUSEHOLDER REWARD

A house without books is like a house without children: one wonders why anyone wants to live in it and questions its right to be called a home. And as the home, in its true sense, exists chiefly as a nest and refuge for the young, so the essential books of the home library are the books that the young folks can read and enjoy.

Individual tastes in books, as in homes—and children—develop with the years. I would no more attempt to select the reading matter for some other family than my own than I would try to choose their children for them. But just as there are certain qualities which we recognize as good or bad in children, desirable or undesirable in homes, so there are certain qualities in literature which we can readily recognize and which make certain books or types of books good and desirable as the foundation stones of the home library.

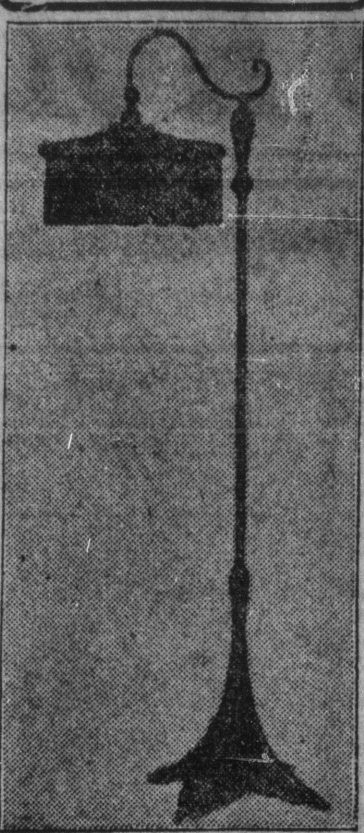

Upon a foundation laid with such materials a structure of beauty, permanence and life-long value can be built. The child surrounded from infancy with books whose pages ring with the gallant deeds of the heroes of all time, glow with warm sympathy for the wrongs of the feeble and oppressed, sing with the lifting melodies that have fired the spirits of men since Homer tuned his lyre, glitter with the fantasies of the unreal world of the imagination that is, after all, so much more real and enduring than most of what we are pleased to call reality, or record the tragic annals of the great souls that have striven and suffered in the service of mankind, has received a heritage that he cannot squander, gained great possessions of which no adversity can rob him.

Effect on Childhood

The child so reared goes forth into the world armed with a certain and discriminating knowledge of the real values of life. He is not easily to be deceived into accepting as permanent the transitory standards of his own times or as true the false perspectives begotten of a restricted and sordid environment. From his youth up he has known familiarly the beautiful and fanciful creations that have stood the test of charming and uplifting successive generations; he is on intimate terms with all the wits and wisdom of the ages. He may be almost entirely lacking in formal education, but with this equipment he meets on level ground the clear-thinking, forward-looking intelligences of the day, sees life's beauty eye to eye with the cultured men and women of his community and discovers a common basis of comradeship with all who hold fast to the eternal truths or find delight in the eternal beauties disclosed and set down in the world's great literature.

This is one of the great values and uses of books, that they make their readers free of all the goodly company of like-minded persons, the world around. For two have read in childhood the same characters of fiction and his story in the same fashion, strikes a chord of mutual sympathy and interest that makes instant friends of strangers from the ends of the earth. And sooner or later, in every home where the parents themselves lived with and loved books, they will accumulate the same books so that the children, too, may learn to know and love the people who inhabit their pages. Next to the thrill of reading "Treasure Island" for the first time comes that of watching your own youngsters, each in his turn, dramatize themselves as Jim Hawkins and sail off with Long

Home's Center

John Silver and his parrot to the island where Billy Bones' clubbish mauls him in repentance for his piratical sins.

"Once-Over" Books

The book that gives no pleasure to the reader is not a book for the home library. It is a task for the schoolroom. That is not the test of the distinction between great literature and the vast output of writing that is here today and gone tomorrow. The latter may, indeed, give pleasure; but unless it gives enduring pleasure it deserves no permanent place on the family book-shelves. Unless, indeed, a book has qualities that lie deeper than the mere giving of pleasure it has no claim to greatness, for such pleasure as it gives cannot endure the test of time. Does a second reading give the same satisfaction as the first? That is a simple test, and the book that does not meet it is not a book to be treasured. The foundations of the home library should be built of books that reveal new truths or new beauties upon each successive reading, revive dying faiths, stimulate flagging enthusiasms, stir afresh forgotten emotions, inspire the weary with new courage, console the bereaved, cheer the despondent, reveal human nature anew in some one of its myriad aspects and transport the reader out of himself, whether by self-dramatization in heroic roles to high adventure on perilous seas or through the portals of memory back to the simpler, happier days of childhood.

Books that will do these things are great literature, even though they may be mere collections of fairy tales. For to do these things, to stand the test of successive re-readings from generation to generation, a book must be the work of a great artist; and all great art, whether of painting, sculpture, music or literature, consists in setting forth the old essentials of truth and beauty in some new and alluring manner. The essentials must be there—essentials of beauty, essentials of truth. And these essentials must pervade and inspire the books that are to form the foundation of the home library.

qualities that make great literature great? Such things as honor, courage, love; devotion to duty, belief in the elemental goodness of humanity, faith in God; justice and mercy, nobility and sacrifice, virtue and happiness; without these cardinal elements woven into the very fabric of the work the book is not great literature. It may serve as a decorative element of the superstructure, but it has no place among the foundation books upon which we are to build not only our home library but the characters of our children.

Now we are getting down to an understanding. These are not "children's books" in the sense in which that term is commonly used—not many of them, that is—but they are books that children will read eagerly once they are given free access to them without being either driven to them as a task or forced to ask permission to read them. Modern book-making has made great strides in the direction of beauty. Artistic and attractive bindings, even in low-priced editions, are the rule rather than the exception. Great painters no longer hesitate to contribute of the art to the illustration of the masterpieces of literature. The modern re-producers of classic literature, the spirit of their work to the printed page. At prices that seem ridiculously low one may buy splendid volumes handsomely printed from clear type on good paper, books that will endure, both as to their contents and their physical selves, to serve the needs of the growing generation and add to the home the other element without which it falls short of its opportunity and its destiny.

Beauty in Books

A book that is too precious for everyday handling may be "a thing of beauty and a joy forever" to its possessor, but it lacks the utilitarian quality that should govern the selection of the particular volumes with which the home library's foundations are laid. Not that these books should not be beautiful; on the contrary, the book that is not in itself a beautiful specimen of the art of the printer, illustrator and binder falls short of serving the great ends of literature by so much as its maker has overlooked his opportunity to appeal to more of the senses than one. Modern book-making has made great strides in the direction of beauty. Artistic and attractive bindings, even in low-priced editions, are the rule rather than the exception. OSAGE ORANGE OR LOCUST

Osage orange and black locust are much alike in structure, strength, durability and color, although the former usually has more of a golden brownish tinge. These two woods can readily be distinguished by the fact that osage orange gives off a yellowish color if wrapped in a wet rag or placed on a soaked blotter, while black locust gives off practically no color under the same conditions.

BRAIDED FUR

Braided fur is one of this season's novelties. Squirrel, mole, seal and other short-haired furs make the background for an elaborate pattern of soutache or wider braid designs.

CHOOSING WALL
FOR IDEAS

"Avoiding showy wall papers" is one of the first things an expert and well-qualified decorator will tell you. Small, conventional designs and neutral shades are always safe. When they are once in place in the room, they will accentuate and set off the colors and shapes of the objects for which they form a background, though they may look deadly in the roll. A mistake can hardly be made by using papers that are printed in imitation of fabrics.

In the selection of paper for the rooms of the home, it is always a good plan to consult some expert paper hanger, giving him the size of the rugs and their color, the wood of the furniture, and so on. Rather than make the mistake of buying paper without reference to the rugs, it is worth loading your rugs and taking them to the wall paper store, or having sample rolls sent to your home before making your selection.

In houses where the rooms are small, the effect of space is best secured by having the paper the same color throughout. Breaking up the line of vision by changes in color gives the sense of smaller space, while on the contrary, rooms papered alike in neutral or small all-over patterns give the impression of size, especially if there are broad openings between them. Extremely large figures should be avoided. If a slight variety is favored, it can be obtained by the use of variations of the same color.

One example is an apartment done in a melting, atmospheric old blue—blue, by the way, is what is known as a "receding color," which gives the effect of space—has silk phlox paper in the formal rooms, chambray in the bedroom and oatmeal paper in the dining room—all in shades of blue.

PACKING SUMMER FURS

Scent the box in which you intend packing your furs with sprays of turpentine or camphor. Or wrap the fur in newspapers.

ELECTRICITY HOLDS
MANY CONVENIENCES

The possibilities of electric comfort are innumerable. Hot water for shaving, milk warmed for the baby, heating pads, sick room call bells and dim lights, warning buzzers when the light has been left on in the basement, front door bells which do not get out of order—the tale is one of the modern age. It is a tale of beauty, but primarily it is the modern message of work more easily and more efficiently done.

COMFORT OF GOLD FISH

On the outside of your goldfish bowl paint the bottom and about two inches above the bottom in dark green paint.

This adds greatly to the comfort of your pets. They will not swim so wildly, but will seek the bottom and rest. Very pretty castles can be built of rough pebbles and cement (choosing a cement that will not be affected by water); projections, nooks and tunnels will be appreciated by the fish; boys and girls, too, will find making them a pleasure.

Now Be Honest!

—Paint, as made by the Green-Marshall Co. is made to wear and you can gamble that their thirty years experience in making paints on this coast insures you complete protection from the elements. The first cost of paint is nothing as compared with the service you get.

Plan Carefully

—to Insure a Better Home

First, your home should be built to suit every member of the family. It should be attractive, convenient. It must be more than a house. From the first day you move in you will want it to be 'home.'

But for a real home you must first consider the house. Find out the most practical method of selection. The proper size, style and materials of construction. Then find out about the materials themselves—know that they are good before you proceed. You will want to build permanently.

For your convenience we have procured a system most convenient to prospective home builders. People who have made use of it have called it the Photograph-Plan System. It gives the photographs of hundreds of homes, the plans, the detailed specification. There is no guess work as to erection of the house or the cost. We would like to have you look over this system at our yard office.

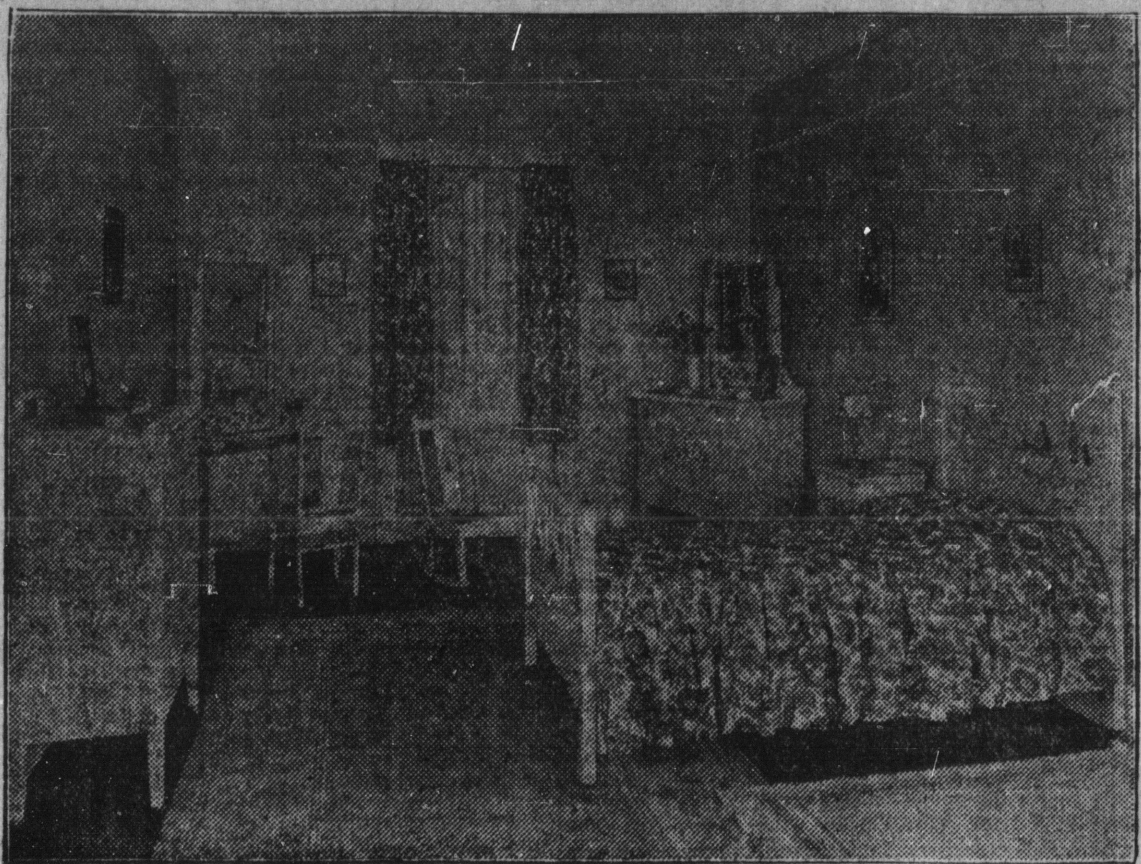

Then we want you to find out about our materials. We are proud every time a load of lumber or a barrel of cement leaves our yard. We know it is going into the construction of a good house. One that you will be proud to know is a "Better Home."

ENAMEL FURNITURE AND PLEASING DECORATIONS MAKE THIS ROOM A WINNER. Do you recall that day when you first had a room in your parents' home that you could call all your own? Your bed! Your dresser! Your room!

READY TO HELP IN MAKING UP THIS ROOM

Glancing back through your memory, you probably can recall many dining rooms which, the moment you entered them, appeared stuffy, overfurnished and falling their mark in having the decorations harmonize with the whole.

By this is meant an overlaid sideboard, a china cabinet filled with everything but what it was intended for, with a few curios or whatnots thrown in. Even the wall paper color was out of tune with the general scheme of things. And then the arrangement of the furniture made you itch to rearrange it.

These are among the pitfalls which must be avoided, and can be, by merely using good judgment. There are more dining rooms overfurnished and overcrowded than there are those which are incomplete.

The amateur house furnisher will do well to move slowly in relying wholly on her own judgment in selecting the furniture for this room in her home, because the sins of commission in home furnishing and decorating are harder to live down than those of omission. Santa Ana furniture dealers and interior decorators stand ready to assist her with their advice, based on experience.

GIVING OF SERVICE IS STORE'S POLICY

R. W. Preston, proprietor of the W. H. Preston and Son Furniture Company, 211 East Fourth street, was today surveying events that have led up to the recent enlargement of the store.

"My father and I," said Preston today, "opened our furniture store at the present address in October, 1909. We had one display room at that time with a stock and assembly room at the rear."

"From the very first it was my father's policy to give the greatest value possible for the money expended and our business was built by customers won in this way. 'After my father's death in 1913,' continued Preston, 'I followed this same policy of merchandising, and what success I have met in these recent years was through the handling of lines behind which I knew I could stand with my personal guarantee. 'A few weeks ago we more than trebled the display space in our store by the addition of an entire second story and a balcony to the main floor. With added room and stocks I feel that we are now better able to serve the public in helping them with their selection of home furnishings.'

EVERYBODY CAN PLAY.

For the man who invented the player piano there are many blessings, for today there is no need for the piano to be looked up in the parlor unused except on special occasions when someone who can play pays a visit.

HOMEMAKERS IN STARTING OUT NEED AID

Many a young married couple makes the mistake of starting in housekeeping on a scale which they cannot maintain. Instead of beginning their married life on a simple basis they attempt to begin where the bride left off. The young husband is eager to prove himself worthy of his bride and to try his mettle by giving her the luxuries to which she was accustomed at home. The result is often disastrous.

Let us look at an imaginary picture of them as they are receiving their friends in their little love nest, just after their return from the honeymoon. The bride is flustered with delight as she shows her friends about. With the greatest pride, she conducts them through the rooms of the new home, furnished spick and span. Her husband wants to show their friends that he has given her a home as good as she left. Neither bride nor groom has learned in the school of experience that a home is not made in a day. Nor do they know the fun of building it up gradually, of dreaming and planning, of saving for what they want, of shopping and bargaining.

After their admiring friends are gone, they settle down to humdrum every-day life, when romance fades away and reality appears. Maybe they are burdened with a debt for equipping the home which they showed with so much pride. It may even be that the bride will have to drop back to her old place in the business world to help make ends meet. They may have to draw on their savings account to settle pressing bills, or even to see the furniture in which they took so much pride taken away.

Buying Piece by Piece
Better is it for them to face the situation squarely, live on a more simple scale and buy their furniture piece by piece as they can afford it, rather than to start out burdened with debt.

The longer they have to wait and plan for their home outfit, the more they will appreciate it, and the oftener their plans are changed, the more satisfaction they will get from their home when finally it is complete.

Comparatively few young married people are able to start with a home of their own in these days of high building costs and land values. That they will have to rent is always a foregone conclusion, and the place they rent will largely determine the character of furniture they are to buy. In some apartments will be found built-in refrigerators, cabinets, bookcases and sideboards, while others will need furnishing complete. There may even be a built-in bed, which closes up into a closet, with a dressing room behind it when it is open. The dressing room may be large enough for a small dresser and for hanging up clothes.

Many Movings Ahead

While these apartments are expensive they should be considered in the light of the small amount of furniture they need. They are an ideal little home while the bride continues her duties in the business world. This is not always an agreeable alternative, but better than that of losing their precious belongings. The furniture of an apartment of this kind may well be mostly of wicker. At any rate, the outfit should be as small as is consistent with comfort, for the couple may have to make several shifts before settling in a home of their own. Each move entails expense for moving and nearly every time there are new things to be bought.

READING TABLE AND SOFA SUGGESTED

To begin with, a perfectly equipped living room requires a large reading table, practically a library table, because such a room frequently serves as a library. A sofa or other large couch of dimensions as generous as the lines of the room and the purse of the home owner will permit.

FOLDING BEDS DATE BACK TO EGYPTIANS

Folding beds are generally supposed to be an American invention. This ingenious plan of economizing room seems a natural development of the modern city flat. Many old persons still boast that such a bed is a new-fangled idea which was unknown in their years. A very serviceable folding bed has just been discovered in an ancient tomb of Egypt, which shows that the invention is at least 4,000 years old and probably much older.

The style in folding beds 40 centuries ago appears strangely familiar. The ancient bed was made of wood and painted. It stood on six legs which were neatly turned, showing that the lathe was in use in those days. The bedstead folded on itself, so that when turned up it took up about one-half the space required when it was open. It turned on a simple hinge which even after 4,000 years is serviceable and works as well as ever. The old bed is very dry and brittle, but is in amazingly good condition, and even the paint with which it was decorated appears still fresh and bright.

The ancient Egyptians thought a great deal of their folding beds. One particular bed, a model about one foot in length, was made to be placed in a tomb. It was selected, along with various other articles of use in the home with the idea that it would be needed after death. It is clear therefore, that the ancient Egyptian was so fond of his folding bed that he did not want to part with it, but hoped to use it in a future life. Certainly the folding bed enjoys no such popularity in this day.

It is significant that this form of bed was found in the tomb of a wealthy Egyptian, probably a prince. It was, therefore, not a piece of furniture used by the poor. It seems probable that it was considered a great luxury in ancient times on which only a millionaire could afford to sleep.

The mattresses and bedding used in this remarkable piece of furniture have not been preserved. From the holes in the frame it might be concluded that it was originally laced with a series of cords running crosswise, similar to the modern cord mattress. The bedding probably consisted of a heavy blanket or roll of blankets laid over the frame and rolled up and put aside when the bed was folded up for the day.

CHENILLE FLOWERS

Chenille flowers trim many of the smartest frocks and hats. Some times these are embroidered directly on the fabric or they may be applied. The more brilliant the colors, the better.

Ice cream is said to have been known by the Japanese in the thirteenth century.

During Better Homes Week Let Us Dry Clean Your DRAPERIES AND RUGS

Carpet beating is as out of date as the Saturday bath. The vacuum cleaner is a great device, but nothing can compare with periodical renovations by the dry cleaner.

Our method of rug renovation not only cleanses, but revitalizes the fibre—raises the pile and gives it the feel as well as the look of newness under the feet.

What is true of rugs is true of blankets, portieres, curtains and various household furnishings.

We not only give them new life but our method destroys any germ life that may lurk in the fabrics.

Save yourself one of the biggest worries of house cleaning by letting our driver call and get the house furnishings that need cleaning.

BUDD COMPANY SEEKS TO SERVE

"We handle lines of home furnishings that have the greatest appeal to the majority of furniture buyers."

This statement was made today by Arthur M. Budd, general manager of the Budd Furniture Company, 406-408 West Fourth street.

"This policy," continued Budd, "has been handed down to me from my father who has many years of experience in the furniture business, having been connected during the past thirty years with some of the largest stores in the East."

"I find, in following this manner of merchandizing, the wisdom of this policy. For instance home furnishings have the advantage of selecting one or two pieces from a suite and adding to it later on as they desire. Another advantage is the continued popularity of a good standard pattern. For that reason we never show 'freak' designs."

"I also always point out the high quality of cabinet work and finish in the lines we handle. We do not endeavor to keep the highest priced furniture but we sell only pieces that we know we can stand behind with a personal guarantee. This same idea is carried out in our full line of merchandise, stoves, springs, mattresses, floor coverings, and other goods."

"We feel that the kind reception we have received since we first opened for business in Santa Ana has been through the public knowledge of our manner of doing business to make friends first, realizing that their patronage would follow."

FASHION WEEK IN APPEAL FOR ALL

Furniture Fashion Week has a vital message for everyone who lives in a home.

It is the triple message of beauty, comfort, and thrift.

The coming week's display in Santa Ana's retail furniture establishments aims to demonstrate the fact that the "home beautiful" need no longer be the exclusive possession of wealth.

Among other things, it will prove that the time is past when attractive results depend upon a person's financial ability to employ an interior decorator, with a free hand in the purchase of the most expensive details to carry out his scheme.

GRASS RUGS IMPROVED

To meet the demand for country home furnishings, grass rugs of American make have been greatly improved in recent years.

CARVED PIECES LIKED

Carved and hand-made chests, sideboards, tables, chairs and other antiques are rightly valued by people of discriminating taste.

SAYS PAINT SERVES FOR TWO PURPOSES

According to C. H. Dahlem, manager of the Santa Ana Paint and Wallpaper store, 312 West Fourth street, good paint serves a dual purpose. "Not only does it serve as a decoration," said Dahlem today, "but really good paint is like buying first-class insurance, for it is a protection against deterioration. Whether to be used outside or in it forms a protective coat that is also pleasing to the eye."

"It will be of interest to note that the Santa Ana Paint store is the oldest established paint house in the city. For the past six years we have handled the well-known line of Bass-Heuter paints, oils, varnishes, etc. These are made by a western manufacturer and are very well suited to western conditions, especially the outside colors."

"We have furnished the paint for over 200 Santa Ana homes in the past year, and our business has kept abreast of the rapid home developments in this city."

According to Dahlem, who has managed the store for the past two years, he has had a wide and varied experience in this business and has followed every branch of the paint and wallpaper business in the last twenty-two years of his experience. This store also handles a complete line of domestic and imported wallpapers.

be primarily educational, displays of goods have been arranged with the idea in mind that vast numbers of people will come to Santa Ana just to look around, to get ideas and to fashion their thoughts upon the improvements that they expect to make in their homes this fall and winter.

"You don't need to bring your purse or your pocketbook with you," is the essence of the invitation that is extended through the Better Homes Week edition of The Register to the men and women who make up the homes of this county. "Step into the stores; look around; make yourself at home."

Purpose Educational. It has been pointed out that a great many housewives have in mind making some changes in their home furnishings.

Curtains are beginning to show age; rugs are showing wear; the couch cover is faded; the dining-room table has been marred beyond hope by hot dishes; the upholstery on some of the furniture appears a bit shabby; the kitchen stove has had its day; the linoleum is worn through; family needs an electric lamp; the cozy corner pillows ought to be replaced with new pillows; the chinaware has been marred and broken, and the set needs to be replaced with a new one.

SOCIAL NATURE OF MAN GUIDES HIM

Man, whether it be his individual desire or not, is a social being. He cannot live by himself alone.

It stands to reason, therefore, that he should not build or decorate his home without consideration of his fellow beings. By making his own life full he equips himself for enriching that of others.

The true spirit of decoration leaves none of these questions neglected.

The eternal quest of the homemaker should be for the best means by which these various requirements can be met.

LAUNDRY MACHINES DRUDGERY RIDDANCE

The old grinding labor of scrubbing over a washboard, turning a heavy wringer or standing for hours over an ironing board with a hot iron is no longer necessary.

Today there are washing and ironing machines offered in wide variety by all the leading household stores, most of which are proving not only a great saving of labor to the housewife, whether she does her own work or hires help, but are also paying for themselves in a comparatively short time.

The next thing to be determined concerns the articles that are to take the place of those that will be discarded. That is a point that cannot always be settled without a bit of an investigation. This week is especially designated throughout the county as a period for this very thing, and Santa Ana merchants are eager to aid the housewife in inspecting new things available for her selection.

GET RID OF USELESS BRIC-A-BRAC, AND SIMPLIFY THE PLACE

The dictionary tells us that there are three kinds of that vague substance known as bric-a-brac. One kind, says the learned dictionary, is "a curious or antique article of virtue," the other kind is "miscellaneous objects of an artistic kind," and the third kind, "odd knick-knacks."

It is the third kind that mostly abounds. The dictionary didn't say that. The writer did. So does everyone who peers into the bric-a-brac, as commonly known, is a drove of white elephants. It comprises anything from a palm-leaf fan, a bunch of waxed autumn leaves, a salted peanut box party favor, a paper weight containing a picture of the last World's fair, or a bouffant-skirted doll to hide the telephone to a rare Ming jar for holding spiced rose leaves.

Unfortunately, the gimcracks are far more common than the Ming. And even such homes fortunate enough to hold the Ming oftentimes spoil the effect by beflanking it with a chaotic mass of other bric-a-brac.

William Morris, who combined the happy knack of being a good poet, and making good furniture, said: "Keep nothing you do not know to be useful or believe to be beautiful."

This rule when given to housewives regarding bric-a-brac should be amended to read, "and don't keep too much of that."

Modern ideals are making the kitchen more sanitary. The latest appliances for reducing the routine work, making things more handy and accessible and permitting greater cleanliness in the preparation of foods, are daily appearing in the home-furnishing stores.

GO TO PRIMITIVE RACES FOR IDEAS

It is said that the fad for batik is rather a return to primitive design than the creation of something new in the textile line. It is proved by old archives that the ancient Egyptians used a process similar to batik to color a fabric which was their cretonne. In connection with this subject, it is interesting to know that the curators of the Field Museum of Natural History in Chicago say there is a tendency today among designers and textile manufacturers to go back to the decorative motifs of primitive races for ideas, rather than slavishly to follow European ideas. In fact, the museum maintains a collection for this purpose.

GREATEST LATITUDE ALLOWED IN BEDROOM

In the fitting of bedrooms great latitude is permissible and desirable than in any of the other rooms of the house. Such apartments, whether on suite or consisting of a single room, to be interesting as well as beautiful, must be distinctive and individual.

To the American home owner who wants a Spanish touch, something out of the ordinary, in one of his rooms the popular Castilian type dining room will appeal.

NEWLY-WEDS LOOK OUT FOR FURNITURE

The newly-weds may be in a position to rent and furnish a five-room flat or part of a double house. We have seen that getting things little by little is the wiser course, but all of us are not wise. They cannot see how they possibly can wait a year or two for the things they want so much, and the probability is that they will go on and buy at the risk of making the many mistakes of hasty choice.

The five-room apartment or house always includes a bath and sometimes a sun parlor, in addition to living room, dining room, kitchen and a bedroom, or combined living and dining room, kitchen and one bedroom. If the walls are already papered it is to be hoped that the paper is not too atrocious. Visualizing furniture with the "at home" feeling is utterly impossible with furniture of this kind. However, many apartments are decorated in good taste.

Usually a house or apartment of this kind will be fitted with a fireplace of some kind, and to balance this, on the other side of the room should be bookcases or a small table or desk. A very livable aspect is given if a large, softly upholstered davenport faces the fireplace, with a long table filled with books and with a lamp at either end placed just back of the davenport. These pieces will be the center of interest of the room. If the young people are averse to the davenport, chairs beside a table may take its place, comfortable for reading or sewing.

Placing of Furniture

The large pieces of furniture are the necessary ones and the first to be obtained. Smaller pieces fill in the gaps and give the room its "homey" look. Place bright bits of furniture in the dark places, as a dark piece will be lost to view if placed there.

A maxim for better homes is: "Better to leave a place empty than to have a badly placed or poorly selected piece of furniture fill it." Better empty spaces than golden oak atrocities selected from a catalogue. Stop-gaps and makeshifts are often used to fill spaces till the time arrives for buying a really good piece of furniture.

Dull oak is preferable to mahogany for the dining room unless the room is formal. So much bedroom and living-room furniture is mahogany that it is a relief to have something else in the dining room.

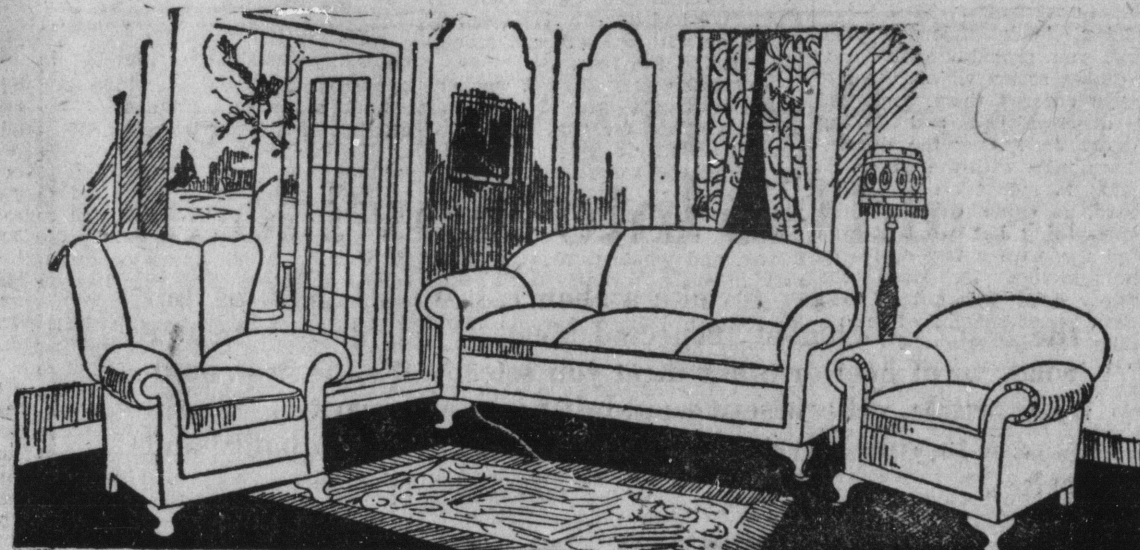

If economy must be practiced, it is better to begin with the bedstead. A good comfortable mattress and springs are necessary. While the couple is renting, plain, simple metal beds are most satisfactory. One point in their favor: they bear moving better. When a change is desired they can be sold easily. A nightstand at the head of the bed is necessary for a light, a tray or water pitcher.

HOME IS THE MOST PRECIOUS WORD IN THE LANGUAGE

You may have a mansion, but if it is not furnished with the small refinements, it is not a home.

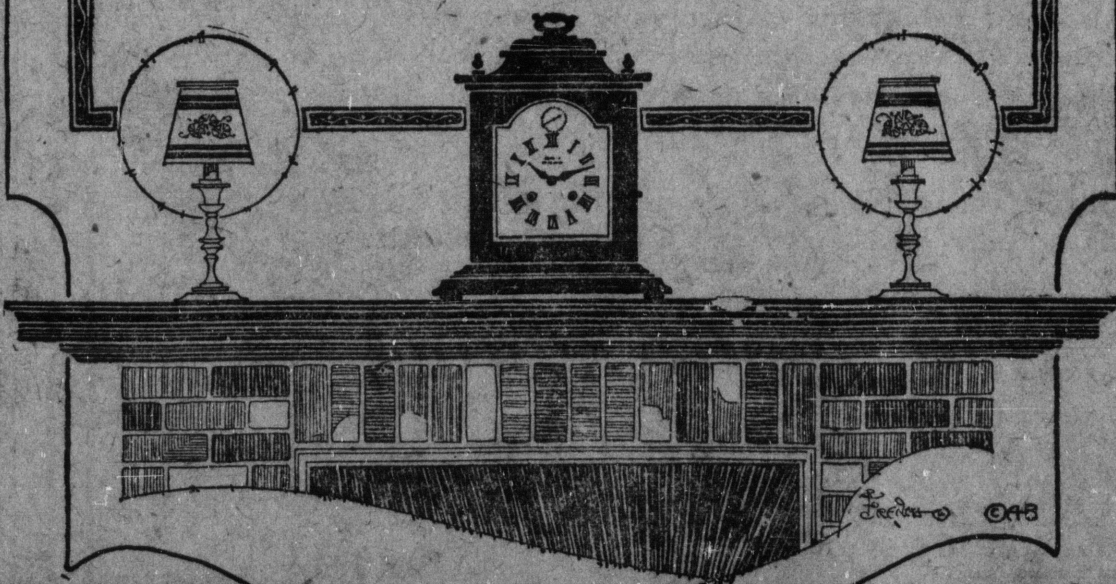

The family silver has always occupied a place of honor by its appreciated usefulness, beauty and durability. It is the symbol of refinement, of culture and of good breeding. It comes first in the list of wedding gifts. It is the last possession poverty will give up. Home without table silver is unthinkable.

To own a beautiful set of silverware is fundamentally a duty we owe to our family.

Let us suggest that you choose from the many new patterns in well known, trustworthy, lines we now have to offer. We will be able to help you select the article that best suits your requirements.

ORIENTAL RUGS ARE WOVEN IN MYSTERIES

The fairy tales of the Western world have magic steeds whereon the fairy princess or brave prince is spirited away to fair realms. But the old legends of the spicy Orient have their rugs. There is absolutely no limit to what these rigs of age-old lore could do. They could fly like a bird, talk like a human, reveal hidden treasure and bring happiness ever after.

There is a reason for all this. The rug has always had some part in every happening of the Oriental's life. It plays its part in his domestic, religious and state life. The uncouth barbarian nomad wove his rug in his mountain tent. He spoke the story of his whole life through its glowing warp and woof. Often he would arise from his weaving to peer at the craggy ledge for an enemy, and returning to his work he wove within his pattern his vision of the enemy waiting among the rocks below.

The Persian in his adobe hut told the story of his fighting ancestors, of mythical winged horses and gardens of golden fruit.

The Turkish girl wove a rug as a dowry for a husband. Her pattern told of her girlhood and her fears and dreams for the life before her.

And all the Orientals, Persian, Chinese, Turkish, Kurd or nomad, wove their prayer rugs. They put within them all the flowing colors and rich threads that they could find or money could procure. Dearest gift was it for one to take to the sacred prayer niche a rug put to shame by all the others.

Prayers Shaped Rugs
The shape of the various Oriental prayer niches accounts for many differences of shape in the rugs. The buyer of the Oriental prayer rug can know from just what part of the Orient his rug comes by comparing the outer corners with the prayer niche architecture of the shrines to Buddha or Mohammed.

The beauty of color and design of the true Oriental rugs justifies anyone who can do so to buy one for his home. But a knowledge of some of the real meaning of the rugs makes it a much greater treasure.

For instance, did you ever hesitate to buy a rug, guaranteed as an Oriental, because of some imperfection in the weaving of the design? The imperfection was intentional. It was the voice of the one who wove it ages ago speaking down through all the centuries to say "Nothing but Allah is perfect."

Did you wonder why the Arabian rugs were so full of flowers—lotus, iris, lily, poppy and rose? It is because to the Mohammedan paradise was a place of flowers and his rug spoke of his future dream.

Did you note the gorgeous birds and animals of the Persian and Chinese Orientals and wonder why the Turkish designs were so bare of living designs? It is because the Turk's religion barred him from making any reproduction of a living creature. That was idolatry.

Language in Color
There is a very language in the color. Green meant immortality to all good Mohammedans. Red is joy. Blue counteracts evil. Even today strings of blue beads are seen hung about the necks of donkeys in the narrow streets of Bagdad.

Blue abounds in Persian and Chinese rugs. To the Chinese it means truth. To the Persian, air, to the Mongol, power, also.

Chinese rugs glow with yellow and golden tints. That means royalty.

But the buyer of Oriental rugs should know other things besides how to interpret the meaning of design and color. In the first place, he should know that a real Oriental antique is a very rare article, and more than worth its weight in gold.

The nouveaux riches of the war-millionaire period were easy marks for the fraudulent antique rug dealer. It was only necessary to dip a newly made Oriental into a chloride of lime wash and ask a millionaire's price for an "antique." Since the war it has become surprisingly difficult to find even many modern Orientals. The mother source has almost dried up, temporarily at least. Certain American factories have gone into the making of Orientals. If the color and designs are copied accurately, there is no reason, barring one of sentiment, why these rugs should not have a great success.

In buying the Oriental there are certain earmarks to look for. First of all, remember that good material comes first, dyeing second, and good workmanship third.

EDGAR REVIEWING HIS BUSINESS HERE

According to George A. Edgar, merchant at 114 East Fourth street, who for nearly forty years has spent his whole time serving the public with high grade stocks of food delicacies, china and pottery, there is nothing which adds so much brightness and cheerfulness to the home as appropriate china and glassware.

"For many years," said Edgar, "nearly all of my really fine china and glass was imported, and although today you will find many pieces on my shelves which I have gone to foreign markets for there is a trend more and more to the products of American artisans. Possibly we have not as yet developed the skill of the Europeans in the manufacture of elaborate pieces but the simple designs and beautiful colorings of our domestic product is having a great influence upon the style of china today."

"Colored glassware has been brought up to a very high standard of artistic design by American workmen and many pleasing decorative schemes may be worked out with the application of this colored glass in the dining-room."

In china and pottery dealers here look for artistic pieces that will be a delight to the housewife. At the same time they fully realize the wisdom of carrying complete sets in the most artistic and highest grade china the world produces."

OF HUNTER'S GREEN

There's something reminiscent of the Alpine hunter in a green felt hat with a tiny rolling brim outlined with black velvet and three quills, shading from gunmetal to pearl gray, placed at one side of the crown.

A Showing of Fine China

"—But buy now!" says George Edgar, "With the present outlook we will not be able to furnish complete dinner sets in sixty days at the very latest. Curtailed production is going to work a hardship on those who wait too long. Again I say, buy now!"

You will find in George's Stock:

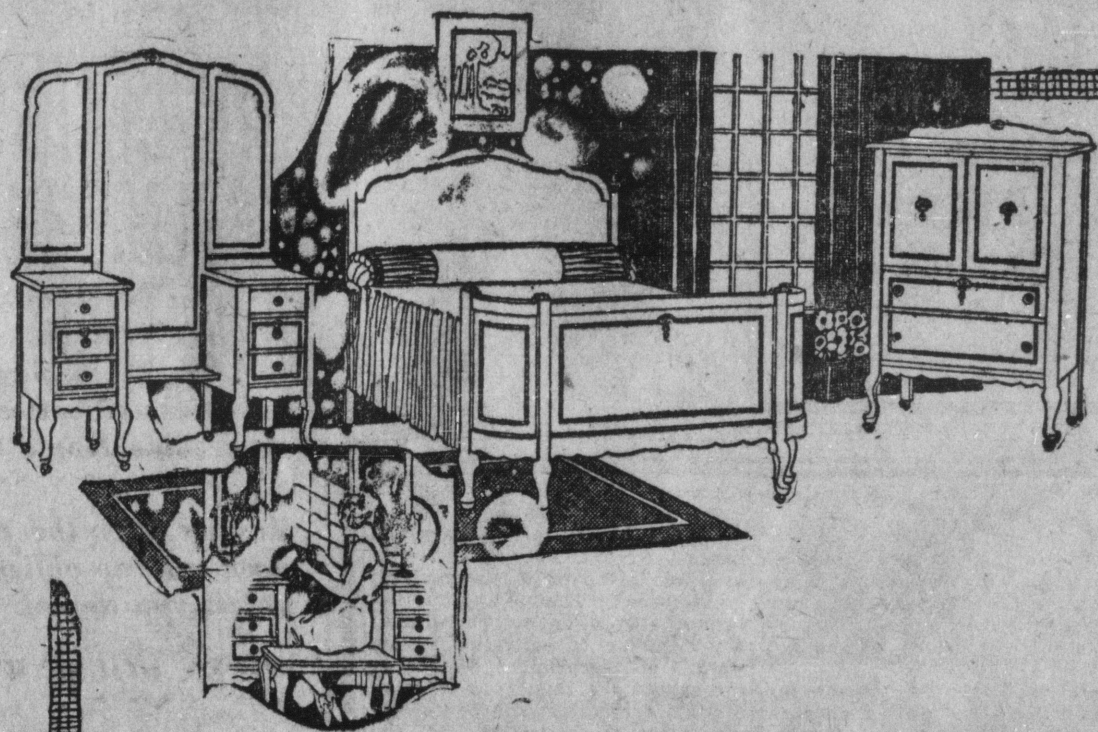

White Ransom Haviland Dinner Ware.
Five open stock patterns of Nippon China, beautifully decorated.

Table Ornaments, Vases, etc.
English Semi-Porcelain Ware.
Exquisite Cut Glass Pieces.
Nut Bowls, Imported Pottery.

Style in Furniture is Not a Matter of Cost —But Merely of Selection

To Furnish a Home in all that the words mean, has been the aim of the Clausen Furniture Company ever since its beginning. To Furnish, rather than merely equip, with chairs, tables, beds, etc., of a kind—that is our purpose.

At the same time there is no greater price placed on the things we sell than is placed upon goods less deserving of your consideration. Knowing where to buy and how is one of the biggest reasons why we can do this.

This Home Furnishing Store at 410 West Fourth Street with its extensive showing of medium and high-grade furniture, invites you here to look, to study, and to profit.

RIBBONS ARE FOUND EXTENSIVELY USEFUL

Ribbon is used extensively in furnishing winter frocks. Sometimes it is woven into girdles with long ends fastening directly in front. Frequently it is made into a full rosette resembling corsage with long falling, knotted ends. This is usually worn at the side front.

MAKING UNUSUAL CUSHION
If you have a quantity of silk which you can use no other way, cut it in strips and braid it as you would for rag carpets. Let the colors come together in any way they will and then tack the braids circularly on the pillow top which you have made of ordinary muslin or lining. The result is a rather richly colored, heavy looking cushion.

MODERN FURNITURE FOLLOWED BARONS

The story of modern furniture rightly begins with the crumbling of the Middle Ages. The baronial hall stage, with its religious formality, combined with its rugged simplicity, was being followed by a more domestic and luxurious life. As always, this was reflected in the furniture. The strong and simple high and narrow Gothic style, with its characteristic pointed arch, began to be debased. France is said to be the first country to be influenced by the Italian Renaissance, but there the Gothic and the classic clashed.

Do Not Put Too Many Articles on Your Sideboard or Buffet

© GFS. AMERICAN HOMES BUREAU

HERE IS A GOOD EXAMPLE

Have you ever gone into a home, been a guest at a repast, and had that enjoyment rudely disturbed by seeing the manner in which the sideboard or buffet had been made a "catch-all" for everything that was not really needed in the service of the host or hostess? Here are some helpful don'ts to lead you away from this common error: Don't overcrowd this piece of furniture. Don't litter it with a confused assemblage of silver, candelabra, toasters, decanters, bowls and trays.

Don't put on it what can be placed in cupboards or the china cabinet. Don't arrange it so that its serviceability is lost. Now here are three principles that may well be followed: Put only a few things on the sideboard, or buffet. See that they are appropriate for the purpose and suit the style of the particular sideboard upon which they are to be placed. Preserve a due relation between the scale of the sideboard and the scale of the objects that are to go on it.

TO CLEAN AND POLISH BRASS

Brass is a combination of two metals, copper and zinc. The best polish, but the hardest to obtain, is obtained by long rubbing with a mixture of rottenstone and linseed oil. This type of polish is soft and does not tarnish readily, but it is hard work to obtain. A quicker polish, and brighter one, can be obtained with the meat polishes. Brass bedsteads that have been lacquered can be cleaned at home if you will first remove the lacquer with alcohol.

MUSIC CLAIMS BIG PLACE IN HOME TODAY

A few years ago the phonograph field was virtually in the hands of a half dozen manufacturers, due primarily to the fact that these manufacturers had a practical monopoly on basic patents, covering machine and record manufacture. About 1915 some of the principal patents expired, and the mechanism became public property. The result was a rush of new manufacturing concerns into the market. During the last five years several hundred new makes of talking machines have come out, the majority of them simply assembled parts bought in different places. There has been a constant shifting among these concerns. In what direction the industry will move, only the coming years can determine. The phonograph no longer is considered a novelty or bought as a toy for the passing moment. It has a recognized service to perform, and is gradually working its way into a permanent place as a music-making instrument for the home. Of course, it is largely a matter of supposition what direction the rapidly increasing taste for good music will take. At present it looks as if appreciation for good music is increasing more rapidly than ability to produce good music. The outstanding fact is that if a family wants to hear certain music it can get it.

OLD ENGLISH HOME STYLES HERE TODAY

In many of our homes of the present day we are going back several centuries for our decorative motifs. The English home of that period had many comforts, yet still retained many rugged and sturdy features that are refreshing to us today. These features are being adapted to our modern homes and into interiors of this type we are putting the furniture of the late Seventeenth and early eighteenth centuries, when walnut and mahogany were first being used. The effect produced is decidedly agreeable. A refreshing, yet severe, interior is given a kindly and hospitable atmosphere by the furniture.

CONSIDER COLOR SCHEME EFFECTS

Have the decorations harmonize with the general color scheme. If these present a problem consult a home decorator who may always be found a necessary part of the up-to-date furniture store. Wall treatment should be carefully considered, especially above the plate rail, if one is used. Window hangings should be plain-toned in some instances and subdued in others, while sunny rooms will permit the brighter but not gaudy colors being used. PAINTED DECORATIONS A gown of white chiffon, designed for a young girl, is made with a close bodice and a very full skirt. About the waist and hemlines are painted designs in blue and pink, beaded in silver.

HARMONY, SIMPLICITY AND RESTFULNESS SHOULD BE AIM IN HOME: HERE ARE HINTS

The following "hints" are to guide "wise" people who would care to make their "Homes" more beautiful and individual.

'Tis strange that so many merely follow a hit or miss arrangement of important things in a home—and stranger too that they call it art.

This is mostly due to haste in thought and also due to "imitation" of store arrangements which cannot and which do not attempt to "educate through arrangement" of their articles for sale; also, due to lack of proper knowledge of art laws which control very fine arrangement. Therefore, the "hints" are short, definite, terse, reasonable and practical. Follow them and gain more harmony, simplicity and true restfulness in your home, with beauty as a goal. Let art serve in that it makes things useful through appropriateness!

- Wall Coverings
1. Wall papers are backgrounds and should be quiet in tone and color.
 2. Big spots or units in backgrounds "force" themselves too much and are annoying and unrefined.
 3. Flowers in realistic form are not suitable in wall papers. Place them in gardens or vases.
 4. It is not always desired to have plain papers. Charming patterns in small effects and low tones are splendid for darkly lighted rooms—never sacrifice "spirit" for too much art—but keep sober and restrained in backgrounds.
 5. Avoid stripes in great widths as contrary to rest, unless room is very low—then stripes (two tones) will seem to heighten room—because of motion of eye traveling "up and down."
 6. Avoid heavy borders, friezes, etc. They seem to bear down on your head.

- Floor Coverings
1. Rugs are for feet to walk upon. Avoid faces, beautiful flowers, graceful dogs, wild glowering animals, peaceful plenty scenes, reproductions of great paintings.
 2. All plain rugs are not suitable for all conditions. Select small "all over" patterns if desired. One real Oriental rug is economy in the long run! Select copies of good designs.

- Furniture SHOULD BE:
1. Appropriate for its real use.
 2. Well made, simple in line, without much decoration if in a grained wood.
 3. Carefully selected to last a lifetime and can be if art laws are followed and not freak ideas put into wood and canoe. AVOID

1. Fantastic curves in chairs.
2. Elaborate, artificially carved pianos.
3. Erratic, curved rocking chairs which seem to invite by the spasmodic of the back.
4. Highly polished tables and chairs—for they will confuse your "rest in tones" if nothing else.
5. Animal claws in realistic form on legs of chairs, tables, cabinets, etc. Why not make chair entirely like a real animal?
6. Intensely brilliant upholstery unless sure of art principles. Keep to two or three tones in coverings.

- Draperies, Curtains
1. Should be the activity spots (with pillows, pottery—accessories) of rooms. More brilliant colors than in wall coverings or rugs may be used here.
 2. Big units and daring effects unless in spacious rooms.
 3. Stiff (starched) effects in drapes. Nets and silks in various weights hang gracefully when placed correctly.
 4. White lace curtains. White is a sanitation effect and not a color and is not in harmony in most rooms excepting bedrooms and bathrooms.
 5. Over drapes are charming even if of cheap material dyed and plaited or shirred!
 6. Covering windows entirely over. It looks secretive, exclusive—and keeps out the glorious light and sunshine.
 7. Portieres or door curtains are "color echoes" of furniture covers, etc., and because of being large spaces ought not to be over decorated. Keep to plain tones with an enriched border to appear to carry weight to floor.

- Lighting Effects
- The eyes should not be strained. AVOID
1. Any open light as an uncovered oil lamp, gas light or electric light bulb.
 2. Echo your brilliant color in shades.
 3. Fantastic and grotesque effects in lamp shades. Landscapes and faces and fruit and flowers in realism! A few cents and a few sense will furnish lovely, beautiful, and effective lamp shades that will be admired.

1. Indirect lighting is good for any room where there is visiting.
2. Side lights are more artistic and are for more formal rooms.
3. Library lamps and living room light should give light to read by and beautiful effects to look at.
4. Floor lamps placed by pianos or over two chairs (if not over decorated in all nationalities style of art) are very appropriate.

Mantelpieces—Mantels, Etc.
The house is not a restaurant with mirrors to reflect so as to seem to enlarge the size of the room, but an artistic abode. The modern mantel does not include a mirror.

- AVOID
1. Placing many objects on mantels—Have possibly a "center of interest" and balance!
 2. Lamberkins in drapes—"dust catchers." A plain lambertina might cover an old mantel.

Picture Don'ts
The heart and intellect of the home! Should be arranged simply and in groups. A wall may be spoiled by merely "putting" pictures up.

- AVOID
1. White frames.
 2. Brilliant gilt frames.
 3. Crayon portraits.
 4. Cheap subject pictures.
 5. Oval and diamond-shaped frames.

Study the following very carefully—

Change Now!!

The interior of the home is the seat of the real problem, the place where the fine restraining hand of the home maker must have free play. The artistic arrangement of a home is a problem in design which calls for the practical application of principles of beauty to the most familiar details of domestic life. The furnishing of a room must be neither accidental nor temporary. In spite of changing styles or fancy, there must be a permanent value in the things selected as well as underlying principles of art in arrangement. Four essential things are to be considered in the arrangement of every room:

- 1—The center of interest.
- 2—The arrangement of the furniture.
- 3—The balance of pictures with empty wall spaces.
- 4—Harmonious color.

Living Room
In the living room, the idea must express in a concrete way the comfort, the rest, the hospitality of the home. With chairs and tables and books convenient but never in the way, with the ruddy glow of a fire, with pictures hung neither too high nor too low, this room must give a sense of neither emptiness nor overcrowding. It is the place for good comradeship as well as for privacy, a place to rest in, to work in, and to play in, a place which one leaves with the desire to return.

Dining Room
In this room the actual necessities ties are the table and chairs. A sideboard, a buffet, or a sewing table add much to the appearance and comfort of the room. There is greater unity in dining room furniture than in that of other rooms because there is but one definite purpose in the room. This room also should be light, airy, and cheerful, and should express hospitality.

Bedrooms
The bedroom is the place where liberality of mind and character are displayed. It is the place where directly personal things may be kept, such as photographs, crayon portraits, keepsakes, and all those things which relate directly to the sentiment of the occupant and which have little interest to the casual guest. No person of fine taste will have articles that are conspicuous and crude in this, the most intimate of all rooms in the house.

Love your art. Feel things and cherish them, but do not sacrifice a fine arrangement for a mere display of all your interests at once. The Japanese show an object in an exquisitely simple environment, one at a time! Make your home home-like through sense and simplicity—not an elaborate museum.

COMMENTS ON PART MUSIC PLAYS IN THE HOME OF TODAY

Music is essential to home life, according to C. S. Crawford, proprietor of the Orange County Piano company, 309 West Fourth street. In an interview today Crawford went on to say, "Particularly in a home of culture or where there are growing children music plays a very important part; also too much stress cannot be laid upon the character of the music."

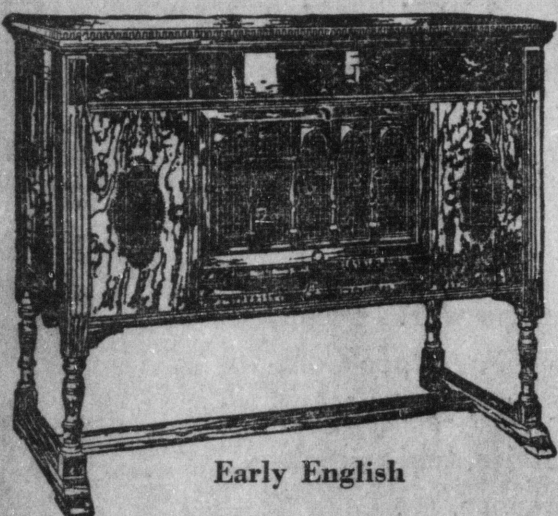

"In handling the Fitzgerald Music company's line of pianos we have brought to Santa Ana instruments that are unequalled as to workmanship and tone, the same line that has been so well received by Los Angeles music lovers through the Fitzgerald company in that city. This line comprises the Knabe, Mehlin, Haines, Behr Brothers pianos and also the well known Ampico Reproducing Piano."

"In addition to this we are distributors for the Cheney Phonograph, an instrument that was introduced on the Pacific Coast a comparatively short time ago. Through its beauty of design and finish and the wonderful tonal qualities it has met with instant praise from all who have heard it. The cabinet work is from one of the country's largest manufacturers of high grade furniture, the tone effect is gotten through several practices that are departures from ordinary phonograph construction. One in particular is the violin-wood horn and its manner of suspension whereby it is free to vibrate, bringing out many of the overtones lost in some types of reproduction."

UNUSUAL FROCK
A blue serge frock, cut on delightfully girlish lines, with the waistline at the normal place, is trimmed only with diamond-shaped medallions of black silk braid and a sash of American Beauty-colored georgette.

The CHENEY "The Master Instrument"

—Makes Any Home A Better Home

Early English

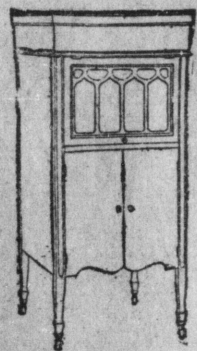

—We Have a Cheney to Suit Your Home

—The Cheney with its handsome cabinet work and superior manner of tone reproduction is the ideal instrument for your home. There is a style to suit every taste, and a price to suit every purse.

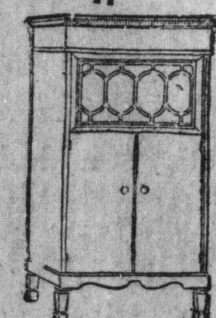

—As to design; the cabinet work that makes the Cheney such an attractive piece of furniture, blending with any decorative scheme, is from the shops of one of the country's most famous manufacturers of high grade furniture.

—As to tone: The manner of tone reproduction is so perfect that overtones, often lost in the ordinary instrument, are brought out beautifully. Radical departure from ordinary practice spells this success. You hear the Cheney's music not the machine. Words will not express the harmony that issues from this superlative instrument. You must hear it to appreciate it—in the restful environment of our demonstration rooms.
